Lambs in London.
Another Baconian.
Varnish Drinkers, Beware.
An Unguarded Guardian.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

OUR innocent lambs will soon be in London discussing naval limitations with British and other statesmen.

Meanwhile the French include in their budget provision for a total navy of 800,000 tons. France doesn't waste money on battleships, mere targets for airplanes.

The French 800,000 tons will consist of auxiliary ships, 10,000 ton cruisers, smaller ships and submarines included.

BRITAIN not to be outdone, or equalled, in fast commerce-destroying ships by any European power will outbuild France, and the naval limitations conference promises to be a joke.

We could save money by staying home and making our own plans for our own needs.

MR. MORGAN, of California, is returning from England with "overwhelming proof" that Bacon wrote the plays credited to Shakespeare.

On the way Mr. Morgan might read the critical study of Shakespeare by the Danish author, Brandes.

He says truly that whoever asserts that Bacon wrote Shakespeare simply proves that he, himself, has never intelligently read either Bacon or Shakespeare.

THOSE in the habit of drinking bootleg liquor, made by redistilling varnishes and lacquers, take warning.

Prohibition authorities learn that many varnish factories are bootleg institutions disguised.

Hereafter, every 100 gallons of alcohol supplied to paint and varnish makers must have added four gallons of deadly wood alcohol and 10 gallons of other poisons.

Prohibition agents believe this will discourage bootleggers. It ought to discourage their customers.

SENATOR WAGNER, of New York, says prohibition is a failure "because it has not gained a place in the public's conscience."

Prohibition hasn't even gained a place in the conscience of some gentlemen on prohibition's payroll.

FOR instance, on Sunday in Pawtucket Cove, an individual staggered on the deck of the rumship Black Duck, brandishing two revolvers, threatening spectators. Presently he fell, breaking a bottle of whisky in one of his pockets, soaking his clothes in alcohol.

He was a member of the Coast Guard, on prohibition duty, supposed to be guarding the cargo of the rum ship.

THIS country is prosperous, full of opportunities. But many of us reach old age poor. A careful survey shows in the United States 2,000,000 individuals, past 65 years of age, dependent for support on others.

Save while you have strength. "The hateful road of old age," as Hector's father called it, is bad enough at best.

J. S. McCULLOH, head of the big telephone company in New York, says his state alone, will spend $120,000,000 this year on increase of plant and improvements. The "A. T. & T." covering the whole country under the management of Mr. Gifford, will spend this year $700,000,000 on expansion and construction. That is real business.

A STRANGE thing happens in Great Britain that never happened here. One newspaper editor and owner booms another for the highest position in the country.

Lord Rothermere, brother of the late Lord Northcliff, owner of the Daily Mail and other newspapers, suggests for prime minister Lord Beaverbrook, owner of the Daily Express, the Mail's chief competitor.

LORD BEAVERBROOK demands free trade throughout the British empire, all the dominions, trading with each other and the mother country, with no custom house restrictions.

Rothermere approves.

IT WOULD be pleasant for British industrialists if they could ship manufactured goods, tariff free, into Canada.

But the Beaverbrook plan ignores human selfishness.

ROBERT GRAVES, British poet, who was an officer in the big war, publishes startling war reminiscences.

He says British officers in the trenches were generally stupid and drunk, and British soldiers had more respect for the Germans than for the French.

Also so-called "atrocities" have been much exaggerated. But there was frequent killing of captured enemies.

They were killed some times to avoid the nuisance of taking them to camp, some times to avenge friends killed in the war, and one time through cowardice, fear that the captive might free himself and kill his captor.

PEACE UP TO ARMS MEET —HOOVER

Naval Conference Importance Impressed Upon Delegates In White House Farewell

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The future progress of the peace of the world depends to a considerable extent upon the success or failure of the London naval conference, President Hoover said today in a farewell message to the American delegates, who are sailing for London on Thursday.

The five-power conference, which is to attempt to definitely limit, if not drastically reduce, the world's great navies, was described by Mr. Hoover as the most important in years, and as the most important, in all probability, for many years to come.

HOOVER ASKS PATIENCE

The differences that confront the delegates at London, he said, "are great, but not insuperable," and he admonished patience, both on the part of the public and the delegates themselves, as the conference goes into its labors.

He assured Secretary Stimson and his co-workers that they could count upon his own "complete support" at all times.

Mr. Hoover confirmed the fact that at the final meeting of the delegates around the White House breakfast table this morning he had given no hard-and-fast instructions to govern American policy in London.

Secretary Stimson and his aides were accorded the widest latitude in conducting the negotia-

SUBSTITUTE REPORTED IN JAIL

Federal Officers Investigate Identity of Prisoner In Erie Liquor Case

Federal authorities today were investigating a report that a reputed Erie bootlegger is serving a 60-day jail sentence in Erie for his brother-in-law.

Department of Justice agents here and in Erie are seeking to determine whether there was a conspiracy, also involving others, to have the wrong man sent to jail.

Joe Jarvis, now in the Erie jail, was sentenced by Judge R. M. Gibson after a plea of guilty December 31, along with Fred Black. The two were arrested last fall on a rum runner in Lake Erie.

Joe Jarvis, according to federal agents, is not the man who gave that name when arrested and who was released under bond before United States Commissioner E. S. Filer, of Erie.

The real offender, according to the authorities at Erie, is a brother-in-law of Jaris. The latter is reported free. He is said to have been seen recently in Erie.

The two defendants were represented here by the law firm of Krieger and Schoonmaker. Max V. Schoonmaker, son of Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, said his partner had appeared before Judge Gibson at the time Jarvis and Black were sentenced.

SCHOONMAKER AMAZED

"I was amazed at a report that a supposed hoax had been perpetrated on the court," said Attorney Schoonmaker today.

"I am certain that the two men who came to our office from Erie, were the men who appeared in court and were sentenced," said he.

"If there was any deception it must have been by the clients themselves. Jarvis was in our office twice and Black once two or three weeks before they entered their plea. Jarvis seemed familiar with all details of the case and as everyone called him, Jarvis, which, I believe, is his corect name, no one thought of questioning whether he was one of the defendants."

AX TO FALL IN ELECTION REPRISALS

'To Victor Belong Spoils, Mayor Declares, Sifting Lists of City Employes

Shakeups in many city departments and bureaus are contemplated by Mayor Charles H. Kline.

"I have my cabinet in good shape now," he said. "Next we will look through the departments to see what changes are to be made. There will be changes."

The Mayor declined to intimate what the proposed changes would be.

"To the victor belongs the spoils," he said. "I believe in that."

FREDERICK BREAK DENIED

"Some men don't seem to want to work for me and I intend to accommodate them."

The Mayor denied rumors of friction between himself and Dr. F. H. Frederick, North Side leader, who had been offered a post on the Civil Service Commission. Dr. Frederick did not appear to be sworn in yesterday.

"I expect to get in touch with Dr. Frederick this afternoon," he said.

Friends of Dr. Frederick said he would accept the appointment.

GARLAND DEPOSED

Many new figures today appeared in the official family at City Hall as a result of yesterday's shakeup.

John S. Herron, as president of Council, has switched committee chairmanships.

The outstanding change is the deposing of Robert Garland from the Finance Committee chairmanship in favor of W. Y. English. Garland had served in that capacity 16 years.

Other cabinet members reappointed were confirmed by Council.

Council unanimously confirmed all of Mayor Kline's appointments.

SCHOOLEY SHIFTED

Roy D. Schooley, who assumed the city treasurership, was the only new cabinet member appointed by the Mayor. Schooley simultaneously resigned as a mem-

RUDY ANSWERS BALM SUIT

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Hubert Prior Vallee—the Rudy Vallee of the radio and the crooning voice—has denied all but one allegation charged in the $200,000 breach of promise suit filed by Agnes O'Loughlin, Broadway show girl.

And as to that allegation, Rudy through his attorneys, said:

"Defendant denies each and every allegation contained in paragraph numbered four except as much as alleges that he refuses to marry plaintiff and has stated to plaintiff that he will not marry her."

Gunshot Wound Kills Vandergrift Man

Harry Thomas, 38, of 238 B Lincoln avenue, Vandergrift, died in West Penn Hospital early today from a gunshot wound in his chest, which he told police was self-inflicted following a quarrel with his sweetheart, Catherine Tappa, of New Kensington, Sunday night, they said. A report to the morgue from hospital authorities said that the position of the wound indicated that it was not self-inflicted.

DRUNKS FREED BY NEW JUDGES

First prisoners to face newly appointed police magistrates today fared well. All were discharged.

Two drunks stood before Magistrate Charles Papale in East End Police Court as he took the bench.

"It's a break for you," he told them, "as this is my first case, but don't be in a hurry to come back. Discharged."

With Papale on the bench sat his predecessor, William J. Soost, who has been transferred to Traffic Court.

Flowers filled the courtroom

In Oakland station James O'Connor began his duties as successor to former Magistrate George H. England by discharging eight men charged with vagrancy and five with drunkenness—with a warning.

Ray E. Schneider, alderman of the Twentythird ward, in assuming the post of magistrate at the North Side station vacated by E. M. Hough, discharged the first prisoner, a drunk, who appeared before him.

Beside Schneider sat Robert Murray, Republican chairman of the Twenty-third ward. Numerous friends and political associates were in the courtroom.

Capt. Anthony Block introduced the new magistrate to officers and attaches of the police station.

Police Give Cards Proving Blondes Not Fugitives

Letters of identification are now being issued to persons who prove that they are neither Irene Schroeder, the so-called trigger woman, or Glenn Dague, the auto salesman, wanted in connection with the murder of Corp. Brady Paul, of the State Highway Patrol.

Acting Inspector of Detectives Robert Patton issued such a letter today to two Ohio men taken in their auto in downtown Pittsburgh. Police had been notified to detain the occupants of a car bearing their license number. They proved to be reputable residents of Newcomerstown, O. Thus did another tip prove wrong.

WEIR PORTRAIT NOT INSURED

The portrait of "Lord Ormonde," by Sir Peter Sely, valued at $75,000 by E. T. Weir, president of the Weirton Steel Company, was not covered by insurance and may be a total loss, Mr. Weir said today. The picture was brought here from Europe three weeks ago and represented the biggest single loss in the fire which yesterday destroyed the elaborate Weir studio suite in Schenley Apartments.

Another painting by Sir Peter, Dutch-English painter of the early Seventeenth century, named "Duchess of Cumberland," was also destroyed.

Mr. Weir said that while he had not paid $100,000 for the two Lelys, he would not have sold them for that sum.

The rest of the furnishings were covered by a blanket inscurance policy, he said. Full damage was set at $200,000.

The fire started when members of the household staff were taking down a Christmas tree. From a broken electrical connection, firemen reported, the dried out pine needles caught a spark.

Woman Indicted in Morgan Fur Theft

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Irene Thompson, 27, was indicted by the grand jury today for the theft of a gray lamb coat, valued at $1,500, from Miss Anne Morgan, sister of J. P. Morgan.

The coat was stolen from the American Women's Association Club and recovered from the Grand Central station checkroom, where it had been left allegedly by Mrs. Thompson.

Miss Morgan testified before the grand jury.

Coolidge Off for Florida Without Golf Clubs

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Jan. 7.—(INS.)—Former President and Mrs. Coolidge were en route today to Florida for a long vacation.

Mr. Coolidge is going to speak before a convention of the board of directors of the New York Life Insurance Company at St. Petersburg, Fla., but equally as important will be the Coolidge vacation there.

Before leaving, the former president said that his eight pieces of baggage did not include golfing sticks or togs, adding that he had no time for golf as it takes too much time to change clothes, whereas "walking's better."

He said he liked horseback riding, but that it took too long to get the boots on and off.

While in Florida, Coolidge expects to visit Rollins College at Winter Camp, having been invited by Dr. Hamilton Holt, described as "President of the college and a good Democrat."

Dr. Holt is an old friend of the Coolidges and was a frequent visitor at the White House when Mr. Coolidge was in office.

Pair Signs Wedding Pact For Heir in Two Years

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7.—(INS.)—The strange experimental marriage at the little village of Souderton in the quiet, peaceful North Penn valley, 30 miles northwest of here, of William Kenneth Moyer, radical poet, and Miss Ethel Olyette Amelia Oen, of Sun Prairia, Wis., aroused much comment today throughout the sleepy valley and the surrounding neighborhood.

One of the unusual provisions of the ceremony is that the union must result in the birth of a child within two years. Otherwise either may apply for an absolute divorce without opposition from the other.

The husband, a former resident of Souderton, well known as a member of the International Rebel Poets' Society and other similar organizations, is quite sanguine about the entire affair.

"We just term it an experimental marriage," he declared last night at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abner Moyer, of Souderton.

One child at least for marital happiness is his formula. That is why he had the agreement drawn, he said. It reads:

"Know all men by these presents:

"That I, William Kenneth Moyer, of the city of Chicago, County of Cook, state of Illinois, and I, Ethel Olyette Amelia Oen, borough of Sun Prairie, County of Dane, state of Wisconsin, do hereby agree to marry for the deliberate purpose of creating a child.

"If at the end of two years we have failed in our purpose, it shall be the privilege of either one to apply for an absolute divorce without consulting the other. In witness whereof, we affix our hand and seal."

U. S. PROPOSES CLOSING CANADIAN BORDER IN DRY WAR

DOMINION'S APPROVAL SOUGHT

Prohibition Backers Demand Compulsory Jail Terms, Abolition of Jury Trials

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Outstanding developments today in the capital's prohibition storm were:

1—Government plans were submitted to Canada for closing 3,000 miles of the border to all traffic, except through designated ports of entry.

2—Extreme prohibition advocates in Congress prepared to sponsor drastic legislation to put new "teeth" in the Volstead act.

3—Representative La Guardia, New York liberal leader, in a fiery speech in the House, answered Senator Borah's recent dry pronouncements and denounced the recent slaying of three alleged rum runners by Coast Guardsmen.

SMUGGLING CONTROL

The smuggling-control plan, submitted for Canadian approval by the Treasury, Labor and Agriculture Departments, would increase the number of ports and sub-ports from 100 to 600, and forbid the crossing of the border at all other points, thus closing thousands of roads.

The proposal also contemplates unification of 700 customs border patrolmen, 800 immigration inspectors and several hundred agricultural guards under a single controlling head. Canada is said to favor the plan. It would react to Canadian benefit as well as American, dominion officials have said, since there is a considerable volume of alcohol and merchandise smuggled from the United States.

BARBED WIRE

It has been suggested that barbed wire entanglements be placed between customs ports along the populated sections of the border.

Senator Howell (Rep.), of Nebraska, and Representative Sproul (Rep.), of Kansas, are collaborating on the new extremist legislation. The proposals, according to Sproul, would abrogate the right of trial by jury in "wet" communities, provide for "human padlocks" by injunction, and force liquor buyers to give evidence.

Minimum sentence for violating the prohibition law would be fixed at $100 fine and 30 days in jail. The trial without jury would be made possible by permitting civil instead of criminal actions against dry offenders in districts where public sentiment now prevents convictions. Federal judges would be permitted to convict and sentence offenders in such communities, and also to enjoin them from breaking the law, with jail penalities for contempt following any violations of such injunctions.

SHOOTING REMEDY

As for forcing buyers to give evidence against sellers, Sproul said this would "stop a lot of shooting, because it would provide an easier method to obtain evidence."

La Guardia's speech was featured by his declaration that there is more drinking per capita in Idaho, Senator Borah's state, than in New York City.

La Guardia spoke of "the bloody murder" of three members of the crew of the Black Duck off the New England coast.

"The case of the Black Duck," he said, "is but another paragraph in the shameless annals of prohibition.

"The Treasury Department rushes into print to justify the slaying of these three men," he continued. "Yet the record is bare of any facts showing that the Black Duck had refused to heave to or was in actual flight."

RAPS COAST GUARD

Part of the liquor taken from the Black Duck, he added, "was in turn sold by members of the Coast Guard."

"Citizens of this country are prohibited by law to drink alcholic beverages, and yet on the same day that the Black Duck was captured members of the Coast Guard got crazy drunk at New London, Conn."

Referring to Idaho, La Guardia said, "There were more saloons per capita there than in the city of Philadelphia.

"There are more bootleggers per capita in the state of Idaho than there are in the city of Chicago," he added. "Liquor is better in the state of Idaho than in any of the large cities, and cheaper."

GUARDS ADMIT DRUNK, GUILT

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Having pleaded guilty of intoxication from confiscated liquor, 10 Coast Guardsmen were on their boats today awaiting review of their sentences by Secretary Mellon.

Twenty-four Coast Guardsmen are accused of intoxication and 15 with pilfering liquor December 29 when the Flor Del Mar, a smuggling craft, was captured in Long Island Sound and towed to New London, where her liquor cargo was unloaded. The stolen liquor was found in Coast Guard barracks and aboard Coast Guard boats.

MORE CASES TODAY

A general court martial heard 10 pleas of guilty yesterday and was called into session again today to hear other cases.

Commander M. J. Ryan, president of the court martial, said those convicted of theft were liable to dishonorable discharge while the maximum sentence possible for the others was a month's restriction.

LIQUOR RECOVERED

A statement by Capt. H. H Wolf, commander of the destroyer force, said that four sacks of stolen liquor, 56 quarts and 12 pints, all intact, had been recovered.

Only enlisted men below the rating of petty officer were involved. None of the cargo of the Black Duck, a smuggling craft three of whose crew were killed by the Coast Guard, was touched. None of the coast guardsmen attached to CG-290, the craft which fired on the Black Duck, was involved in pilfering or intoxication

'Tay Pay' O'Connor Leaves Only $1,500

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—The Daily Express says that the estate of the late T. P. (Tay Pay) O'Connor, "father of the House of Commons," will produce only about $1,500 when it is probated next week. Tay Pay's intimates say that he undoubtedly earned large sums, but was charitable to almost a reckless degree.

Youngstown Man Again Heads Council

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 7.—W. L. Buchanan was re-elected president of the City Council. He was opposed by Jerry Sullivan. Allan Shale, the only new member of the present Council, also took his seat.

Ohio Woman Goes To New York in Mooney's Behalf

BELLAIRE, O., Jan. 7.—Slipping into Bellaire last night, Frank O. Stephens, of the Soldiers' Home, visited Mrs. Dora Monroe and a short time later departed with her for New York, where they will aid in efforts to free Tom Mooney, serving time for throwing a bomb during the preparedness parade at San Francisco in 1916.

Mrs. Monroe is the sister of Charles Smith, who is alleged to have confessed that he, and not Mooney, threw the bomb that resulted in the killing of a number of persons. Stephens is the man who first furnished the information.

Former Washington Man Dies in N. Y.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 7.—T. V. Craig, 67, former resident of Washington and Greene counties, is dead in his home at Candor, N. Y. He leaves several children, most of whom make their homes in or near Washington.

Miner Meets Death, Squeezed by Cars

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 7.—William Miles, 20, Tower Hill No. 1 youth, was killed when squeezed between two cars while at work in the Jamison No. 8 mine at Fairmont, W. Va. His body was brought here for interment.

ADMITS ARSON, BOY HELD

"I had a crazy notion I'd get even, but after I did it, I couldn't figure out the reason why," George S. Kearns, 21, of 237 Lehigh avenue, told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today at his hearing in connection with a fire in the basement of the retail store of Traubman Stores Corporation, at 912 Liberty avenue. Kearns was held for court on an arson charge.

Kearns was arrested in his room by Detectives Thomas Flavin and Michael Tortorelli last night, a few hours after a fire had been discovered in a rubbish heap in the basement of the store, where he was discharged as a salesman December 26, according to detectives. His arrest came shortly after Battalion Chief George Sparr learned that Kearns had left the store shortly after the blaze was discovered, Sparr revealed. It was extinguished without loss.

Kearns was said to have admitted igniting the rubbish because he wanted to "get even" for being fired. He told Detective Lieut. Thomas D. Malone that his refusal to work Christmas Eve resulted in his dismissal, Lieut. Malone said.

LIQUOR KILLING HELD JUSTIFIED

SULLIVAN, Ill., Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Joseph A. Miller, operator of an alleged bootlegging establishment here, was shot to death by Deputy Sheriff Harlat Landsden while resisting arrest.

A coroner's jury, which convened to investigate the shooting, returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

Lansden, Coroner William R Robinson, of Moultrie County, was told, went to Miller's office, armed with a search warrant. He was accompanied by Chief of Police Charles Getz, of Sullivan. Suspecting liquor on the premises, they entered a cellar door, they testified, and were greeted by Miller, who was armed with a shotgun, they said.

Miller, the officers declared, brought the gun to bear on them. Lansden drew his service pistol and fired. Miller died a few hours later. Miller was said by Moultrie officials to have served a sentence for bootlegging two years ago, and five cans of alcohol were reported found in his home after the shooting.

HOOVER BREAKS PRECEDENT TO ATTEND BALL

President, First Lady, Go To Reception at Congress Club Banned by Coolidge

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—President and Mrs. Hoover will leave the White House tonight to attend two social affairs given in their honor and in keeping one of these engagements will depart from recent presidential precedent.

The first will be a dinner given by Vice President Curtis and his sister and official hostess, Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, in their suite at the Mayflower Hotel.

Then, they will go to a reception given by the Congressional Club at the clubhouse. The membership of the organization includes the wives of cabinet officers and members of Congress.

Tradition prescribes, and custom of late years has strengthened it, that almost the only social contacts of the President and First Lady must be within the White House walls. But the Hoovers have their own ideas. They have tossed many a little worn-out convention overboard since he became President. They do pretty much as they please.

This is the first time in three years that a President has attended a Congressional Club reception. Formerly these affairs in honor of the chief executive were annual events. But Calvin Coolidge liked staying at home. He attended one club reception, but that was all. The delight of the Congressional Club women was great when President Hoover consented to be the central figure once more at one of these time-honored events.

PEACE RESTS IN ARMS PARLEY -HOOVER

tions, within the general limits that have been discussed and agreed up in the weeks of preliminary conversations here. The delegation will, of course, maintain the closest contact with Washington.

"I am sure the whole nation bids Godspeed to the American delegation that leaves tomorrow for the London naval arms conference," said the President.

"The people and governments of the five nations assembling at this meeting are sincerely desirous that agreement shall be brought about by which competition in construction of naval arms is brought to an end, and by which actual reduction in naval burdens of the world shall be accomplished.

"The difficulties of finding a basis that will be acceptable to five different nations are great, but theirs are not insuperable.

WILL TAKE TIME

"The conclusions of the conference must be such as to give a sense of security and satisfaction to each of the nations. Permanent peace is never based on either advantage of or accepting a position of prejudice.

"The technology and the complexities of the problem are such that we need hope for no immediate and quick results. To complete the conference in three or four months would be in itself a great accomplishment, and we should not expect any hurried conclusions.

"It is the most important of international conferences of a great many years, and probably the most important for many years to come. The problem of peace for the world rests in a great measure upon the shoulders of the five delegations.

"There is good will toward the conference on the part of every nation. The importance and the gravity has been recognized in the dispatch to London of the leading men of every country. They have the will to succeed.

"I hope that the people of our country will co-operate in the progress of the conference by patience, encouragement and freedom from criticism. We go to London in a fine atmosphere of international good will, and it is the duty of our country to preserve that atmosphere so far as lies within our power."

START TRIP THURSDAY

Some of the President's breakfast guests went to the executive mansion this morning with their affairs in Washington finally wound up for an indefinite stay abroad. Secretary Stimson of the State Department, head of the delegation, had closed his desk and arranged to leave during the day for a short visit to his home on Long Island. Most of the official party, however, is to depart on Thursday morning on a special train timed to make quick connections that afternoon with the steamer George Washington at her pier at Hoboken.

Besides Mr. Stimson, the delegates invited to the breakfast included Secretary Adams, of the Navy Department; Dwight Morrow, now ambassador to Mexico and soon to become a senator from New Jersey; and Senators Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Robinson, of Arkansas. The other two members of the delegation, Ambassadors Charles G. Dawes and Hugh Gibson, already are abroad.

LA FOLLETTE ROW WAGED IN SENATE

Smoot Threatens to Quit Post On Finance Committee If Insurgent Is Named

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The prolonged legislative battles over prohibition and the tariff became side issues in the Senate today as the Republican ranks split wide open over the demand of Senator Robert M. La Follette, Jr., Wisconsin insurgent, for a post on the Senate Finance Committee.

The controversy over La Follette assumed tremendous proportions so far as Senate Republicans were concerned because it involved control over the writing of tariff and revenue legislation, the chairmanships of the Finance and Appropriations Committees and the Republican leadership of the Senate itself. The question was debated for an hour this morning by the Republican committee on committees at an acrimonious session without a decision being reached.

ARGUMENT BITTER

The argument grew so bitter, reports had it, that Senator Reed Smoot (Rep.), of Utah, threatened to resign as chairman of the Finance Committee if La Follette were named to it. He was said to be ready to take this action, not because of any personal objection to La Follett, but because his appointment would give the Democratic-Insurgent coalition control of the committee.

The resignation of Smoot a finance chairman would have a tremendous effect on the Republican party in the Senate. For one thing, it would lead to his retirement as tariff leader, forcing another Senator to champion the administration's pending tariff bill. For another, it would make Senator James E. Watson (Rep.), of Indiana, the next chairman of the committee and undoubtedly lead to Watson's resignation as Republican floor leader.

A third step would be Smoot's elevation then to chairmanship of the Senate Appropriations Committee, since he is the senior member of that committee. This would blast the hopes of Senator Wesley L. Jones (Rep.), of Washington, for the appropriations chairmanship and might cause him to withdraw his recent resignation as assistant Republican floor leader.

LEADERS IN QUANDARY

The controversy had Republican leaders in a quandary. If they bar La Follette from the Finance Committee they must set aside the traditional seniority rule—an act that would have ruiness effect on the party machinery in the Senate in the future. If they name him to the post, Smoot may resign and party chaos would follow.

A tie vote resulted on a motion at today's meeting to give the finance committee vacancies to Senators Goff and LaFollette.

A substitute motion was offered by Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, to give the posts to Senators Goff and Thomas, of Idaho. The latter is one of the new members of the Senate. Thomas was put forward for the finance committee by the "young guard" Republicans. This also brought a tie vote.

The Finance Committee, now constituted, has 11 Republicans and 8 Democrats. One of the Republicans is Senator Couzens, the Michigan independent. If LaFollete were named, he and Couzens could join the Democrats and control the committee.

The Republican leaders were holding hourly conferences in hopes of straightening out the controversy. They feared a definite and lasting split between the Insurgents and Regulars if peace is not restored. With an election year ahead, the Republican elder statesmen were hoping for peace.

Husband's Bridge Faults Cited in Divorce Plea

Trumping your wife's trick is fast becoming the great American tragedy, observers in Common Pleas Court have decided. Edward J. Baird, of Greenville, was in the habit of making that error, according to his wife, Mrs. Bessie Walker Baird, of 1307 Margaret street, Munhall, suing for divorce before Judge John A. Evans.

Another habit of Baird's, it was testified, was that of striking his wife across the mouth.

Both bad habits finally cropped out one bad night at a bridge party when Baird trumped his wife's trick, she says. She remonstrated. Leaning across the table, she declares, he viciously struck her.

That was too much, Mrs. Baird says. They separated October 11, 1928, and she sued for divorce.

Mrs. Baird also stated that, after six months of marriage, August 30, 1924, her husband became rough and used brutal language. On one occasion, in a quarrel over punishment of their son, "Billie," she alleges he struck her on the mouth and knocked out one of her front teeth. Judge Evans granted her plea.

Karolyi Lands, Praises U. S. for Lifting Ban

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Praising the gallantry of the State Department in lifting its five-year ban against his entry into the United States, Count Michael Karolyi, Hungarian nobleman and Socialist leader, was here today to begin a lecture tour.

Count Karolyi, the first premier of the short-lived Hungarian republic, after the collapse of the central empires, arrived on the steamship George Washington.

He said that on his lecture tour he would confine his utterances largely to the situation in Hungary and Europe and would refrain from discussing American politics as a courtesy to the State Department. He said he would make no reference to his five-year fight for a visa which was refused by Secretaries of State Hughes and Kellogg and finally granted by Mr. Stimson.

"I will explain in my lectures the vast propaganda made against me," he said, "but of course I do not want to talk about the State Department's attitude. The State Department has been very gallant in reversing its attitude and it would be highly improper for me to discuss it."

The New York Times says that Socialist leaders, who were active in championing Count Karolyi's fight for admittance to this country, have withdrawn their support from his lecture at Carnegie Hall tonight, and that Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president in the last campaign, will not preside at the meeting.

The withdrawal of the Socialists, the Times said, was the result of the action of William B. Feakins, lecture manager of Count Karolyi, in refusing to accept the sponsorship of the Rand School of Social Science, a Socialist organization, for the lecture.

HOMAGE PAID BY ITALIAN PEASANTS

Medieval Spectacle Staged To Show Love for Prince And Bride of Tomorrow

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service.

ROME, Jan. 7.—The Eternal City underwent a sharp transformation from the bustling twentieth century to the picturesque customs of feudal times today when thousands of Italians from all over the country staged a costume parade in honor of Crown Prince Umberto and his bride-to-be, Princess Marie Jose, of Belgium.

Massing itself from the polyglot native and transient population of Rome, the procession filed from the outskirts of the city to the Quirinal Palace, where the young royal couple, who are to be married tomorrow, were waiting to witness the colorful sight.

MIDDLE-AGE CUSTOM

Half-dancing, half-marching four abreast, the procession filed gaily into the courtyard of the Quirinal to pay homage to the crown prince and his betrother in what was perhaps the most impressive popular demonstration ever staged in tribute to royalty in this age-old city.

The procession, whose participants were attired in colorful costumes ranging from picturesque native peasant and Alpine garb to harlequin dress and pinafores, was the first revival in modern times of a custom that prevailed throughout the Middle Ages on any occasion when the masses wished to pay homage to royalty.

But in the olden days, all too often these demonstrations were not genuine, as pompous overlords ordered out their vassals merely as a show for the amusement of invited guests. Today's procession, however, was a genuine demonstration by the Italian people to show their love for their "Beautiful Prince," as he is affectionately known, and his charming bride-to-be.

STREETS CROWDED

Thousands of non-participants lined the streets which the procession followed, aiding the merrymaking by singing and dancing to the music of impromptu bands. It was in fact just one of those "Roman holidays" which have come to be a byword throughout the world.

The paraders were from all parts of Italy and the colonies. Most of them were content to be attired in their native dress, sufficiently colorful in themselves, but many of the more ambitious got themselves up in costumes of a type calculated to pale a society masquerade ball into insignificance.

The procession numbered more than 5,000, different groups representing a particular district of Italy and its possessions. Each group had a particular part to play in the procession and in the demonstration in the courtyard of the Quirinal.

MUSSOLINI PLEASED

The prince and princess, flanked by a galaxy of royalty and high officials of the Italian state, sat in specially constructed stands in the courtyard to witness the display. The procession, in the words of Premier Benito Mussolini, typified the "glory of the new Italy," a welding of tolerant love for royalty with intense determination for industrial and political progress.

The prince and princess watched the display with evident admiratio and amusement, and generously applauded the most picturesque costumes in the mile-long procession.

One solemn note marred the festive atmosphere of the day. This was the presence of police everywhere and their stringent precautions against the possibility of any untoward event darkening tomorrow's brilliant ceremony.

An automobile believed to have been driven by the blonde was seen on Frankstown avenue late yesterday, detectives were told, but when officers rushed to the district no trace of the much-wanted woman was found.

A woman, believed to be the "trigger woman," and two men late last night stole an atomobile in Martins Ferry, O., Pittsburgh police were informed.

They abandoned another machine, reported stolen from Bellaire, O.

Persons who witnessed the theft notified police, and furnished them with a description of the woman, which tallies with that of Irene Schroeder, they said.

TAX CUT FIRST, MELLON IDEA

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon believes that the Treasury surplus of approximately $160,000,000 gained under the present income tax schedule should be used for tax reduction. After outlining the new income tax schedules in an interview published in the Daily Princetonian, undergraduate publication of Princeton University, Secretary Mellon says:

"The Treasury surplus of approximately $160,000,000 gained under the present income tax schedule should not be applied to national debt reduction.

"Debt reduction and tax reduction, should, of course, go hand in hand. This has been the historic policy of the government since the very early days.

"No other part of our financial policy has been more steadfastly maintained than that providing for the prompt payment of the public debt.

"The Treasury believes that, with debt reduction proceeding at a reasonably rapid pace, the present surplus of revenues over receipts should be used for tax reduction, thus benefiting the persons directly shouldering the burden of taxation."

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Frances (Peaches) Browning concurred in a motion presented in Supreme Court by Edward W. Browning, her husband, whereby she can collect $188,999.99 from his holdings as her dower right.

The motion asks that Browning be permitted to sell four apartment houses and that Mrs. Browning's dower right of one third be impressed upon the purchaser.

The motion also asks the court's approval of a report made by Philip J. Sinnott, special referee, which fixed the value of the property and the amount of Mrs. Browning's interest in it.

In her testimony before the referee, Mrs. Browning said all the property she owns now is worth $15,500 and that her income is $1,012.50 a year. She said she had debts of $7,800.

She and Browning, married in 1926, became legally separated subsequently.

Martin denied ownership of the contraband, claiming to have rented the house to a man named Simon.

He will be sentenced later.

DUKE SELLS ART TO PAY TAXES

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Increasing taxation and heavy death and succession duties have obliged many prominent members of the British nobility to throw on the market art treasures that have been in their families for decades and even centuries.

The Duke of Richmond and Gordon announced today that he had decided to sell a number of pictures and books from Goodwood House, his sumptuous English estate, and from Gordon Castle, his seat in Scotland.

"Much as I regret having to do this, there is no other course open if I wish to continue to live at Goodwood and employ those connected with the estate," the duke said.

This news closely followed reports that the Earl of Durham was about to part with Sir Thomas Lawrence's famous painting, "The Red Boy," to an American collector for approximately $1,000,000.

The sale was said to have been forced on the earl in order to pay the enormous death duties demanded for the estate owing to the deaths of the third and fourth earls. At the time of the third earl's death the value of the estate was estimated at about $10,000,000, of which nearly $3,500,000 was demanded in death duties.

Four months later the fourth Earl of Durham died, and this brought a demand for $1,250,000 in duties by the state, so that the value of the great estate was cut almost in half within a few months.

Photograph Sound as Aid In Musical Study

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—(AP.)—Science has brought forth its latest aid to the study of musical tone in the form of the projection osiso.

The device, which makes sound visible and permits its photographing, was demonstrated before the conductors, musicians and singers of the Chicago Civic Opera Company by William Braid White director of acoustic research for the American Steel and Wire Company.

White demonstrated that each tone has its own peculiar color and that the color of a tone changes with amplitude. In the visible demonstration, the amplitude is manifest by vibration lengths, while the color is shown by pattern. The machine consists of an apparatus similar to a loud speaker, which is operated from an ordinary radio microphone. Instead of a diaphragm there is a tiny mirror which vibrates with sound. This mirror reflects a beam of light to a cylinder, 16-sided mirror which revolves and throws a line of light on a screen.

The line of light on the screen oscillates and works into patterns as sound is picked up by the microphone. The photographing is done by another similar device.

Eugenio Sandrini and Vanni-Marcoux, baritones; Eva Turner, soprano; Chase Baromeo, basso, and Egon Pollak, conductor, assisted in the demonstrations.

White said the photographs permit the study and analyzing of a tone whether made by a voice or an instrument, and pointed out that it will enable a teacher of music to show his pupil by eye as well as ear the correct way to sing a tone or pronounce a word.

Lindy, Anne Praise New Plane; Both Fly It

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6.—(AP.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh today tested their new, open cockpit, low-winged plane at the Grand Central air terminal in Glendale.

The flight was the first for the ship. It had previously been tried out by test pilots. The crowd at the airport was surprised that Mrs. Lindbergh accompanied her husband.

"Mrs. Lindbergh and I had a most enjoyable flight in our new Lockheed ship," Col. Lindbergh said after the plane had been returned to its hangar. "Mrs. Lindbergh also took the controls and liked the ship's performance."

She is a licensed pilot.

A large crowd gathered at the field to witness the flight. Several test landings were made at a nearby field and during the flight, the plane was put through a series of steep banks and stalls.

The plane is equipped to carry 450 gallons of gasoline "in order that we may stay up all night," Col. Lindbergh explained, and has a 425-horsepower motor.

The ship bears the license number NR-211, similar to the ZNR-211 number carried by the Spirit of St. Louis, in which Col. Lindbergh made his flight to Paris.

"I went into the place with a Negro to sleep, and he made me do it."

Patrolman Charles Newbauer arrested him while he was tearing his way through the wall, he said. As he was escorting his prisoner out of the place a commotion on the second floor of the loan office attracted his attention, but before he could investigate a man leaped from the window and made his escape. It was the Negro with whom Chamors had gone into the place to spend the night, Chamors said. At the police station the prisoner was held as a suspicious person.

JAILER, INMATE HURT IN RIOT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 7.—(AP.)—A jailer and a prisoner were suffering from severe wounds today and the county jail was guarded by extra officers as the result of a riot.

Sixteen inmates of the jail's "felony tank" made a desperate, but unsuccessful bid for their freedom last night as they were being locked in their cells. The prisoners were armed with a knife and a piece of iron.

Albert Boss, charged with the murder of a grocery clerk during a holdup, started the outbreak, officers said. He appeared suddenly at the main floor cell block and demanded that Deputy Sheriff Charles Warden liberate him. Grabbing a shotgun, Warren aimed at Boss, who retreated.

The alarm was spread and the county jail was surrounded by sheriff's deputies and policemen.

The physical violence was precipitated by Harry Abel, held for holding up a roadhouse near Sacramento. Abel struck Jailer George Hall over the head with a piece of iron as the officer was about to lock up the cells for the night.

Grabbing Hall's keys, Abel and Boss led the attack on the officers in the jail. They were joined by R. Martin and Wilbert Rider, while 12 other prisoners watched the struggle.

Deputy Sheriff Warren summoned assistance and with Sheriff Ellis Jones and Deputy Sheriff H. W. Shannon entered the cell block and forced the milling prisoners to return to their cells.

GARRETT FIRED IN DORMONT

Amid strenuous objections of one member of council at its reorganization meeting in the municipal building last night, declared the office of borough manager vacant. By a ballot vote of 5 to 2, Manager E. O. Garrett, who for the past nine years held that position, was out of a job.

Councilman Dan B. Dougherty charged that certain people were out to "get Garrett's scalp," and "indications show that they have succeeded," he said. He cited Garrett as a valuable employe of the borough, with his years of experience in the United States service as an inspector of steel, engineer for various steel plants, and other positions he held. But the councilman was overruled, and declared "out of order."

Frank F. Manns was elected borough secretary at a salary of $200 a month. This position was held by Manager Garrett. Councilman Dougherty remarked that Manns was not capable for that position, but again was called "out of order" by Councilman Chester T. Winters, who objected to Dougherty's remarks.

Thomas Dolan was elected street commissioner at $175 a month. That position also was included in Garrett's position.

Councilman Winters was elected president of council. William S. Haddock, defeated burgess for re-election, was elected treasurer. Samuel W. Pringle was elected to fill the position of solicitor, held by A. C. Purdy, and the firm of Voegler and Ramsley was appointed engineers.

QUIZ POLICE ON 'JOB GRAFT'

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—The indictment net which caught Congressman Stanley H. Kunz and his son, Stanley, Jr., yesterday with charges of conspiracy to sell a police job, was being held ready for other politicians on similar accusations.

George S. Lavin, assistant state's attorney directing the investigation into alleged graft in the Civil Service Commission, planned to question all of the 473 probationary policemen dismissed by Police Commissioner Russell to meet budget reductions.

"These men are disgruntled over the loss of their jobs and will testify," he said, adding he was informed that many of them had paid $300 to $500 to obtain required civil service rating.

The indictment of Congressman Kunz and his son followed testimony before the grand jury by Roman Trochowski that he gave the lawmaker $400 to be "fixed up" for a policeman's job.

Kunz, in Washington for the session of Congress, attributed the indictment to "politics."

"I don't understand it," said the Congressman, "except that it seems any man can prefer charges of any kind at any time. You know I am in politics and have many enemies."

Trochowski's story to the grand jurors described the junior Kunz as stating that his father's influence would procure for the police candidate the requisite civil service standing for the position he sought. Payment of $400, Trochowski said, was designated.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

BLIZZARD HITS WESTERN ZONE

DENVER, Col., Jan. 7.—(AP.)—The Rocky Mountain West was storm-bound today by a blizzard that stretched from the slopes of the Rockies eastward and south through Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, almost to the Gulf.

The swirling snow resulted in the crash of an airmail plane in Colorado last night. Today Montana, Wyoming and Colorado felt the effects of the storm that came after an extended period of mild weather.

Clear and cold weather, the kind that sends the mercury reeling, prevailed in Montana, where many points reported temperatures as low as 20 below. At Lewistown, 25 below was reported, a new low mark there for the season. Nearly a foot of snow lay on the ground at Helena. Automobile travel was difficult, even on the main highways out of the Montana capital.

Snow was general over Wyoming, and airmail service was hampered. Thermopolis received six inches of snow, and the mercury dropped to 6 below at Sheridan.

The snow was light in Colorado, but near-zero temperatures prevailed early today. Pilot M. O. Bowen, flying the Denver mail to Cheyenne, narrowly escaped with his life last night when his plane crashed after its landing gear hit a power line that was carrying no current. The ship fell to the ground on its back, a wreck. Unable to penetrate the swirling snow on his course to Cheyenne, the pilot was essaying a landing in a cornfield.

Bowen was unconscious when extricated from the wreckage of his plane by persons who heard the crash from a nearby farmhouse. He was revived and brought to a Denver hospital, where his condition was said to be not serious.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Unseasonal warmth turned to bitter cold today as winter whipped a drizzling rain into an icy blast.

In many places over the Central and Northwest a drop of around 40 degrees was predicted. In Chicago the thermometer at 7 o'clock last night stood at 51 degrees—just three degrees under the all-time record for January warmth; but the weather bureau blasted hopes for further mildness with a prediction of 10 above here today and zero by night.

GREEKS HONOR ANCIENT MAGI

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Observing an ancient custom of honoring the three magi or wise men, which dates back to the year 813, thousands of Greeks from various parts of the country gathered in festive attire in this sponge-fishing village to observe their Epiphany, or Cross Day with solemn and impressive ceremonies.

The custom, which originated in the Greek Archipelago in the ninth century, has been handed down through the generations of that nationality, and every year since 1903 has been observed here in colorful fashion by a little colony of Greeks engaged in the sponge fishing industry.

The Most Rev. Rado Stolou Alexander, of New York, archbishop of the Greek Church in both North and South America, was in charge of the services, which ended shortly after noon on the banks of Spring Bayou, with the pronunciation of divine blessings upon the sponge fishermen and their relatives.

An incident of disappointment was injected into the ceremonies at the crowded bayou yesterday which has not been duplicated in the 27 years that the custom has been observed here.

A large gold cross, thrown into the water by Archbishop Alexander as part of the ceremonies, was lost by one of four divers who sprang into the bayou in an effort to recover it and thus obtain divine blessing by the church for the ensuing year.

Galena Signal Oil Seeks Dissolution

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 7.—A petition was presented in Judge William Parker's court today by Galena Oil Company, asking court approval of its dissolution. The petition recites that the company was formed November 7, 1901, by merger of Galena Oil Company and the Signal Oil Company. Bringing of suit in equity by Sidney S. Hoag, of East Orange, N. J., a minority stockholder, is related, and the company's inability to effect a settlement with Hoag. Hearing is set for February 17.

The company points out that the majority stockholders on December 30 approved transfer of stock and properties to Galena Oil Corporation of Delaware, successor to Galena Signal Oil Company of Pennsylvania.

He succeeds George Bob Wick, who will continue as music instructor in the Butler High School and private teacher of voice. GRENFELL GIVES LECTURE HERE

Possibilities for development in the far North were told in an illustrated lecture on Labrador by Sir Wilfred Grenfell in Carnegie Music Hall last night. Using as a subject, "The Challenge of Labrador," the speaker laid particular stress upon the water power, minerals, timber and fisheries of the country.

Sir Wilfred has spent many years in Labrador, having first visited the country in 1892, when he was sent from London to investigate conditions among the inhabitants. In late years he has been active in the establishment of a chain of hospitals, nursing homes, schools and orphanages in many sections of the country.

BORN IN ALLEGHENY

Joseph Bernard Shea was born in Allegheny June 2, 1863, the son of Christian Bernard and Elizabeth Galway Shea. He attended Princeton University, graduating with the degree of bachelor of arts in 1885. He married Miss Clara Bell Morgan, of Pittsburgh, June 11, 1891. They had two children, C. Bernard and Sidney Morgan Shea. His widow and two sons survive.

Immediately after leaving college, Mr. Shea entered the employ of Long & Co., operating the Vulcan Forge and Iron Works in Pittsburgh, and remained with them for 18 months. From there he went in 1887 to the Pittsburgh Dry Goods Company, with which he was connected for the next 14 years, and of which he became president in 1897, at the age of 34.

He resigned the presidency of the Pittsburgh Dry Goods Company in 1901 to become director of the Joseph Horne Company, the oldest department store in Western Pennsylvania. He rose to the presidency and, on resigning that position, became chairman of the board.

MANY ACTIVITIES

Mr. Shea was treasurer and director of the Associated Advertising Corporation, a director of the Chamber of Commerce, a director of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, a director of the Pittsburgh branch of the Federal Reserve Bank, a director of the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, a life trustee of Princeton University, a director of the Union National Bank, treasurer and director of the Western Pennsylvania Exposition Society, and director of the Retail Research Association.

His activities covered a wide range of interests. A patron of music, he headed the Pittsburgh Orchestra Society as president some years ago.

In religion he was a Methodist; in politics, an independent Republican.

During the World War he served in the Signal Corps and the Bureau of Aircraft Production from February 20, 1918, to December 24 of the same year, as a dollar-a-year man. When he resigned he was chief of the raw material department in the procurement division of the Bureau of Aircraft Production, in charge of all non-metal materials.

Mr. Shea was a member of the Pittsburgh Club, Duquesne Club, University Club, Long Vue Country Club, Fox Chapel Golf Club, Oakmont Country Club, the University and Princeton clubs of New York City, the Nassau Club of Princeton, N. J., and Christ Methodist Episcopal Church.

14 TRAPPED IN 2 FIRES ESCAPE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 7.—Trapped in their homes in Smock and Cool Spring, 14 persons this morning barely escaped in two fires which destroyed several buildings. Six adults leaped to safety, while seven children and a woman were rescued.

Among those who jumped from second floors to safety was Mrs. Kate McMahon, 75, of Cool Spring. She was not injured.

Fire originating in the kitchen of the double house cut off the escape of Mrs. McMahon and Mr. and Mrs. John McMahon and their six children. The parents dropped the children from the burning building before they themselves jumped. The building was destroyed.

Mrs. Mary Swartz, owner of the apartment store at Smock, which was destroyed, was overcome by smoke and was carried out of her home unconscious.

Guido Donadide, who was in his apartment with his child, crashed out a window as the smoke filled his bedroom and with the child in his arms, jumped to the ground. He was cut by glass.

Tilio Ciconi, a tailor, and Cy Vellock, his assistant, escaped in a similar manner.

Ward Politics Graduate Now Heads Library

Librarian

Stepping up the political ladder from varied clerkships in city and county offices, David D. Cadugan, of the Twenty-seventh Ward, today is librarian of the North Side Carnegie Library.

Council elected Cadugan, to the $4,500 a year post at its first sitting yesterday, the position being that ward's gift in Mayor Charles H. Kline's new administration. The position was made vacant with the resignation of Clifford B. Connelley, who became a member of City Council.

Mr. Cadugan, a graduate of the college of ward politics, resigned as chief clerk in the Allegheny County road department to become chief librarian. He heads a staff of professional librarians whose positions required them to be college graduates with a minimum of one year's course in a professional library training school.

The new head has been a lifelong resident of the Twenty-seventh Ward, where he attended public grade school. After leaving school, Cadugan was employed by several commercial and industrial concerns in capacities as clerk, bookkeeper and assistant paymaster. In 1904, he became an extra clerk in the county treasurer's office. From November, 1904, to April 1, 1906, Cadugan was an appropriation clerk in the state treasurer's office at Harrisburg. He later was chief clerk in the Department of Public Works for the old City of Allegheny. At the time of its consolidation with Pittsburgh, he was appointed assistant chief clerk.

He later served as a clerk in the delinquent tax office, assistant chief clerk in the county treasurer's office and spent 18 months as investigator for the county commissioners. He became chief clerk of the county road department.

His selection as librarian was forecast with the demand of a relative, Assemblyman Samuel J. Grenet, Republican chairman of the North Side ward, for the scalp of Magistrate George H. England. When the newly appointed magistrate, Ray E. Schneider, was boomed for the Police Court position, the North Side groups compensated the Twenty-seventh Ward with Cadugan's election.

Mr. Cadugan is married and lives at 960 Davis avenue. He has one daughter, Lois, a Davis B. Oliver High School student. He was born July 7, 1879 in the old Eleventh Ward.

VETERAN JUDGE PAYS TRIBUTE TO KLINE

Josiah Cohen, Recalling Mayor's Service on Bench, Lauds Record as Executive

Friends of Mayor Charles H. Kline have declared that the tribute paid by Judge Josiah Cohen to the Mayor after the delivery of the latter's address was the high spot of yesterday's inaugural exercises.

Judge Cohen said:

"It is quite true that for many years 'Charlie' Kline sat on the Common Pleas bench side by side with me and the other judges. True, his administration was a success, and his administration as Mayor of the city of Pittsburgh has been the embodiment of the principles of right. That is what he fought for, that is what he advocated as a judge, and that is what he practiced as Mayor of this great city of Pittsburgh.

PROUD OF KLINE

"Mayor Kline, we are proud of you, and how much prouder your dear wife must feel on this occasion; to have been elected in such a contest as dominated the late campaign for the election of a Mayor.

"On one of the grandest monuments that the world has ever conceived, there stands written: 'If you will behold my monument, look around,' and with equal pride the Mayor of the city, my friend, Judge Kline can say, 'If you would behold my monument, look around and see what I have done to advocate and to advance the interests, the comfort and the safety of the people of this great city of Pittsburgh.

MAN OF HEART

"Here is a man all of heart. It is a peculiar character of the Mayors of the city of Pittsburgh. 'Old Joe' Armstrong and Mayor Babcock, the younger man. They are men of nobility of heart and of character and have carved their ways down through the darkness of the night of opportunity into the light of a living day.

"Mayor, you deserve what you got. When I heard Babcock read your inaugural address, he did not overlook its value, and I am sure in the coming years you will realize in a positive way the beauties of the sentiments that you promised in that speech. May God bless you and your dear wife."

'Bossy' Gillis Hints Raids On Lodges

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Mayor Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis in his inaugural address last night spoke for two hours discussing the beer situation among other things.

He said the police would have to raid all the clubs if they raided any. He said he had "no objection to the Newburyport clubs having a few bottles of beer around" as long as they conducted themselves in an orderly manner.

He suggested that certain Newburyport lodges be "raided if anybody's raided."

He was recently blackballed for membership by one of the local orders.

HELEN, HUSBAND END CRUISE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7. (AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Moody, Jr., were here today planning to spend the rest of their honeymoon on dry land while awaiting completion of the furnishing of their apartment in San Francisco.

Mrs. Moody, formerly Helen Wills, of Berkeley, Cal., girl who won the women's world tennis title, said "we will return to San Francisco next week to inspect the apartment. In the meantime, I expect to play a little tennis."

The young couple arrived at San Pedro aboard the 40-foot yawl Galatea yesterday, after cruising as far south as Ensenada, Mexico. They were married in Berkeley December 23 and sailed from San Pedro Christmas Day.

"I enjoyed every meal aboard the Galatea," Mrs. Moody said regarding her "sailing ability." "but it got so rough yesterday we had to discard the sails and depend on the engines."

COURT SETTLES LONG DISPUTE

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 7.—A legal battle extending over four and a half years was decided by the State Supreme Court, in Philadelphia, in the case of John L. Nesbit et al. against R. and B. Motor Company, Joseph Riesenman, Sr., and others, with regard to the company's Liberty street office and auto sales room.

The Venango County decision was sustained, prohibiting the use of the property as a public garage and repair shop, but specifying it can be used as a sales and display room for automobiles. The building is in a residential section.

$150,000 Repairs Start at Lock No. 6

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 7.—Reconstruction of Lock No. 6 on the Monongahela River at Rices Landing, to cost more than $150,000, was started yesterday under the direction of J. H. Dodds, United States government overseer. One hundred feet of guide wall is to be constructed in the fifth pool, the lock chambers will be unwatered and the machinery and gates overhauled. The work will require two months.

HARVARD ASKED TO CURB SPORT

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 7.—(AP.)—A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, in his annual report to the overseers, advocated an earlier entrance age for college students, less emphasis on the significance of intercollegiate sport and the abandonment of the degree of master of arts.

The report in referring to athletics, pointed out that two tendencies have been at work in athletics; that within the university there has been an enlarging effort for universal physical training, but that outside the university there has been a tendency to place still greater emphasis on the importance and significance of intercollegiate sport.

He pointed out the difference in attitude toward sports of ancient Greeks and the Romans emphasizing that the object of the Greeks was the cultivation of physical excellence among young men while the object of the Romans was entertainment of the spectator.

"Is not the Greek principle preferrable to the Roman for our colleges?" the report asked.

Japanese Abandon Pacific Flight Plan

TOKIO, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—The Imperial Aviation Society has abandoned its plans for an all-Japanese trans-Pacific airplane flight. The society has been working on the flight since 1926, but its engineers have become convinced that it is at present impossible to make an airplane in Japan capable of covering the 4,500 miles to the American coast.

LORIMER CASE WITNESS DIES

CHICAGO, Jan. 7. (AP.)—Clarence S. Funk, one of the principal figures in the expulsion of William Lorimer from the United States Senate nearly two decades ago, died yesterday.

Soon after Lorimer's election charges were made that legislators had been bribed. Thereupon, a Senate committee investigated and, finding insufficient evidence, took no action.

Later, in 1911, Funk and Edward Hines were discussing the case in the Union League Club. The text of this conversation, divulged by Funk to the Senate committee, was that Hines had "boasted of putting over Lorimer" and that he had asked Funk to help defray expenses. On the strength of this evidence, the investigation was reopened and Lorimer, styled the "blond boss," was expelled.

Just before his departure for Washington to appear before the Senate committee, Funk was named defendant in an alienation of affections suit by John Henning, a bellboy.

Funk charged the suit was a conspiracy to discredit his Senate testimony and later, Henning and his wife confessed the charges were false. Their attorney, Daniel Donafoe, was disbarred.

Funk was 64 years old and was president of the Agricultural Bond and Credit Corporation. He has been in virtual retirement from public life since the Lorimer affair, at which time he was general manager of the International Harvester Company.

SCHWAB MONEY INQUIRY ASKED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Secretary Mellon was asked by Representative McClintock, (Dem.) of Oklahoma, to supply a list of all "dollar a year" employes of the government during the World War, together with the amount of expenses drawn by each.

The request followed the submission by the Oklahoman of 10 questions dealing with naval affairs to Charles B. Shearer, big navy advocate, before the latter delivered an address in New York Sunday. Among the questions was one asking for elaboration of the charge that Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, had drawn $260,000 in expenses while serving the government for $1 a year. In reply, Shearer said government records of October, 1918, contained two vouchers totaling $260,000 and bearing the initials "C. M. S."

URGES INQUIRY

McClintock also asked Mellon if the two vouchers contained an itemized account covering such expenses.

"If Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, drew approximately $500 a day as expense while serving this government during the last war," the Oklahoman said in a formal statement made publis along with his message to the treasury head, "it should be investigated or such action will be reflected on his honesty as long as he lives."

The statement also directed attention to Shearer's answer to a question dealing with the charge that Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, had "instructed Messrs. Hunter, Palen and Smith of the Bethlehem company to get rid of Shearer, their paid lobbyist and observer at Geneva," under threat that a government suit against the company would be pressed.

Shearer was quoted as setting at $15,000,000 the government's claim against the steel company.

FACTS DEMANDED

Asserting Kellogg had not denied issuing these instructions, the Oklahoman said some investigating committee should give these facts to the public and if this sum is due the government steps should be taken to collect it.

"Unless these charges are properly answered by some one," he concluded, "I propose to introduce a resolution creating a new committee for the purpose of obtaining such information."

A Senate committee began an investigation into the activities of Shearer several months ago but adjourned its hearings shortly before the arrival in this country of Premier MacDonald of Great Britain.

"Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So will spend February in Florida," says the society column.

WILKINS' PLANS DEPEND ON ICE

By Capt. Sir HUBERT WILKINS
Commander of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition

(Copyright, 1930, by the San Francisco Examiner and Universal Service.)

DECEPTION ISLAND (Antarctica), Jan. 7 (via S. S. Melville and KUP, San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station).—We have practically completed arrangements to continue the explorations west of our recent discoveries.

The Scoresby leaves today for the Falklands to refuel and take on provisions.

Further success depends largely upon the conditions of the ice pack bordering the vast, unknown coast. Last month, it was impossible to get closer than 120 miles from the shore south of us.

Leaving the ship, we took off in our plane from the water which was about a mile and a half deep, and flew over the scattered ice for 20 miles of pack ice through which the vessel could not pass. It was not sufficiently scattered for the sea plane to take off or land with safety. Near the ship was one large iceberg weighing, we estimated, about 13,000,000 tons. A few smaller bergs were seen further south.

From latitude 68 to 69, longitude 75, the ice was broken into pieces about the size of a city block. There was water between, but the blocks have not changed their relative positions since winter.

HUGE SNOWDRIFTS

Snowdrifts were lying in the direction in which they were formed. The biggest drifts were much larger than those seen in the Arctic Ocean and were formed when the wind was blowing from the northeast. There is very little evidence as to their formation when the wind was in any other direction.

From latitude 69 to within 20 miles of the center of Charcot Land peak, longitude 75, the heavy pack was cracked only here and there. These cracks ran irregularly, but mostly in a northeast-southwest direction.

Southward was a belt of about 10 miles wide of considerable broken pack ice that had twisted and turned considerably since the break up.

Further southward were patches of open water in which the plane might have landed, but the leads were not wide enough for a take-off current across the wind. They would also probably close up when the wind went down. The third ice was crushed only slightly and extended 10 miles out from the island. At most the ice was in about latitude 72, 45 minutes that is about half-way down on both sides of Charcot Land.

ONCE OPEN WATER

Beyond in land-fast ice that fills the straits between the islands and what we believe to be mainland, the presence of icebergs shows plainly that this one time has been open water. On the land surface at 2,000 feet altitude the snowdrifts are high and formed from winds in several easterly directions. Along the north coast of Charcot Land, where black cliffs face the sun, the snow and ice have melted and water lapped the rocks.

Throughout our four flights, crossing about 1,000 miles of Antarctic pack ice, we have not seen one great pressure ridge such as is found on the land-girdled Arctic Ocean.

The research vessel Norvega, leaving Deception Island about the end of last January, reached the land-fast ice south of Peter Island without encountering pack ice.

If such good fortune favors us, we might even try to follow the coast to the Ross Sea or at least add another 500 miles to the coast line of the great Antarctic continent.

Ford Gets Old Gold Mine for Museum

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Plans for immediate removal of the old machinery from the Vaucluse gold mine, in Orange County, Va., to his Museum of American Industry in Dearborn, Mich., were announced here by Henry Ford, automobile manufacturer. He was undecided, he said, about developing the ancient mine properties, which he acquired recently.

Disabled British Ship Gets to Port

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—The British motor ship Fresno City, of the Reardon-Smith Line, which became disabled 52 miles north of here, was towed into San Francisco harbor late yesterday by the tug Sea Scout. The Fresno City, on her maiden trip to the Pacific coast, was en route to Vancouver when engine trouble developed.

Fire Does $150,000 Damage in Scranton

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Damage estimated at $150,000 resulted when fire swept the wholesale grocery warehouse of Michael Kaufman, at Carbondale, 20 miles from here. The upper floors of the three-story building were used as apartments. A 17-year-old girl was rescued from the third floor.

Lantern Upsets, Barn, Stock Burn

NEW PARIS, Pa., Jan. 7.—Upsetting a lantern caused a fire which destroyed the barn of W. A. Stultz, here. Stultz and his son were doing chores when the accident occurred. Three horses were led out, but immediately ran back into the blazing structure and were badly scorched before they could be rescued a second time.

The high wind caused the flames to leap high and set fire to the nearby woods.

Three head of cattle were lost in the barn fire, which resulted in a loss of $4,000.

FLIER ARRESTED IN RUM RAID

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Loren Mendell, 30, former co-holder of the world's airplane endurance refueling record, was held here today on a charge of possessing liquor. Detective Lieut. Walter Bowen, who said he found two gallons of alcohol in Mendell's house during a raid, arrested the flier yesterday.

Mendell said he obtained the liquor for his own use. Bowen said he learned that Mendell possessed the intoxicants through a woman, Blanche Kane, who "tipped him off."

Last July Mendell and Pete Reinhart set an endurance record of 236 hours at Culver City, Cal., a Los Angeles suburb. Later the mark was surpassed by two St. Louis aviators. Mendell also won first place in the 1929 Oakland-to-Cleveland air derby of the national air races.

Her statement that she is the mother of several children saved Mrs. Apalonia Puznakoski, 203 West Main street, Carnegie, from a jail sentence in Federal Court today.

"I should send you to jail," said Judge R. M. Gibson to the woman, "but because of your children I will parole you for two years. I warn you that further violations will mean imprisonment."

$40,000 ASKED IN TWO SUITS

Two suits for personal injuries, received in the same accident were filed in Common Pleas Court yesterday, in which the persons hurt demand $20,000 damages each from the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

It is alleged that the brakes on the railways company car were defective, resulting in Miss Sarber being hurt about the chest, hip and back. Privara suffered concussion of the brain and an injury to his right eye.

James C. Stepp filed a suit against the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle Railway Company for injuries to his head, back, legs and chest, January 13 last. He says a car of the defendant company struck his truck at Perrymont crossing and blames the company for the accident.

Indian Right to Sell Property Denied

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(INS.)—The Supreme Court has ruled that the President has power by executive order to extend the trust period and alienation of an Indian homestead, thus restricting the right of Indians to dispose of their property.

The case grew out of the will of a California Indian, who had sold property without consent of the secretary of the interior. The government contended that in 1906 the President by executive order continued the trust period.

PUNY CHILDREN NEED COD LIVER OIL VITAMINS

Your doctor prescribes Cod Liver Oil for your frail, backward, listless boy or girl because it contains Vitamins A and D.

Without these health-building Vitamins, the bad tasting oil that children hate to take would be useless.

And now, Mother, when you are absolutely sure of getting these magical Vitamins in McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets, we know that you won't torture them with obnoxious liquid Cod Liver Oil any more.

For the able chemists in McCoy's Laboratory are extracting these precious Vitamins from pure, Norwegian, Vitamin-tested Cod Liver Oil and putting them in sugar-coated tablets that children love to take.

Two of these tablets are equal to one teaspoonful of pure Cod Liver Oil and can be taken winter and summer and any progressive pharmacist will tell you that for every ailment, sickness, rundown or underweight condition for which Cod Liver Oil is prescribed that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets are equally as good.

And that means for grown-ups as well as children—Take your Vitamins straight—60 tablets, 60c at any drug store in America. ©1929 McC. L. Inc.

WAR DEBT PAY DAY PROBLEM

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Jan. 7.—(INS.)—In an atmosphere of considerable tenseness, delegates to the second reparations conference here labored today to clear up the problem of the proper date for maturity of the reparations instalments.

The Germans contend the last day of each month is the one on which financial experts reckoned Germany's capacity to pay, while the former allied nations hold that the fifteenth of each month is the date.

While a matter of only about $1,000,000 in annual interest is involved—a small sum in comparison with the colossal reparations debts—the issue threatens to provide a difficult stumbling block for the negotiations.

The German delegates have telegraphed to Berlin asking that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank and a "shock troop" delegate, come to the Hague to help straighten out the tangle.

Dr. Ludwig Kastl, German financial expert who participated in the first reparations conference, is expected here today to add his weight to the German demands.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. Safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c

HOLDUP PAIR'S HAUL SMALL

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 7. Because Andy Daires, owner of Andy's Lunch Room, locks all but a small amount of the day's receipts in the safe before leaving for the night, two young gunmen who held up Earl Walker, lone waiter, got only $5.80 and two packs of cigarets.

When the robbers found only a small amount of cash, one of them shook his gun at Walker, and said:

"Maybe this will persuade him to reveal the rest."

"You can't persuade anything that isn't here," Walker declared.

The men then left.

Police believe they are the same men who robbed the American Drink Shop, of $64 and Jack Allen, waiter in the place, of $58 cash last Friday morning.

He tripped and fell, causing the weapon to explode.

Weather Conditions.

High barometer continues off the middle Atlantic coast, but with reduced pressure along the coast, while the Northwest high moved down over the northern plains. Highest barometer, 30.50 at Huron, S. D. This high is causing cold weather throughout its area. Zero temperatures occurred over the Plains states from Northern Kansas northward, and the freezing line extends as far south as Central Texas. There is a sharp drop in temperature in Illinois. At Indianapolis, Evansville and Cairo the temperature ranges from 52 to 56 degrees, while at Chicago, Springfield and St. Louis, it ranges from 16 to 22 degrees. It is raining throughout the Ohio valley, and southwestward over the Mississippi valley and the southern plains, due to a narrow trough of low pressure that extends from the lower lakes southwestward to Texas. Rain will set in here late this afternoon, and change to snow flurries late tonight, when the temperature will be near freezing.

QUIZ EXPERTS ON PRISONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Nationally known experts on prisons were called into conference by the Law Enforcement Commission as it moved to ferret out the causes for the unprecedented number of outbreaks among convicts in recent months.

Recognizing the problem as one of the more serious of those the commission has been called upon to solve, Judge Kenneth MacIntosh, chairman of the sub-committee on penal institutions, discussed for several hours with the group the basic reasons for the outbreaks and proposals to obviate such troubles. A consulting committee headed by Dr. Hastings H. Hart, consultant in penology of the Russel Sage Foundation, was appointed to formulate conclusions.

VARIOUS CAUSES

Various causes were assigned by members of the conference, including over-crowding, clothing, food and the questions of restrictions, the view of some being that severity of treatment of prisoners contributed more to friction than too much liberality.

Another question brought largely into the discussion was that of why prisons do not reform or cure, and it was indicated that information would be sought on the number of "repeaters" who have returned to prison to help swell the convict population.

Attending the conference were Sanford Bates, superintendent of Federal prisons; Lewis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing Prison; Oscar Lee, warden of the Wisconsin State Prison; Calvin Derrick, superintendent of the State Home for boys at Jamesburg, New Jersey; Judge Charles W. Hoffman, of the Court of Domestic Relations of Cincinnati; William J. Ellis, commissioner of Institutions and Agencies of New Jersey; Dr. Amos W. Butler, former president of the National Conference of Social Work, of Indianapolis; Charles L. Chute, general secretary of the National Probation Association of New York; Irving W. Halpern, representing the chief probation officer of the Court of General Sessions of New York; Dr. Bernard Glueck, director of the Psychiatric Clinic at Sing Sing; Dr. Louis N. PRISON AID FUND APPROVED

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 7.—(AP.)—The Legislature last night passed emergency legislation asked by Gov. Roosevelt to provide for the immediate necessities in meeting the prison situation. Appropriations for the bills total $659,418.

The bills provide for an increase in pay and the numbers of guards, better food and clothing and temporary prison camps to relieve overcrowding in the several state prisons.

Republicans of both houses refused to approve "riders" accompanying the prison emergency bill which would have provided an appropriation of approximately $150,000 for additional inspectors in the state banking department and an appropriation of $178,585 for personal service and maintenance of the new state office building here.

BLAINE URGES INDIAN RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(INS.)—Charging that Indians in Minnesota were "dying this winter from lack of food, clothing and shelter," Senator Blaine, (Rep.), of Wisconsin, introduced in the Senate two bills granting pensions to ailing, blind and deaf Indians in that state. He said the government's treatment of the Indians was a tragedy.

"When winter's snows have melted," he said, "far back from the roads and away from the Indian villages, we will find many old Indians next spring cold in death. This government, by delays and excuses, is permitting these Indians to suffer and die.

PITTSBURGH OFFERS LAKE-CANAL PLAN

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

UNTIL a few months ago Elmer Kenyon was a teacher at Schenley High School. Now he lectures for the Theater Guild, moving from town to town to tell the natives of the plays they'll see. And he likes it.

"My job includes supplying copy to the newspapers," Mr. Kenyon tells, "but I'm not a newspaperman. In Washington when the editor asked me for mid-week specials and advance notices and such things I didn't know what he meant.

"And I told him so. I confessed my weaknesses and the editor was astonished to find ...h a frank press agent. He ...ined everything to me ... one swell space in ...

...enyon is particularly ...ned with resurrecting ...drama in the South. He ...orts progress. In one ...wn—Richmond, Va.—there had been no plays for a year. Business conditions were poor. A newspaper hired the Guild troupe to give its repertoire and cut the price of tickets one-half or more.

PATROLMAN REILLY, of the State Highway Patrol, hailed an auto which was speeding along Babcock boulevard at a late hour. From the dark of the back seat a voice greeted him.

"Officer, my name's Marjorie Nelson. I sing. We're hurrying because I've got to make a midnight show in a downtown cabaret."

searchlight on the owner of the voice.

"What do I do now," Miss Nelson asked, "take a bow?"

A 6-YEAR-OLD girl and an 8-year-old boy rapped gently on the door of the Carl C. Lampe home in Homewood. They wanted to see the Christmas tree.

Mrs. Lampe's brother-in-law, Jim Malloy, of Jeannette, was alone in the home but, polite, he asked the visitors in. After they had exclaimed over the tree, Jim handed each of the youngsters the customary handful of candy. Their smiles widened.

They took leave. As they bounced down the steps Jim heard the little girl boast, "See! I to'd you he wouldn't remember us."

NEEDLESS to say, David Lawrence, the boss of Allegheny County's Democrats, is often mistaken for David Lawrence, the noted political writer. One such mistake furnished former Gov. Al Smith an opportunity to display his ready wit and ability to remember faces.

It happened during the presidential campaign. Mr. Smith, Mr. Lawrence, the Democrat, and a dozen other Democrats comprised several groups which were talking politics. A newcomer was introduced to Mr. Lawrence.

"Oh, yes," the newcomer presumed, "you're the writer."

"No," interjected Al, who had overheard, "he's the reader."

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 7. THIS is a peculiar country. A fool can make money (not only can, but does). But it takes real brains to give it away wisely. That's why three of our finest and most trusted citizens was picked to give away six million, and Al Smith proved himself a big man. Mr. Coolidge naturally saw the things in New England that was tremendously deserving and provided for them. Mr. Rosenwald (whose passion is giving away even his own money) saw his needy in Chicago, and put them on the list. But do you know Al Smith never took one single cent of the money for the Democrats, and if you can find a more deserving charity than them, you will have to journey to Armenia.

YOURS,
Will.

POLICE SEEK 5 BANDITS AFTER 2 HOLDUPS

Negroes Flee in Auto After Taking $115 on Street; Watchman Hit, Robbed

Bandits who last night robbed a pedestrian in the Hill district and a watchman in a Second avenue building were sought by police today.

Three Negroes held up Simon Weber, of 2512 Berthoud street, at Soho and LaPlace streets, and robbed him of $115, Weber reported to police. They escaped in an automobile.

Attacked by two men whom he surprised in the Rea Building, at 704 Second avenue, where he is employed as a watchman, Martin Woessner, 65, of 90 Compromise street, was knocked down and robbed of $2.25. One of the robbers carried a revolver, according to Woessner's story to police.

In view of several pedestrians, Mrs. S. J. Baker, of 4051 Center avenue, was robbed of her purse by three boys while in Duquesne way, near Scott place, last night. The purse, which contained $3, was snatched from Mrs. Baker's arm.

Thieves who visited the home of Mrs. Margaret Owen, at 534 Brown's place, helped themselves to a lunch in the kitchen, and then departed with $8 in cash and a watch valued at $32.50.

Eighteen dollars in cash was stolen from a register in Richest's delicatessen, at 1314 Fifth avenue, by a young man last night. The robber lunched in the place and then looted the register.

Two Sent to Jail As Liquor Violators

Sam Gondelman, proprietor of a tailor shop in Wylie avenue, was sentenced by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker to serve two months' in jail and pay a $200 fine, for violating the prohibition law. He was convicted December 6, prohibition agents testifying having purchased liquor in his place of business.

Nicholas G. Klaus, convicted December 2, of violating the prohibition law at 110½ Electric avenue, East Pittsburgh, was sentenced by Judge Nelson McVicar to serve one month in jail and pay a $500 fine.

COLLEGE HEAD TO BE HONORED

Dr. Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., and former editor of The Independent Magazine, will be guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Pittsburgh committee of the college in the William Penn Hotel January 15.

Plans for the luncheon are being made by Dr. Thomas S. Arbuthnot, president; Taylor Allderdice, F. F. Brooks, James H. Lockhart, John F. Miller and A. W. Robertson, member of the committee.

The following day Dr. Holt will attend a luncheon in the University Club, at which Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, Miss Isabella Chalfant, Mrs. W. G. Clyde, Miss Martha Jamison, Mrs. James H. Lockhart and Mrs. Harry Darlington will entertain.

Camera Question Box

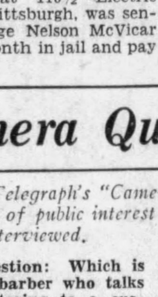
The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: Which is the better, a barber who talks while administering to a customer or the barber that practices silence?

EVELYN REBER, Allentown, saleslady: "Back in the days when my hair needed the attention of a barber twice a week, I found the barber who talked while plying the sheares better than the one who remained quiet. If you have someone to talk to it kills the dullness of sitting for an hour just listening to the 'snip, snip.' Of course, the regulation barber-shop story is taboo."

Miss Reber

M. S. KIMMEL, South Hills, buyer: "When a man wants a hair cut or shave he doesn't go to a barber to listen to a lot of antiquated jokes—dirty ones at that. Not that I object to a spicy story now and then but it seems that the modern barber no longer hears the latest. If he does, he keeps them exclusively for the ladies. The silent barber is the better of the two."



M. S. Kimmel

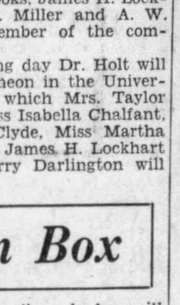
MIKE MAGRINI, South Hills, waiter: "The barber has become a national joke because he has used his mouth instead of his brain and clippers. Of course, there are many barbers who attend to the patron's face and head, but I believe the majority of them feel it their duty to keep a constant flow of conversation in motion. Why can't they be like waiters?"

Mike Magrini

LEO HIRSCH, downtown, advertising manager: "Put me down as saying that the quiet barber is a boon to mankind. The one who crams his pet stories and observations down the customer's throat should be compelled to swallow a handful of a peroxide blonde's hair. Nothing could be worse than that. 'Tip the silent barber and starve the others' is my motto."

Leo Hirsch

MANUEL KURTZ, East End, copy-writer: "Give me the one that forgets he is an authority on finance, politics, fast horses, liquor and the weather. Nothing is more tiresome than listening to the white-coated gentry shoot off their very wide mouths about something of which they know nothing. When I want to be entertained, I go to the movies. When I want a haircut, I go to a barber and pray that he knows enough to keep still and work."



Manuel Kurtz

GRACE ECKERT, Glenwood, cashier: "Since I am a woman and women like to talk, I like the barber who converses while working. Barbers meet so many people and they seem to be up on the latest bit of news—I mean the barbers. Somebody has said that you can't do two things at one time and do both well. The barber is the exception to the rule. He can talk and work at the same time. Yes, I enjoy to talk to my barber."

Miss Eckert

RIVER HIGHWAY PLAN APPROVED

Bids for the construction of the $3,000,000 Allegheny River boulevard will be advertised for as soon as the County Department of Public Works can prepare the specifications.

Authorization for the first step toward building the boulevard was given by the county commissioners at their meeting yesterday on motion of Commissioner E. V. Babcock.

In his resolution Babcock specified that the road is to be of concrete construction. Commissioner Charles C. McGovern voted "No" on the resolution, stating that he is "sold on brick surfacing for boulevards."

Urichsville Man Accused of Killing

DENNISON, O., Jan. 7.—Frank Toneletti, living west of Uhrichsville, was bound over to the grand jury by Justice John Law and lodged in jail on a charge of first degree murder lodged against him by Chief Martin Myers, of Dennison. Toneletti is charged with the slaying of Charles Orland Eggan, of Midvale, September 27, 1928.

RESCUED BOYS RECOVERING

Frank Mozzatte, 13, of 561 Leonra street, and Albert Seeke, 14, of 200 Paulson avenue, pupils in Westinghouse High School, today were sufficiently recovered to tell their friends of their thrilling rescue yesterday from Silver Lake, Washington boulevard, where they plunged through thin ice into the water. The boys had ventured far out on the thin ice when it broke.

Firemen from No. 38 Engine Company, Lemmington avenue, rescued the boys. They were taken to the Pittsburgh Hospital, suffering from exposure. Firemen rescued one of the youths by lowering a rope from the Pennsylvania railroad bridge near the Brilliant Cut-off.

Mozzatte fell into water up to his neck. Firemen were called and they pulled Mozzatte to safety. Murray Schutzer, 34, of 895 Heth street, passing at the time, endeavored to reach the boys but he also fell into the water.

Babcock Boulevard Viewers Appointed

Judge Ambrose B. Reid, of Common Pleas Court, has named E. J. Smith, E. E. Phillips and S. A. Merkel viewers to award benefits and damages for the improvement of Babcock boulevard.

Auto Show Contest

$300 Cash Prizes—200 Show Tickets

(The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph co-operating with the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, is donating these prizes for the best answers and slogans).

HERE is the Sun-Telegraph Automobile Puzzle Contest, based on passenger cars to be exhibited in the forthcoming annual Automobile Show to be held at Motor Square Garden, January 18 to 25, inclusive.

Three separate puzzle pictures, in each of which will be concealed the name of an automobile and in each of which the artist has made at least 10 errors will be published for 10 days in the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

Readers of the Sun-Telegraph are invited to find the names of the automobiles and five of the artists' 10 errors in each puzzle and send them to the Auto Show Contest Editor Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, 612 Grant street, together with a good slogan, descriptive of the Automobile Show. YOU MUST SEND ALL YOUR ANSWERS AT THE SAME TIME IN ONE ENVELOPE AT THE COMPLETION OF THE CONTEST. ACCURACY, NEATNESS AND CLEVERNESS OF SLOGAN WILL BE CONSIDERED IN AWARDING THE PRIZES.

Prizes totaling $300 in gold and 200 show tickets are to be awarded the winners in the contest. Be sure to put your name and address with the slogan at the top of the first page. Your name should appear on each page you send in.

The final pictures will be published January 16. All answers must be in the hands of the Auto Show Contest Editor no later than noon, Friday, January 17. The winners will be announced at the Automobile Show, Monday evening, January 20 and in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph on January 21.

CONTESTANTS ARE NOT TO SEND IN ANSWERS UNTIL THE FINAL PUZZLE PICTURES HAVE BEEN PRINTED, THEN SEND THEM IN ALL TOGETHER AT THE SAME TIME. WRITE THE NAMES OF CARS ON SEPARATE SHEETS OF PAPER WITH THE MISTAKES OF EACH PICTURE IN THE ORDER IN WHICH THE PICTURES APPEARED.

Your slogan must accompany the answers. It may be either rhyme or prose and should be applicable to the Automobile Show. It must be short, snappy and clever. Remember it is an important factor in deciding the winners.

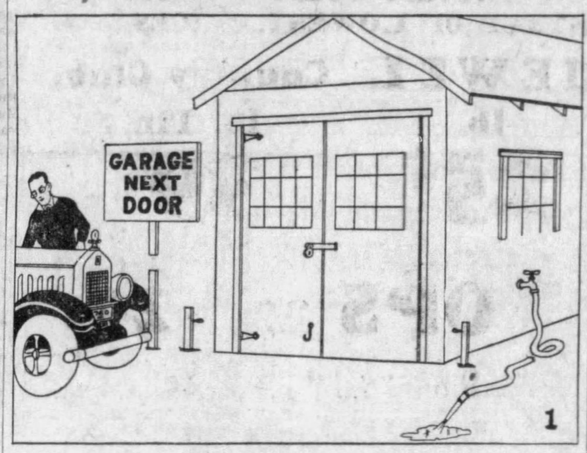
Any person is eligible to enter this contest, except employes of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph or members of their families.

LIST OF PRIZES

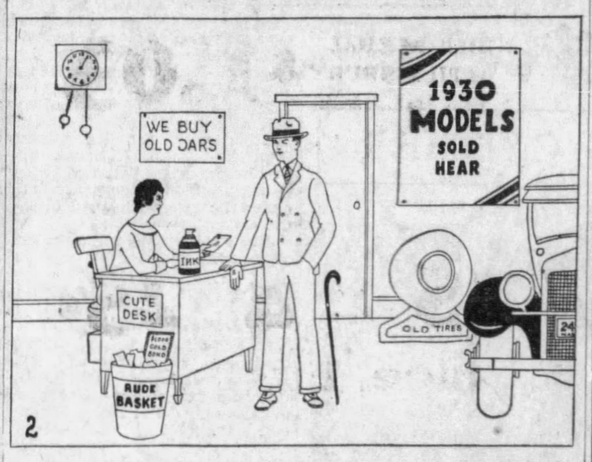
For the best list of correct auto names, discovered mistakes, and the cleverest slogan, the following prizes will be awarded:

First prize—$100 in gold.
Second prize—$50 in gold.
Third prize—$25 in gold.
Five prizes of $10 each, $50 in gold.
Fifteen prizes of $5 each, $75 in gold.
And 100 prizes of two tickets each, good any afternoon at the Auto Show.

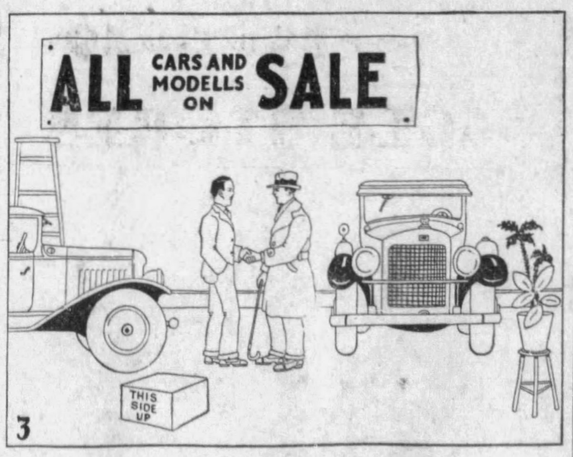
In case of ties, equal prizes will be awarded tying contestants.



The artist intended to make 10 mistakes in this picture and he succeeded. Try and find five of the 10 mistakes—only five of them are necessary to your list. The name of a make of automobile appears in the picture. It is separate and complete—in one line—if you know the proper way to read the line. Try to discover it.



This picture contains 10 mistakes, of which you must find five and list in order to have a correct answer to the puzzle. These mistakes were purposely inserted by the artist, and a complete list must contain five of them. The name of a make of car may also be found. One of the unusual signs contains letters which may be arranged to form the name of an automobile.



There are 10 mistakes in the picture which the artist placed there for you to find. Try to discover five of them, the object being to have just half of the artist's mistakes in your list. The most prominent words in the picture are interesting because their letters, if rearranged will spell the name of a make of automobile. Find the name, along with five mistakes.

Business Here Represented At Meeting to Counteract Project in Reed's Bill

Pittsburgh business interests today answered the challenge of a "dead-end" canal to Youngstown instead of a waterway from the Ohio River to the Great Lakes, at a meeting of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

The question before representatives of the industrial corporations, coal and coke concerns and river interests of the Pittsburgh district was whether support should be given to the bill introduced in Congress authorizing a preliminary survey for a proposed deep channel in the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango Rivers.

FOES ATTEND

Notice of the meeting brought to Pittsburgh a delegation of industrial leaders from Youngstown and New Castle who are working in behalf of a project sponsored in Senator Reed's bill.

A. B. Shepherd, of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee, invited W. H. Stevenson, chairman of the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal Board; Alexander W. Dann, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange, and representatives of the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango River Improvement Association, to attend.

The group supporting the Ohio-Youngstown project were T. J. Bray, of Youngstown, former president of the Republic Iron and Steel Company and president of the improvement association; Louis G. Jenkinger, a member of the New Castle City Council; E. W. Beagel, of New Castle, and A. W. Chilton, of New Castle, secretary of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce, and a spokesman for the Beaver valley and Youngstown navigation interests.

PITTSBURGH PLAN

No program was set up and the Pittsburgh representatives urged support of a canal all the way to the lakes, which, it was explained, would give Youngstown all the advantages of inland navigation and still give Pittsburgh an outlet for lake cargo coal and a water route from the lakes for the low cost transportation of ore and other raw materials.

Backers of the New Castle-Youngstown project voiced their opinions before the meeting and revealed that they have formed a coalition with the promoters of the Youghogheny improvements and the advocates for a deep channel in the Allegheny.

It was pointed out that the United States engineers recently completed a topographic survey of the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango valleys, and have plans for slackwater to the Youngstown basin. These plans call for 11 locks in the Beaver River, 10 in the Mahoning and one in the Shenango.

Eddie Cantor Rises to Say:

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7. CALVIN COOLIDGE, ex-President; Alfred E. Smith, ex-Governor, and Julius Rosenwald, extraordinary philanthropist, dispensed $6,000,000 to charity, as provided by the will of Conrad Hubert, inventor of the pocket flashlight.

If I were on the committee I would have used some of the money for the following:

To provide liquor for certain Coast Guardsmen, so that there would be no need of killing rum runners and confiscating their booze for "party" purposes.

For liniment to be used by ushers in the movie palaces who become muscle bound from bowing and saluting.

To buy dictionaries for some radio announcers.

Replace every dray horse on the city streets with a motor truck.

Keep every postoffice supplied with good pens.

To purchase "no smoking" signs and have them placed in all parts of the Capitol Building in Washington.

For a monument to Amos and Andy.

APPROVES ROAD OVERBROOK PROPOSED

State Will Build Concrete Link from Saw Mill Run Boulevard to Brentwood

Quick action by the County Commissioners secured a new $450,000 road from the state yesterday.

They approved the proposed state highway from Saw Mill Run boulevard in Overbrook to the Miller's Grove—Clairton road in Brentwood.

Immediate action was necessary, for Overbrook became part of the City of Pittsburgh yesterday and its agreement on building the road would have been void if delayed.

OVERBROOK PAYS

John E. Laughlin, solicitor of Overbrook, gave the commissioners $10,000 in two checks, which he said "is the last dollar that Overbrook had."

The road will be built by the state. The county shares the property damage with Overbrook and assumes all property damage in Brentwood and along the road.

It will be three miles long, of concrete construction, and with completion of the Saw Mill Run boulevard will furnish the fastest route to the new county airport.

MEET TODAY

The commissioners are meeting this afternoon to clean up a mass of routine work which has accumulated since Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman, was stricken ill a month ago.

In the two-hour meeting yesterday afternoon considerable work was disposed of. Armstrong called a meeting of the board after he took part in the ceremonies attending the inauguration of Mayor Charles H. Kline's second administration.

When Mrs. Kavanaugh's counsel asked for permission to file probation application, the court replied:

Explain Marital Unrest, Win Award in Gold

Does Hollywood set the fashions for divorces? Do the marital rifts in the movie colony at California's Beverley Hills set the pace for separations? Billie Dove starts the New Year, it is said, by parting from her husband, and among the stars in the divorce courts in 1929 were Lowell Sherman and Pauline Garon.

Mildred Harris figured in a second divorce and was allowed to cut free from Everett McGovern; the Marshall Neilans were divided, Roscoe Arbuckle and Doris Dean were divorced, Lloyd Hamilton lost Irene Dalton, William Boyd parted from Elinor Faire, Norman Kerry was divorced from Rosina Kiser, Emmett Corrigan and Molly Mack each charged the other with cruelty, and Viola Dana quit "Lefty" Flynn.

And that is only half the story of Hollywood. Right here in Pittsburgh, there were 19 divorce cases filed last Saturday and the docket is crowded with others.

Why this tremendous wave of unrest in married life? What makes happy marriages anyway? Do you know?

The Sun-Telegraph will give $250 in gold cash prize for suggestions that may help solve the problem. Send in your ideas in a letter of not more than 250 words in answer to the questions "How to hold your wife?" or "How to hold your husband?" Equal prizes are offered to both men and women readers.

Tomorrow in the Sun-Telegraph comes the most wonderful romance ever written around the problem of marriage and divorce —"Lovejoy," by Beatrice Burton, author of "The Flapper Wife," "The Hollywood Girl" and other serials of equal sensational interest. Don't miss the first big smashing, thrilling installment of "Lovejoy" tomorrow.

In the meantime, send your contest letters to THE LOVEJOY CONTEST EDITOR, THE SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PENNSYLVANIA. The contest will end next Sunday. All letters must be submitted before Wednesday, January 15.

Write your letter today—win a prize in gold.

COUNTY HEARS TAX PROTESTS

"Real estate is bearing all the burden of which it is capable and retain its value," said he. "A halt must be called on expenditures and they must be made to fit the income."

J. W. Cree, president of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, and J. W. Bamford, representing the Building Owners and Managers Association, read statements protesting against any boost in the present tax rate.

Other organizations represented were real estate boards of McKees Rocks, Braddock and the North Boroughs. Mrs. Henry C. Miller was present in behalf of the League of Women Voters.

INHERITANCE TAX DECISION TO SAVE BIG SUM FOR STATE

ORPHANS COURT REVERSED IN CAMP CASE

Levy Against Individual Heir Instead of Whole Estate Condemned by Tribunal

Many thousands of dollars will be saved for the Commonwealth, Attorney H. Stanley Douglass declared today, through a decision handed down by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court yesterday, condemning a method of levying inheritance taxes that was established last year by the Orphans Court of Allegheny County.

Douglass was attorney for the Commonwealth in the litigation that resulted in the Supreme Court's decision. It was an appeal from the Orphans Court ruling in the case of the estate of James M. Camp, deceased.

"The practice to which we took exception," said Douglass, "consisted, in a sense, in levying a tax against each individual heir to an estate instead of against the estate as a whole. The practice was established last July. I do not know how much money the Commonwealth has lost by the method. In the Camp case it stood to lose $200. Of course, in the case of a million dollar estate the loss might have amounted to $1,000. A very large sum will have been saved for the Commonwealth in the future by the condemnation of the practice."

COURT'S OPINION

In upholding the appeal of the Commonwealth in the Camp case, Justice Shaffer of the Supreme Court said, referring to the Orphans Court of Allegheny County:

"Apparently it thought the accumulated experience on the subject since the passage of the first act levying them in 1826 and the customs and practices which have grown up in connection with their imposition and are timehonored, had served their day and should be disregarded. And so instead of levying them in the ancient way, in the adjudication of the estate now before us, this tribunal has brought forth the idea of pro-rating debts and expenses among all legacies and devises instead of deducting them from the gross estate. The recognized method of ascertaining the amount of inheritances taxes to be paid out of a decedent's estate was for the debts and administration expenses to be deducted from the gross estate. There is no warrant in law for imposing the tax in the way the court below did. If such a plan could be adopted it would greatly complicate the fixing of the amounts of tax and the settlement of estates and in many instances give to the Commonwealth less than the percentage fixed by the acts."

The higher court also sustained in part the question raised in the appeal of the Bank of Pittsburgh, trustee of the Camp estate, and the record was ordered returned to court below to fix the tax in accordance with the Supreme Court opinion.

DECISIONS LISTED

Other decisions of the Supreme Court follow:

Sprout, appt. vs. Levinson et al. Lackawanna County. Decree affirmed at cost of appellants.

Nick et al. appts. vs. Craig et al. Erie County. Decree reversed and record remitted so that it may enter a decree nisi disposing of the question of interest in accordance with views expressed in this opinion; such decree is to be subject to exceptions filed by either party in accordance with our equity rules. SAVES HUSBAND FROM PRISON

Benjamin Sheinman, who formerly operated a clothing store at 1200 Fifth avenue, yesterday escaped being sent to the Atlanta penitentiary for one year and a day, when his wife came to his rescue by paying a $2,000 fine imposed on him December 8, 1928, in Federal court.

Sheinman and four others were convicted in November, 1927, for concealing assets from a receiver in bankruptcy. The higher courts upheld the conviction and on December 8, 1928, Sheinman was placed under a two-year parole, a provision of the parole being that he pay a $2,000 fine.

Because of his failure to pay the fine he was taken before Judge R. M. Gibson, who had presided at the trial. The latter revoked the parole and ordered Sheinman sent to the penitentiary.

While being held in the office of the United States marshal, until temporarily committed to jail, pending removal to Atlanta, the prisoner's wife arrived at the office of the clerk of court with money to pay the fine.

Judge Gibson then rescinded the penitentiary sentence and Sheinman was released, with the parole continuing for two years from the time of sentence.

'Believe It or Not' Ripley On Radio Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

ABOUT to retire from her high position in the Metropolitan, Frances Alda, soprano, will be heard over KDKA at 8:30 tonight in a specially arranged Australian program.

Robert Ripley, the famous cartoonist, is scheduled to speak on the RKO Hour, WCAE at 10:30, but being accustomed to the way RKO boys do things we don't know whether to "Believe It or Not." But we hope.

Robert Ripley.

Eveready, Old Gold, Blackstone and the Eskimos have programs of exceptional merit. "Jesus, Saviour Pilot Me" and "Will You Go?" are two well-known hymns on the Sacred Song concert, KDKA at 7:30 o'clock.

We Now Present

WCAE is getting places with the new 1kw transmitter, Johnstown, Canonsburg, Wheeling and other "dead spots" no longer exist, and reports have been received from new territories such as Massachusetts, Florida and Illinois.

Jo Tyler, veteran Pittsburgh orchestra leader, is the new musical director at WJAS, effective today. Jim Hughes is program director.

Jo is a wonderful man to work with. His beaming smile and genial disposition make him an ideal man for the position at WJay.

"KETCH" FORWARDS?

Dick Shonary, of Uniontown, requests that we notify Lloyd Yoder's English teacher that he is still pronouncing catch "ketch." Also that Graham McNamee, "the high-salaried boy," used the pronoun "whom" as the subject of a relative clause.

Local musicians sat up and took notice when Dave Boyd, a popular trombone player, of this city, contributed a solo to the Dutch Master concert the other eve.

The RKO manager has a New Year resolution—that of listing the Tuesday program in detail. Another good resolution would be to have those listed appear.

On the Libby program over KDKA tomorrow morning at 10:45, Mary Hale Martin will tell of an interesting visit with Adolphe Stalle, chef-steward of the Hotel Sherman, New York.

Jerome Kern's one-act opera, "Lamplight," will be the initial Philco Hour over the Columbia chain, Thursday night at 10.

Ernesto and Tony are complaining that where they once used to have the star's dressing rooms they are now up under the roof and that things generally aren't what they used to be for acrobats. While they are mourning the passing of halcyon days, Margie, the cute little blonde dancer in another act, happens along and then—

Try Week-Ending.
Joe, having worked himself to a point of exhaustion, the invitation from two wealthy friends to spend a week-end at their "little country home" is more than welcome, and with his faithful spouse, Joe sets out to knit up the raveled sleeve of care. The restful time Joe had envisioned for himself quickly disappears before the onslaught of a roustering party of fresh air fiends, and much against his will the exhausted business man is forced to lead a hare and hounds chase over the snow covered hills.
Having discarded his snow shoes and made the best of time back to the fireplace, Joe has just relaxed again when the restless horde is upon him once more, this time determined to include him in a skating party. Joe's deliberate immersion in the ice water of the pond does obtain a temporary respite, but his host's solicitude again interferes, and Joe is carted away, via ambulance, to the hospital.

CHILD AWARDED TO MOTHER

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 7.—Judge R. L. Hildebrand in a decision in the case of Mrs. Nora Pearl Norris against Jefferson Craig and Mr. and Mrs. William Frantz, in which Mrs. Norris sought possession of her daughter, Margaret Ann Craig, awarded the child to the mother. In a previous action brought by Mrs. Norris, who remarried soon after she was divorced from Jefferson Craig, the court held that her marriage was still in an experimental stage and awarded the child to the father and Mr. and Mrs. Frantz, an uncle and aunt.

The court now finds that the marriage of the mother has passed the experimental stage, Mr. Norris having a position as manager of a brokerage office in Charleston, W. Va., where his salary is $5,000 a year with a share in commissions. Mr. and Mrs. Norris, the court holds, are well able to take care of the child. The order provides that the father and Mr. and Mrs. Frantz may see the child at certain times.

New Castle Lauds Reed for Canal Measure

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 7.—The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution of thanks to United States Senator D. A. Reed for his introduction of a bill authorizing a preliminary survey for the development of the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango rivers for slackwater and navigation.

The bill was similar to that introduced in the House by Congressman J. Howard Swick.

3 Mine Engineers Injured in Crash

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 7.—Three W. J. Rainey Company mining engineers were seriously injured yesterday when the machine in which they were riding was wrecked by a hit-and-run automobile on the highway between here and Fredericktown.

James Campbell, 40, of Uniontown, is suffering from a probable broken back, and Dave Woodward, 32, of South Brownsville, and Woody Wheeler, 35, of Uniontown, were severely injured about the back, hips and head.

CUBAN EDITORS ARRESTED

HAVANA, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Two Cuban newspapermen, arrested at Santiago De Cuba Saturday on orders from military headquarters and charged with sedition, were brought here under armed military guard.

The arrested newspapermen, Carlos Dellunde Mustelier, editor of "La Region," and Jose Arroyo Ramos, editor of "La Independencia," of Santiago, are both affiliated with the Nacionalista political group which opposes President Machado. The party has virtually been suppressed by the government.

They had published articles attacking President Machado's proposed modification of the Constitution for reorganization of all existent political parties, which was alleged to exclude Nacionalistas.

Their arrest has created considerable discussion in Cuban political circles.

While the government is preparing its case against the two men the opposition party is planning a strong defense and has called upon the American embassy here to aid

FUND CUT, FEAR CHILD DISEASE

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Prediction by Health Commissioner Arnold Kegel that there would be a huge increase in contagion among school children, filing of a suit by a group of firemen to prevent their dismissal, and demand by the Chicago Medical Society that the Health Department appropriation be reconsidered furnished echoes of Chicago's reduced 1930 budget.

Kegel asserted that the slashed funds for his office would necessitate dismissal of several nurses and physicians and make it impossible to detect disease among children in schools until they had become so ill they had to go home.

The firemen's suit, filed by three of them in behalf of the 200-odd dismissed, alleged that they were discharged without being given adequate reason. Mayor Thompson, Commissioner Goodrich and the Civil Service Commissioner were made defendants.

City Treasurer Charles S. Peterson said that January payrolls could not be met until the tax levy ordinance had been passed and until he had been reimbursed, with 1930 tax anticipation warrants for $11,665,106 he said he had advanced, above the corporate fund, from other city funds.

At the Board of Education, a $2,500,000 cut was being considered.

Criticism of Police Commissioner Russell and Fire Commissioner Goodrich for dismissing 473 policemen and 220 firemen was voiced by a group of aldermen who sponsored the economy budget. Alderman Clark, chairman of the Council Finance Committee, said police work could be made more effective if the officers would stop making prohibition raids.

Elk County Medicos To Meet at Ridgway

RIDGWAY, Pa., Jan. 7.—The annual meeting of the Elk County Medical Society will be held Thursday.

MIND TEST FOR FATHER KILLER

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller announced alienists would examine Alan Schumm, 17-year-old University of Illinois pre-medical student, before he decided whether to prosecute the youth who early yesterday killed his father, William Schumm, 43, office manager and auditor, and wounded his mother, Mrs. Fayette Schumm, 40.

Schumm called his parents out of bed and questioned them about their belief in God, then shot both with a borrowed revolver.

Mrs. Schumm, who is in a hospital, with three bullet wounds in her right hip, expressed belief that overstudy and intensive reading had unbalanced her son's mind. The same opinion was held by police who questioned him and found him alternatively flippant and defiant.

"Do you know you killed your father?" Police Capt. White asked, and the youth replied, "Yes, that will make a thriller."

Later, he urged detectives to give him the "third degree" about which he had read.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict holding the youth for his father's death. A temporary warrant, charging murder in the first degree, was issued by the Circuit Attorney's office, but the case will not go to the grand jury until the alienists have made their report. If declared insane, he probably would be placed in a state hospital and kept under restraint.

Dark-eyed and serious-faced, Schumm sat with his eyes on the floor during the inquest. He refused to testify on advice of counsel. Throughout the hearing, Miss Elsa Winkler, a 16-year-old girl with brown curls, sat between her parents and wept. She had turned over to Schumm on Saturday afternoon, her father's 32-caliber revolver, which the student said he wanted to use for "target practice."

SLEUTH PERMIT REFUSED

Declaring that there are enough private detectives in Allegheny County, if not too many, Judge Harry H. Rowand refused the application of Leonard Miller, 28, a clerk in the office of Alderman Saul S. Goldstein, in Quarter Sessions Court and advised Attorney O. Hicks Friedman to withdraw Miller's application, which was done.

There are about 60 private detectives, the judge said. Some have agencies of their own, while others are employed by department stores and similar interests to guard stocks and investigate credits.

Judge Rowand had learned that Miller was to ask appointment as a deputy constable in the alderman's office and showed surprise when he discovered his petition asked a detective's license. He questioned Miller and developed that it was constable work the applicant proposed doing.

West View Church Selects Officers

At the annual congregational meeting of St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West View, Sunday, these officers were chosen: President, H. L. Kreiling; vice president, E. L. Scheffauer; recording secretary, A. E. Seelhorst; financial secretary, F. McB. Wilson; assistant financial secretary, Charles Grater, Sr.; elders, F. F. Thoke and David Simpson; deacons, W. J. Soergel, George Lipp, Harry Stough, Carl Hoffman; trustees, Henry Kind, G. A. H. Hendler; Sunday school superintendent, John G. Reuter. The Rev. Luther P. Spoehr is pastor.

Arnold Council Dismisses Chief

The only drastic change made by Arnold Borough Council at its reorganization meeting last night was the dismissal of Chief of Police P. F. Welsh. Fred Mathews was elected to that office. Patrolman Fred Cameron was also dismissed.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk Visit in Gotham

NOW that there is a brief interlude between the season here and the whirl of events in the southern resorts, comes the desire "to go on pilgrimages." Of course it isn't April, but don't you think there's a hint in the air of violets and of spring freshets and of rich earth awakening to new activity, even though it's January air?

Many folks are not yet ready to set forth for their favorite winter resort, but they find a pleasant change in brief trips to New York or other not-so-far-off cities.

The C. H. Lysles, of Woodland road, are in New York for a few days, I hear, and they are stopping at the Hotel Delmonico, Park avenue. They were married on August 29, don't you recall? Before her marriage Mrs. Lysle was Mrs. Gertrude Wood Lawson.

Spending early January in Augusta, Ga., is a popular member of the younger married set, Mrs. Charles L. Snowdon, Jr.

In New York for the week is Mrs. Reginald G. Quaile, prominent member of the younger set and of the Junior League. She's expected home for the week-end, I believe.

Next week Eleanor Chalfant and her mother, Mrs. Henry Chalfant, will return from Gotham, where they've been for several weeks.

In New York for the opera is Miss Anne Griffiths, of Ellsworth avenue, who plans to remain a fortnight. She's at the York Club, New York.

RETURNING to Hun prep school, Princeton, N. J., after the gay holidays, are Charles B. Alexander, son of Dr. and Mrs. Maitland Alexander, of Ridge avenue, North Side; Allan I. Shirley, of Morewood Gardens; David McCargo, of Woodland road; William Booth Trainer, Jr., of Devon road, and Burton Dunn, of Solway street.

FROM the East comes another engagement announcement. The Franklin McCawleys, of Forest Hills, L. I., have made known the betrothal of Mrs. McCawley's sister, Bernice Taylor, to Alan Donnelly, of Fifth avenue.

SARAH CAMPBELL PATTON, daughter of Mrs. Frank Bennett Patton, of Solway street, who will marry Roland Miner Kenah, son of the Roland Lewis Kenahs, of New Brighton, on Thursday, was the guest of honor last night at a bridge party given by Dorothy Keller, in her home in Lexington avenue. Elizabeth Zeigler gave a bridge supper last Friday evening in honor of the bride-elect and last Thursday Mrs. William C. Hagan and her daughter, Margaret, of Aylesboro avenue, gave a bridge for her in their home. The members of the bridal party were present.

Mrs. Edwin Freed Scheetz gave a luncheon today in the University Club for the bride-elect, and tonight Margaret Fleming Gnabe, of Oil City and Pittsburgh, will give the rehearsal dinner in the Ruskin Apartments.

Margaret Gnade will be maid of honor; Mrs. Ralph Edwin Reed, of East Orange and Margaret Hagan, of Pittsburgh, bridesmaids. Henry Kenah, of New Brighton, will be his cousin's best man, and Frank MacCallum and Lawrence Snyder, both of Pittsburgh, will be ushers. Hugh McElveen Patton will give his sister in marriage, and the Rev. Dr. H. H. Forsyth, of the Sixth Presbyterian Church, will be the officiant.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Minor, Jr., of Mt. Lebanon, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret Lindsay Minor, to Ralph Hills Ely, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hills Ely, of Buckhannon, W. Va. The wedding will take place in the autumn.

CLUB NOTES

IN his talk on "Significant Plays on Broadway" before the Woman's Club of Sewickley Valley yesterday, Barrett H. Clark said there are not many "significant" plays on Broadway. While the season has not been generally considered a good one in New York, it has been better than Stockholm, Paris and London, have enjoyed, he stated. He spoke of the authors, O'Neil, Barry, Kelly, Green, Elmer Rice and Sidney Howard, outstanding in the present American school of drama, as contrasted with a dearth of native writers up to 1900. Among the plays mentioned were "Strictly Dishonorable," which Mr. Clark termed "a delightfully and charmingly immoral play;" "A Wise Child," which is, he said, essentially a vulgar play; George Cohan's "Gambling," the second act of which is worth going to see; "Many Waters," which is a manufactured play but strikes a genuine note; Rice's "See Naples and Die," a major author and a minor play; Milne's "Michael and Mary," and the new Theater Guild plays, together with some other plays which ran only a short time.

Club Women Hear Talk By Powys

THE most exciting thing one can say about Dostoievsky, John Cowper Powys stated in his lecture before the Twentieth Century Club yesterday, is that he gives a hint in his works of what the new culture will be; he indicates an entirely new kind of Christianity, different from anything now existent; a Johanine rather than a Pauline influence.

Mr. Powys, "welcomed back" to the club and not "introduced" by Mrs. Elizabeth Burt Mellor, was speaking with "Dostoievsky" as his subject. He sketched the life of the Russian author and showed how, contrary to the American belief that health is necessary to progress, Dostoievsky had used his unhealth to advantage. Incidentally the speaker observed that "all classics are dirty, noble books; you can't touch life at all without touching pitch; to say you do not like unpleasant books is to admit you do not like great literature. To pretend that life is not horrible is inartistic, unkind and ill-bred."

Mr. Powys recommended several books—Oswald Spengler's "The Decline of the West," Wyndham Lewis' "Time and Western Man," Count Keyserling's "Europe" and Marcel Proust's untranslated "Le Temps Retrouve"—as being necessary to an appreciation of Dostoievsky, and, in closing, he named four of the author's own which, he said, ranked highest. These are "Crime and Punishment," "The Brothers Karamazov," "The Possessed" and "The Idiot."

THE New Future Association, which conducts the New Future Home in Sherman avenue, North Side, will hold its annual meeting in the corporation room of the Commonwealth Trust Company Thursday afternoon. Election of officers and directors will take place. During the last year the home, which makes absolutely no charge for rooms or meals and even furnishes clothing free, has sheltered and cared for 309 women and girls and 68 children. Meals served during the year numbered 6,915 and lodgings were furnished for 2,039 persons. The home has had no definite income during its 15 years, women's clubs, church groups, fraternal organizations and individuals having kept up its budget. For two years $1,000 was received annually in state appropriations. Only once in its 15 years has the home been remembered in a will.

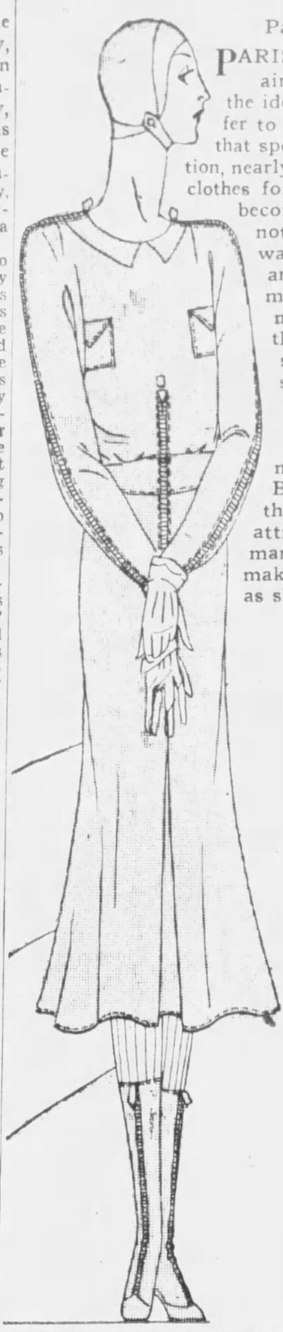
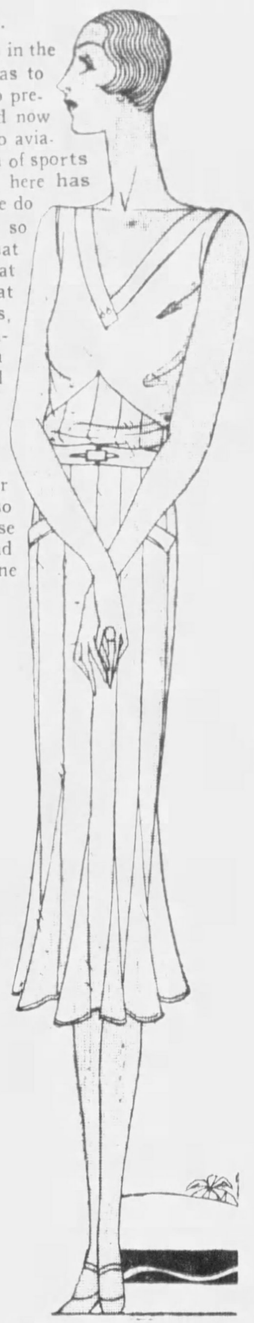
INTRODUCING FASHIONS FOR LAND AND SKY WEAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.





PARIS, Jan. 7.—Aviation fashions are not up in the air. For there are quite definite ideas as to the ideal costume for intrepid lady-birds, who prefer to be pilots rather than passengers. And now that sport includes every pastime from lotto to aviation, nearly every house is offering its own version of sports clothes for various activities. Passenger flying here has become so much a part of the picture that we do not dress especially for it. Planes are so warm and protected from the elements, that any suit or dress with a traveling coat makes a suitable costume. But now that many women are flying their own planes, they are being rewarded by being the inspiration for some delightful aviation suits, as pretty as they are practical, and withal, delightfully feminine. Many of these suits have their derivation from that most unpicturesque of all garments, the overalls worn by mechanics. But there isn't any other relationship, for the aviation suits now being shown are so attractive that they will doubtlessly cause many women to become "air conscious," and make them anxious to learn to handle a plane as skillfully as they drive a car.

WE send for today sketches of a very smart aviation "overall" and the dress that it covers so completely. The suit is by Jane Regny and is typical of the smart sports wear in which this clever couturiere specializes. The "overall" is of natural colored covert cloth with zipper fastenings along the outside of the sleeves and shoulders and at the front of the belt. This method facilitates quick removal of the overall without disarranging the frock worn beneath. The skirt is circular and, of course, ample with an inverted pleat in front. There are two breast-pockets.

THE frock that is content to hide its charms when flying high, is also suitable for general sports wear. It is of heavy white crepe, with a sleeveless bodice belted at the natural waistline and a circular skirt, with two very practical, little pockets. This is the type of little sports frock that will be much in demand for the winter resort season.

Of Course . . .

you can serve it hot

Most people want a hot breakfast dish for a cold day. Shredded Wheat is deliciously warming when eaten with hot milk. Crisp the biscuits in the oven and pour hot milk over them. The flavory shreds retain enough crispness to encourage thorough chewing—that's one reason it's so good for children. Delicious for any meal with fresh or stewed fruits.

10-DAY WORLD TRIP PLANNED

CLEVELAND, Jan. 7.—(INS.)—Plans for flying around the world in 10 days and 12 hours, thereby cutting in two the 21-day record of the Graf Zeppelin, will be completed here by Harry A. Husted, Cleveland inventor and manufacturer.

Husted, who returned from New York, completed plans for a conference with officials of the Fokker Corporation in Cleveland today, for a specially-built ship costing $65,000, with which Husted will make his contemplated around-the-world flight.

Husted announced that he had secured, while in Washington, official authorization to carry four sacks of United States mail on his flight. One sack will be picked up in Cleveland and others in Washington, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The mail will be assigned to Hong Kong, Paris and London.

The route of the proposed flight, starting at San Francisco, will be to Hong Kong, Siberia, Moscow, Paris, London, New Foundland, New York and San Francisco.

It is anticipated that the new aircraft will be completed by May 1, when overland test flights will be started. The take-off on the round-the-world journey will be made June 15.

Eight passengers will make the trip with Husted.

Detour Removed On William Penn

BEDFORD, Pa., Jan. 7.—The detour on the William Penn Highway between Duncansville and Cresson, in effect since the latter part of July, has been lifted and is open to two-way traffic. The pouring of concrete will be resumed in the spring, but grading and other work will continue through the winter.

Many changes have been made on the route, but besides some rough traveling in the vicinity of the second reservoir, the road is in excellent condition. The opening of this route considerably shortens the distance to points in the central and western part of the state.

Sales Manager Given Promotion

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 7.—Arthur M. Long has been appointed assistant general manager of sales of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, with headquarters in Chicago.

He has been in charge of tinplate sales at the main offices in Youngstown. He became affiliated with the sheet and tube organization about three years ago, having formerly been in charge of tinplate sales for Trumbull Steel Company.

Airport May Link New Mail Routes

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 7.—The airport of the Main Aeronautics Company is expected to become one of the stations on the proposed air mail routes from New York to Cleveland and from Washington to Pittsburgh. The route through Greensburg and Chambersburg has already been approved.

A beacon is expected to be placed at the new airport soon.

Former Minister At Mercer Is Dead

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 7.—Word has been received here of the death in Topeka, Kan., of the Rev. David Ramsey Kerr, 79, former pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Mercer. While here, he served as a member of the school board.

TWO EDUCATION HEADS NAMED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Two specialists in secondary education, Leonard V. Koos, of the University of Chicago, and E. S. Lide, of the University of Arkansas, have reported here to work on the national survey of secondary education now being conducted at the Interior Department.

Under authorization by Congress, specialists may be employed for temporary services. Dr. Koos and Lide are the first two thus appointed.

Dr. Koos, author of several books on the junior high school and junior college and director of California's 1928 secondary education survey, was appointed associate director of the national survey by Secretary Wilbur. Lide, who directed curriculum revision in city school systems of Arkansas during the school year 1928 and 1929, was appointed specialist in curricula. Commissioner William J. Cooper of the office of education is director of the survey.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Makes One Look Younger.

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are now setting the styles by darkening their gray hair at home.

For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well-known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with a comb. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

Look Lovely Tonight

Sallow, Dingy Skin made Lovely —Coarse Pores become Fine— Stops oily skin, removes blackheads

Cremed Magnesia clears the skin in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach

The newest discovery in beauty culture is that cremed magnesia beautifies the skin instantly, in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach. This is because skin impurities are acid. Doctors treat acid inside the body with milk of magnesia. And now, dermatologists are getting amazing results in banishing complexion faults with cremed magnesia. All you do is anoint your skin with it, massage and rinse with water. It's as simple as washing your face.

It reduces enlarged pores to the finest, smoothest texture. Being astringent, it drives away the telltale signs of age. It rejuvenates the skin so quickly that any woman can look lovely tonight, years younger.

And because it is so mild, it certainly is a blessing for fine, sensitive skins that soap so easily irritates and coarsens. It removes make-up and extracts impurities deep-set in the pores better than soap or cold cream. It changes dull, sallow skin to radiant clearness and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons.

Test it on those clogged nose pores that stand out so boldly. Let it whiten your neck. It will also keep your hands soft and white. To get genuine cremed magnesia, ask your druggist for Denton's Facial Magnesia. Remember, five minutes works wonders. So get your magnesia today and look lovely tonight.

GUARANTEE

It's impossible for Denton's Facial Magnesia not to improve your complexion. But, should it fail to delight you, even after the very first application, your dealer is requested to refund your money at once without question.

DENTON'S CREMED

Facial Magnesia

NOTE: Do not hesitate to try this marvelous skin treatment at once. Thousands of delighted women have written they could not believe anything so simple could be so wonderful. But they were convinced when they saw so many friends suddenly get lovely complexions.

Reporters Start Out to Probe Mysterious Message

CHAPTER LI.

THE city editor studied the dramatic message. Probably a fake, but run it down. Sitting here waiting for something to break, anyway. Second radio might come from the canyons—Bryce kid and the girl found dead. On the questioning of Laura Dawn might bring out a new angle. Big enough story for a second extra.

All set for this—

A reporter at his elbow suddenly leaned down and pointed to the letter "B" in the mysterious note. The lower half of this symbol was nicked off. The reporter's finger moved along till it found a "t." This was but partly crossed and the "e," "m" and "r" were out of line. Same peculiarities of typing in the four ransom notes! Same machine as sent those deadly precise directions to William Bryce last Friday night had marked off these three sentences.

This message in the editor's hand was genuine!

Immediately the room was charged with excitement. Have the whole mystery cleared and before any one else had a chance!

Two reporters and a cameraman went out with the mystery messenger. He would lead them to the ransom; he would disclose the fate of Patricia Dawn and Little Billy Bryce.

And at this tremendous moment the three people most concerned sat in the detectives' bureau, spent, uplifted, half wasted with suspense.

Laura Dawn was held for question: William Bryce came to aid in the search. And Barbara, white, piteous shadow, whose dark eyes were terrible to see, followed him there. She followed him everywhere, seizing on any comfort, any hope, however wild he offered.

Now they sat with the moving, stupendous word from Guy at once exalting and shaking them.

When this message came William Bryce added two planes to the three he'd sent out at daybreak. These planes left San Francisco at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. They would make the flight to Los Angeles. And at dawn start from there for the canyons. They carried doctors and nurses. Billy was alive—they would bring the child back!

Bryce sat with his hand on Barbara's. Tears streamed down his florid cheeks. Openly he wiped them.

More than anyone else, William Bryce understood what 10 days in a remote wilderness with the dissolute Montgomery and the ruthless Partridge must have meant to young Patricia Dawn. And if that girl saved his grandson, well he knew at what a price it would have been. Well he knew that years, nor money nor words could ever repay her.

Sheik Montgomery and Slim Partridge—both former employes of the Bryce-Elliott plant. Both out of a job when the plant closed down on that ill-omened Monday morning.

Could it be but ten days since his quarrel with Guy? Was it really but three weeks since he, William Bryce, who now sat here bowed prayerful, weeping with emotion, had tried to trick a woman out of her whole heritage? Only three weeks since money seemed so ridiculously important?

What a mockery that he had enough now! How ironic that his copper stock had unexpectedly, abruptly doubled; and that his radio had gone from $2.50 to $16. All the thrill of such luck as this was long, long done—counted not by days but by emotions—he would never tingle to it again.

Superstitiously, he imagined that his love for money had brought this frightful disaster upon Barbara and the child. He was heart-sick even in the midst of his soaring hopes.

"God!—I've done the boy a fearful wrong. Not the lowest man on earth would entrust the girl he loved to a waster like Montgomery; a cut-throat like Partridge."

"All right," said Tim Chase, his jaw blackened and his eyes hard, "who got the ransom then? Who sent that special delivery letter from Berkeley. They have a confederate here. That's plain. And this confederate still appears to be Elliott. He lost his nerve and didn't make a getaway. There's a ring of them. And he's in the ring.

Laura imagined the whole world must rejoice at the mere thought of this. She trembled and reaching out, touched the detective's hand. There was so much of the girl yet in Laura, though she was so richly the mother. Tim Chase didn't wish to see her beautiful, fine, big. But he had something of softness in his own heart that responded to the great profound feeling in hers.

Why the fellow knew just where to find them or he'd be wandering ten years in those canyons!

"Acts like an innocent man, doesn't he? Why'd he need to break jail? Other aviators in the world!"

And he went on with his dogged questioning of Laura Dawn. Queer — hump — she couldn't be found at her home all last night and all today. No sign of her till she was sure he'd arrived. She didn't show up at her home until after he'd sent the radio giving the whereabouts to the whole world. Tell the police about it! Impudent fellow, trying to clear himself with this audacious challenge!

Laura answered with unflinching calm. Yes—she'd visited Guy at the jail, 7 o'clock last night. Yes, he'd told her to get a plane and be waiting in her machine. She'd arranged for his takeoff in the Bryce-Swallow.

But it was quite well known, wasn't it, that Guy was arranging bail? She understood he was to be released immediately. Isn't this the law? She thought it quite natural—ah, if she could operate a plane all the cautions in the world would not have held her back till dawn!—so she thought it but right, Guy being in love with her daughter, that he should fly off without an instant's delay. Most assuredly she'd aided him in this! Is this crime when she thought him free?

Maybe not crime, but rather surprising she'd ducked off and couldn't be reached all Tuesday and all today.

"Why is that surprising?" asked Laura softly. "I was excited when that word came from my daughter. Mr. Chase, you can understand this. I didn't wish to be alone. After Mr. Elliott's takeoff, I took my little boy. We drove to San Jose. I spent the time with my sister. I wanted contacts—human contacts . . . Yes, wanted someone to tell me that Pat was safe.

"I wanted someone to tell me my girl still lives.

"I came back after the radio arrived that I might be near to give aid if necessary. And as soon as you release me I want to fly with Dickie—you've met him, Mr. Chase? We want to fly to that airport at Kingman—be there when Pat comes back to us."

"Well," said he with forced gruffness, "why didn't you report your part in the escape you read this morning that Elliott had broken jail?"

Laura replied with sublime defiance: "My daughter's life is more important to me than upholding jail discipline. Mr. Chase, if your little boy's life was in danger and you knew someone who could save him—never mind if that someone is black as pitch—your child is in danger. Will you cry out to the police to stop the man who can save him? If so, you are a better citizen and a poorer soul than I shall ever stoop to be."

Nothing could shake her. She said to Barbara Bryce: "Do you know that the boy we have both trusted in a happier mood, has nothing to do with this? Do you not feel that Pat has struggled with these men, and at whatever cost will bring your baby back to you? If life remains she will!

Barbara answered: "Your daughter could never have part in this. I have seen her—" After a moment she added: "Nor could Guy!" She was suddenly remembering the day she jumped from the parachute. Guy lifted her. He drove her home.

She remembered the dark beauty of his look—the tender youth in his eyes. Looking up to them, she had loved him; had admitted to herself that she loved him.

Now she wept. Now she prayed that the strength she imagined then in Guy Elliott would rise and save her son.

The reporters and the cameraman drove out through the mission . . . On and on. They came to a small dark street—a small gray cottage with five steps leading to the front door.

Here the messenger handed them a second envelope. And here he left them.

"You're to read that letter. It tells you what to do." The letter contained keys, and explicit directions how and where to use them.

One of these keys was to the front door.

Household Hints

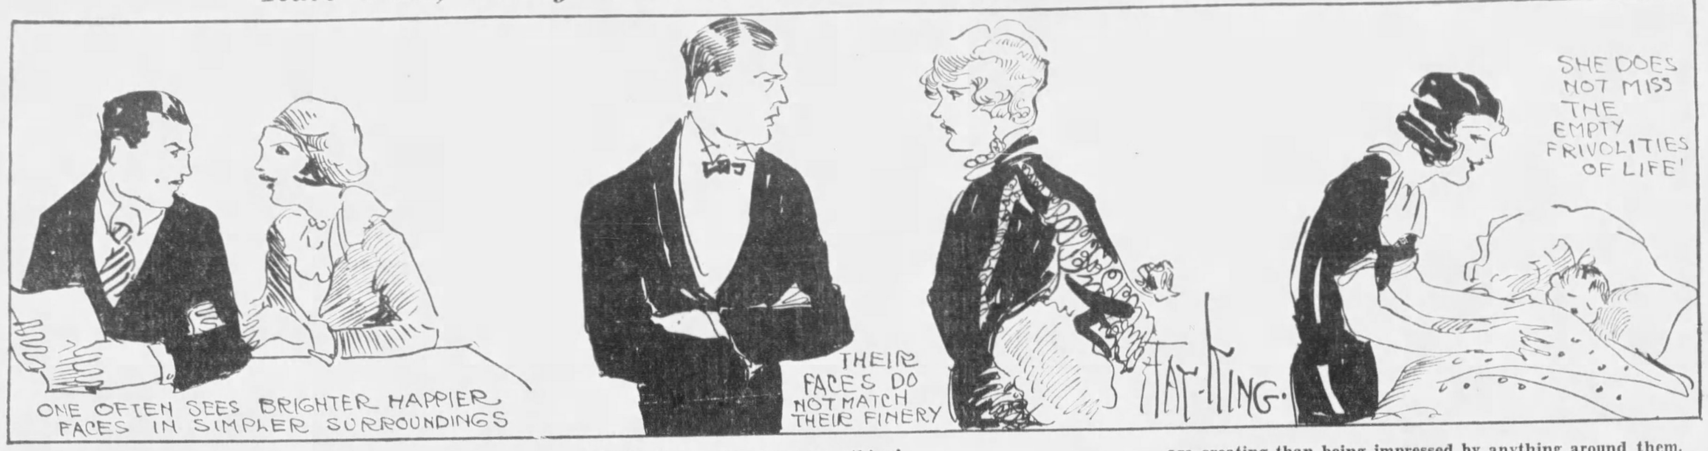
Creaking hinges should be rubbed with a piece of soap, as oil sometimes spoils the paint.

A small lump of sugar added to green vegetables when they boil improves the flavor and retains the color.

A little vinegar added to stewing prunes greatly improves the flavor and lessens the quantity of sugar required.

Steamed vegetables retain more flavor than boiled ones, but longer time, from five to ten minutes, must be allowed for cooking by this method.

Rare Furs, Costly Gems No Sign of Happy Heart, Says Fay King



By FAY KING

OVERLOOK the finery on many folks we see and there is not much to envy.

We glimpse them stepping from a costly car, in priceless furs and jewels, dashing into some exclusive place, and we envy them a little thinking they have everything!

But we scarcely look at their faces, we are so interested in their ornaments.

Often their faces looked dissipated and discontented. They seemed so bored. They are more aware of the impression they are creating than being impressed by anything around them.

There is more to envy in the bright, happy faces we find in little byways, so really happy and alert; one is never aware of what they are wearing!

Nothing bores them. They are happy, in love with life and hope!

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge's Failure to "Tip"—Mary Brings New Problem.

LILLIAN struck her hands together triumphantly at my comment on Princess Olina's interference with Georges and Mary.

"You've got it," she said. "Those two girls are just poison to each other. Mary was all set to carry out the disillusion thing with Georges—and didn't she put that scene over?—but when Olina threatened to hog the center of the stage with Georges, Mary just couldn't resist letting the fair princess see who really had the right to the spotlight."

"She's a born 'trouper,' Mary," Mr. Underwood interposed with emphasis.

"All of that and then some," his wife agreed. "But if she's going to let her 'art' run away with her happiness she's going to hamper our scheme considerably, for Georges appears to be doubling for the traditional 'wax in her hands.'"

"I think it is only appearance," I said slowly. "He's a canny youth as well as a chivalrous one, and when he's away from Mary's magnetism, he's going to do some serious reflecting upon the fitness of his fiancee to shave a throne even if in this topsy-turvy post war state of royalties, his people should sanction the marriage."

"And dear Princess Olina is going to be at his elbow as often as she can manage it with smooth little aids to those reflections," Mr. Underwood said. "The boy isn't so wrapped up in Mary, either, that he hasn't any eye for his old pal."

"We all saw that," his wife assented. "It all rests with Mary apparently. If she can batten down her jealousy of Olina long enough to hand Georges a few more jabs like today's, we ought to begin to see results."

"Did you ever reflect," her husband drawled, "that Mary may be infected by the idea of sharing a throne more seriously than she herself realizes? If she is and she lets it crowd out her yen for Noel, then all bets are off as far as Prince George is concerned. If he marries her, they'll probably be divorced within the year, but don't make any mistake about this—if she plays the right card, she marries him despite a dozen princesses even as beautiful as Olina. So if you have any trumps in your hand, Lady Fair, you'd better play 'em."

The look at me which accompanied the words was disconcerting.

"What makes you think?" I began.

"Your tell-tale face, my dear," he returned with a grin. "All the time we've been talking, you've been asking yourself a question. I'm not asking you what it is, but I've a hunch you'd better answer it."

I was conscious that Lillian's eyes were on me also, and I threw down my defenses.

"I'd rather tell you both what it is," I said, "for you're right. I have been questioning my own course. I promised Noel that I would make Mary understand the reason for his exaggerated show of devotion to Olina, and—I haven't yet told her."

"Did you name the exact hour and day you meant to tell her?" Harry Underwood bent toward me with the air of a man waiting to hear a decision which would mean his life—or at least—his fortune.

"No I dodn't" I returned, smiling at his nonsense as most of his friends do.

He sank back in his chair as if relieved of a heavy burden of doubt and put the tips of his fingers together.

"Then," he said, after a moment of silent contemplation, "the judgment of this court is that your silence is eminently justified. What is the verdict of the Supreme Court?"

He waved his hand importantly toward Lillian, and she smiled at me.

"Discounting Harry's nonsense," she said with a little grimace at him, "I think you've been right so far—and you'd better keep right for a time."

"But—" I faltered—"Noel."

"We'll take care of Noel," she said. "You won't need to tell him any lies whatever. Just keep away from his confidences for a few days, that's all. Harry and I will double for Machiavelli, and while we're assuring him that Mary 'understands' everything, we'll be dropping veiled comments upon Noel's devotion to Olina in Mary's ears, and openly congratulating old Phil Veritzen upon the success of his scheme. Oh! We'll be the vilyuns all right, and do all the dirty work. All you've got to do is to keep silent in seven languages."

"I shall try to do that," I said, with a wry little smile. "And thank you for taking the responsibility from my shoulders My conscience was really troubling me about Noel."

"Don't waste time worrying about that lad," Harry Underwood advised. "I didn't know he had so much finesse, also histrionism, in him. He's his daddy's own boy in those respects. And it won't do Mary any harm to see him doing the heavy devoted in Olina's direction. Of course, if she shows signs of cracking under the strain, then you will have to tell her of Noel's artistry. But it's Olina who'll break first."

His words came back to me forcibly the next morning just after dawn when I came out of my door to go up to the roof for the brisk walk which was my custom every morning. At the door of the other apartment stood the night bell boy evidently protesting, though reluctantly, against a command being given him by Princess Olina who, in kimono and slippers, with her hair loosely braided, stood just inside the doorway.

"But you must get it," I heard her say. "I don't care what it costs. I want it now."

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

These Husbands.

ONE of the hardest things about being a wife is to have somebody "repenting" around you every few days.

When you are twenty you can say it with a box of chocolates or a few sprigs of arbutus; at thirty you can it with words; but, after forty, she won't hear you unless you say it with orchids, terrapin and opera tickets.

The modern girl sometimes thinks it would be nice to marry, for a little while—until something better turns up.

Marriage is the point at which a man stops saying, "What's the matter, darling?" and begins saying, "What's the matter NOW?"

The old-fashioned girl was merely more subtle; she left only a stray hair on the coat lapel instead of a daub of rouge on the collar.

Many a well-intentioned man will bring his wife home a five-dollar box of chocolates when what she is starving for it just two cents' worth of boloney."

"You never heard of a woman coming home from a beauty parlor so changed that her husband failed to recognize her," remarks the versatile Sam Hill. Alas, no. But she only hopes, wistfully, to come home so changed that he'll LOOK at her!

After a few years of domestic diplomacy, a woman becomes so dextrous that she can wriggle into anything, from a tight jersey dress to a select social set—and out of anything, from a domestic impasse to a one-door sedan.

It is not a man's absent-mindedness about anniversaries that discourages a woman so; it's his absent-heartedness in celebrating them.

Announcements to Wedding Guests

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Does one send wedding announcements to those invited to the wedding? No formal invitations will be issued to the wedding.

NO, the guests who are invited to the wedding, even if they are invited informally, are not sent announcements of the wedding.

When Leaving a Group to Dance

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When getting up to dance, should one excuse herself to the people she has been talking with?

2. Should the couple start dancing as soon as they rise, or wait until they get in line with other dancers? J. G.

YES.

2. They should begin at the time when they will not crowd or inconvenience the other dancers. Else they will deserve the "black looks" that they will receive.

Salad Service

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

There has been quite a discussion in our family as to the use of salad forks when serving a dinner. Is it correct or incorrect?

CONSTANT READER.

IT IS correct. If the salad course is served, as it usually is, as a separate course, salad forks are placed. And nowadays salad knives too! For American silversmiths at last are manufacturing salad knives. To the joy of those who think that it is sensible and convenient to use not only a salad fork, but a salad knife as well, when they eat such salads as the ever-popular hearts of lettuce salad, or iceberg lettuce, or salads made with such ingredients as circles of pineapple, or stalks of endive, or other difficult-to-manage items.

And if, on the other hand, the salad is served with the meat course, the salad fork should be placed too, so that the guest may have the choice of eating the salad with a fork that is especially adapted to salads. The salad fork should be placed at the left of the plate, next to the dinner fork, but nearest the plate.

Ink for Letter Writing

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it better to use black ink when writing letters? Just what kind of ink should one ask for when buying for correspondence only. JACK.

YES, black ink is considered the very best kind of ink to use. If you will send me an addressed envelope, I shall be so happy to tell you of the "perfect" black ink that I have used—most happily—for several years. And it does make writing a joy. It never clogs a pen.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Anaemia Too Common in Young Folks of Today.

ANAEMIA is an all to prevalent disease. There are myriads of cases of the "secondary anaemia," so-called, especially among young girls of the adolescent age. And an extreme type of anaemia, which is very serious, is called "pernicious anaemia."

DR COPELAND

Any condition which may be termed anaemia is serious enough. In most cases the red corpuscles of the blood are lacking in numbers. Because they do not perform their function, the girl is down in health. She may complain of headaches, low spirits are noticed, there is lack of mental vigor, she suffers from acidity of the stomach and constipation.

In times past, acute anaemia was a very common diseases among girls of school age. Boys were practically free from it. Why was this? It used to be that school girls were considered "unladylike" if they engaged in any form of exercise other than taking a formal walk with a chaperone.

That was a Mid-Victorian idea! Things are quite different now. Girls take part in almost all the sports that boys do. With this free, out-of-doors exercise and play most girls enjoy robust health today.

Among the causes of simple anaemia are loss of blood, and intestinal auto-intoxication, with or without constipation. The condition we call "acidosis" is likely to be present.

Diseased teeth and tonsils may have much to do with bringing on this condition known as anaemia. Many serious ailments are traced to infection of the teeth and other local infections.

The mode of living must be changed radically. The anaemic person should have plenty of fresh air and sunshine. There must be improved diet, wholesome food and the best of care under the doctor's direction.

But a good diet alone will not bring back normal health. Proper rest, and exercise in the open air as the patient grows stronger, will assist in the desired result.

You must first remove the cause, then the red corpuscles take care of themselves. You will help to build up the blood by a well-balanced diet. The presence of anaemia means undernourishment of the body. From the lack of the right food, of fresh air and sunshine the poor body is denied the nourishing elements. Anaemia is a natural result.

The digestion of the anaemic person is often impaired, and so easily digested foods must be eaten. Milk and eggs, cereals with cream, fruits, together with orange juice, tomatoes, spinach, lettuce and similar foods to provide the necessary vitamins, iron and other mineral salts must be included in the diet. An abundance of proteins such as muscle meats, liver and kidney are useful in building up the bodily tissues, including the blood.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, January 8.

THE astrological forecast for this day is not considered a propitions one for the general trend of events. There are adverse aspects for those in the employment of others, and the financial outlook is hazardous for all interests. In fact, there may be sudden losses through speculation or even through personal extravagance or foolhardiness. All funds should be rigidly safeguarded. There is the possibility of an abrupt change or journey with results not of a profitable character.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year in which they should conservatively and carefully handle their funds if they would be free from financial loss. Speculation and rash investments, as well as personal extravagance, threaten. Employment is also in jeopardy and an unprofitable and abrupt change is imminent. Guard the affairs against fraud and treachery.

A child born on this day may be inclined to be restless, fond of change, especially in employment.

PANTHERS NEARING HOME

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Baseball Vets Return.
Two Plan Come-Backs.
Several Fail in 1929.

Grid System Defended.
Another Grimes Fake.
Long Pact for Hanley.

O'NEIL AND HOLLOCHER TO TRY AGAIN

THE come-back bug is biting some former big leaguers in baseball. That has come to be almost an annual story. Last year saw Lee Meadows, Bill Doak, Billy Southworth and Fred Haney, among others, try to do the return act, only to fall down in their attempts. Even Ray Schalk went in and caught in five games for the Giants, only to go back to coaching. Earl Sheely, Emil Yde and Jimmy Zinn managed to last through the campaign, but now they're in the minors again.

Mickey O'Neil

Undaunted by these failures, at least two other veterans who have been out of the game for some time are planning to give it another whirl during the 1930 season. One is Catcher George (Mickey) O'Neil, and the other is Shortstop Charley Hollocher. O'Neil has already signed a contract, in fact, the St. Louis Cardinals having decided to give him a chance on the spring training trip to show whether or not he is again capable of giving big league service.

MICKEY, who will be 32 years old on April 12, has done duty for four clubs in the majors—Boston, Brooklyn and New York in the National League and Washington in the American. After six consecutive seasons with the Braves he was traded to Brooklyn on October 7, 1925, with Jess Barnes and Gus Felix for Zack Taylor, Jimmy Johnston and Eddie Brown. He joined the Senators in 1927, was obtained by the Giants on waivers, but soon was cast adrift.

O'Neil went to Toledo in the American Association in 1928 and was traded to Louisville before the end of the season, but developed arm trouble and was made a free agent. The peppery backstop, after a course of treatment in St. Louis, claims that his throwing arm has come around again, and put up such a convincing argument to the Cardinal bosses that they finally consented to give him a contract.

HOLLOCHER'S case is different. He was still one of the greatest shortstops in captivity when he voluntarily retired from his post with the Cubs in 1923 after a prolonged worry over his health. Physicians assured him it was only a case of "nerves," and the Pittsburgh club offered to make a deal for him if he would consent to make a new start here, but the player persisted in the belief that he was seriously ill and would have to give up the game.

But Charley bobbed up at Cub headquarters the other day, rosy-cheeked, carrying a lot of newly gained weight and looking the picture of health. He said he had just returned from the Mayo Brothers Hospital in Rochester, Minn., where the doctors found he was in good shape, with nothing wrong except shaky nerves. Hollocher admitted he was thinking of entering baseball again, and when President William L. Veech, of the Cubs, suggested Los Angeles as a preliminary starting point he said he might give it a trial.

Charley Hollocher

SOME interesting observations on college athletics are offered by Charles D. (Tod) Rissell, of Thiel College, Greenville, following a speech made by him on the same subject at the recent annual banquet of the Varsity S Club, of Sharpsville High School. In the important matter of "going straight," Rissell sees a danger of "bending backward" to the point of discrimination against a student who may have athletic ability. On the question of scholarships, the Thiel manager points out that these are sometimes given to boys who have debating, oratorical, or even ministerial leanings, and he says it would be obviously unfair to encourage the lending of money to worthy students only on condition that they take no part in athletics.

"THE conditions surrounding college athletics have been improving rapidly," Rissell says. "The migratory athlete has disappeared. To enter college athletics, the student must be a graduate of a first-class high school, and to remain on the squad he must keep up his college work. He must get an education along with his athletics. The number of years he can play is limited.

"Even in extreme cases, the compensation is not sufficient to make college athletics a calling or profession. The average athlete would pay to play rather than miss getting into the game, and he accepts aid only as a means of getting an education. I grant that there is yet work to be done, but it must be done by the friends of athletics, not by enemies. Care must be taken that we do not discriminate against the athlete.

"AT our school we offer certain scholarships. The valedictorian of any first-class school may have one. Scholarships have been endowed for ministerial students. Shall we award scholarships, give part-time jobs or encourage the lending of money to worthy students only on condition that they take no part in athletics?

"Shall we bar from intercollegiate contests any student who receives help from any one except his immediate family? Let us go straight, but let us not bend backward. And if we penalize the athletes, shall we be equally strict with those who represent the schools in debating or oratorical contests?

Charles D. Rissell

"THERE is an outcry against athletics as big business. I can see nothing wrong in the building of big stadiums to accommodate the many thousands who like college sports, nor in the use of modern accounting in handling the business. Nor can I see why we should pay the teachers of ethics and psychology and refuse to pay the teachers of football. Great coaches are as rare as great surgeons, and can ask compensation in keeping with their greatness. The Carnegie Foundation has done a great service in showing the conditions prevailing in college athletics. We admit that there is work yet to be done, but we want it to be done by the friends rather than the enemies of clean athletics. At Thiel we are trying to keep things as clean as they ought to be, but we do not intend to penalize the young men who do so much for the institution."

ONE of the latest contributions to the winter output of baseball fiction makes the Pittsburgh club and Pitcher Burleigh Grimes two of its characters. It appears in a New York newspaper and says that both Grimes and Dazzy Vance are slated for coming trades.

Grimes, it is said, has declared very emphatically that he is "through" with the Pittsburgh club, and that the Pirate owners, believing that he will adhere to his plan "to ask for a $20,000 salary" (it was $25,000 a couple of weeks ago), are trying to trade him to Cincinnati, "after failing to get Jim Bottomley from St. Louis."

DAN HOWLEY, runs the yarn, has refused to give Red Lucas for Grimes, but may offer Hugh Critz and a left-hand pitcher for Grimes. Finally, a three-cornered trade among Pittsburgh, Brooklyn

Syracuse Drops Out Of American League

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—The franchise of the Syracuse club of the American Professional Basketball League was declared forfeited here tonight. The announcement of forfeiture was made my John J. O'Brien, president of the league. The action was taken, it was announced, at the request of the Syracuse promoters, who have been unable to obtain the players necessary to make the club a contender for the second-half championship race.

SERGT. SAMMY RALLIES TO SCORE WIN

By HARRY KECK.
Sports Editor.

A former soldier man, Sergt. Sammy Baker, of New York, marched, marched, marched bravely into the flying fists of young Joe Trippe, of Rochester, N. Y., and seeming defeat in the 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden last night until he finally found himself plodding on to victory.

At the final bell, both judges and the referee had to perform the unpleasant task of depriving Trippe of official credit for his hard and brilliant battle by casting their votes against him and in favor of the veteran of Uncle Sam's forces and the ring. It was that close, one of the closest bouts and perhaps the most sensational main bout ever fought in Pittsburgh by two out-of-town boxers under modern conditions. And it rounded out the greatest fighting card the Garden has known in years and played to a near-capacity crowd which paid around $6,000 at the popular prices of $1, $2 and $3 to witness the spectacle. Throughout the windup the crowd was in a fever of excitement and at the finish it gave both boxers an ovation.

EXPERIENCE, PUNCH WIN

Baker's experience, real ring courage and harder punch carried the night for him in the face of a stern, aggressive battle waged by a determined youngster, who at times all but ganged him with flying fists. So close were they at the final bell that their condition at that time entered into the outcome. Baker finished up swinging for a knockout that could not have been far off, while his opponent, fought out to the point of exhaustion, was hanging on, the gong coming as a welcome sound to his ears.

The decision was not well received, but it was a fair one, although Trippe won five of the rounds against Baker's five. Baker's more effective punching in his winning rounds and the accumulative damage of his body hammering even in the rounds that went to his opponent, resulted in the final wilting of Trippe, and gave the plodding but gallant Sarge his slim margin of victory. The crowd set up a booing at the announcement of the verdict, but it was noticeable that virtually all of the dissenting voices came from well back in the seats, where Baker's powerful inside work may have been missed and Trippe's rushing and outside swinging magnified in the eyes of the onlookers.

TRIPPE TAKES LEAD

Baker sported a three-pound pull in the weights when they scaled in at 3 p. m. Trippe forced the fight from the very start and won the opening round. Fighting along the lines of Jimmy Slattery, with his hands at his sides, he kept on the move, attacking Baker while circling about him. He started off the same way in the second round, but Baker, wasting nothing, plodded into him and, hitting straight, outscored him and finished the round with a rousing right to the jaw that rocked Trippe.

The third round was a great one for action, with Baker pounding away to the body in the clinches at the start, but Trippe coming on to win the honors with a slugging finish. In the next two rounds it looked as if Trippe, who had knocked out Tug Phillips and Tiger Joe Randall in bouts in McKeesport, might "take" the veteran. He swarmed all over him, hitting Sammy with all manner of punches and all Baker could do was to hammer the body in the clinches at the end of each Trippe splurge.

ROOKIE JARVIS AIMS TO LEAD BUC SCORERS

By CARL W. SHATTO.

What a man!

Who? Art Shires?

No. Bud Jarvis, the Pirates' spare wingman.

Frank Frederickson, the Bucs' pilot, says that if he never does another meritorious deed as skipper, he still will regard his managerial career as a success because he is the gent who found hockey's find of the season.

Bud Jarvis.

Roger Smith predicts that within two years Jarvis will be the greatest forward in the ice sport. Frederickson and Smith are veterans who have been traveling in hockey's fastest company for many years. They know a hockey player when they see one.

Bud, one of the fastest men on skates, is a performer of the Herb Drury type, and, like Herb, he is able to capture the fancy of the crowd. When Jarvis leaves the ice the fans give him a lusty cheer. He is certain to succeed Drury as the local ice idol.

Any one wishing to toss a fly into Jarvis' ointment well might insinuate that something more than fast and flashy skating is required to score a goal and that sweet sentiment never won a hockey game.

True, Oscar, so let's forget the warm sentiment and take a look at the cold statistics.

One look is enough. The figures indicate that Bud is likely to lead the Pittsburgh club in scoring in his first year in hockey's major circuit.

ON SCORING SPREE

Last season Jarvis was helping the Port Arthur club to win the Canadian amateur title. He donned a Pirate uniform at the

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Ownership and authority are in such a muddled condition in several of the National League franchises that the sport in the circuit is apt to suffer.

Such a lack of team-work on the field by any of the clubs involved would spell disaster quickly, yet in the councils of the game the bad condition is allowed to continue.

The Brooklyn deadlock for several years has been little short of disgraceful, with grown men, full of years, refusing to speak to each other while conducting the business of the club. If that's the big-league idea of broad-mindedness, a lot of minor leaguers will hope to stay where they are. The Brooklyn players are big-leaguers, but their alleged superiors are not showing enough class for a bush circuit.

A FINE EXAMPLE!

And the spirit of the Dodger ownership seems to have been carried over the bridge into the inner sanctums of the New York team. The mixup concerning the Giants is hard to fathom so extensive are the ramifications.

Perhaps it would be a fine thing for the league and baseball as a whole were William F. Kenny to take the controlling interest of the team. Kenny recently bought up some of the stock; he seems to be the sort of a man who would give the city a dignified representation, free of alleged bucket-shop manipulation and all that sort of thing.

John McGraw stands out as one of the biggest figures in the game, but although he is an officer of the New York corporation he appears to have lost much of his official grip through one cause or another. Put McGraw in charge with the authority he ought to have and things would be different in Manhattan.

A "NOBLE" EXPERIMENT

Boston, Philadelphia and Cincinnati are other cities wherein a bad flavor rests. The ownership of the Braves has been tossed about so much that one scarcely can follow it. Judge Fuchs staggered about until he went on the bench to manage the club. There was a hot big-league stunt but one can get away with many things on a great sport that stands for so much abuse.

In Philadelphia, President Baker sold players in such a high-handed manner that the National League came to a terrible pass there. Burt Shotton appears to have improved the chaotic condition and may lead the Phillies out of the wilderness if he can stay away from his so-called superiors.

Down in Cincinnati the ownership has just changed hands after a series of financial reverses. But it remains to be seen whether there are any practical baseball men in the outfit.

The situation in St. Louis seems to be O. K., yet only in Pittsburgh and Chicago does there seem to be the teamwork the magnates demand of the boys on the field.

Small wonder if President Heydler is worried about his league.

PITT ARRIVES TOMORROW NIGHT

By JESS CARVER,
Staff Correspondent.

EN ROUTE ACROSS KANSAS WITH PITT FOOTBALL SQUAD, Jan. 7.—Eating, dozing, reading and flipping an occasional card, the solemn athletes of the University of Pittsburgh, en route homeward after having taken part in the annual Tournament of Roses football game New Year's Day in Pasadena, Cal., are crossing Kansas today, with less than 48 hours to go before they detrain in Pittsburgh tomorrow night at 8:35 p. m.

Breakfast was stowed away at a very early hour in Dodge City. Hutchinson is to set up the luncheon and Kansas City will play host to the Panthers at eventide.

CHICAGO TOMORROW

The party, being very close to the good T-bone steak belt, is being fed anything else but. While we were in New Mexico, Arizona and California, where a filet is regarded with awe and wonderment, we were served just that kind of steak. Now that we are in a spot where it is possible to sink one's tusks into a nice, juicy tenderloin, we get chicken.

At 8:10 tomorrow morning, the Pitt pullmans will steam under the train shed at the Dearborn Street Station in Old Chi, and three quarters of an hour later, will roll out over the lines of the Pennsy, with 11 hours to go.

Stops, for meals only, were made yesterday at Gallup, N. M., Albuquerque and Las Vegas. It was originally planned to take the boys over the interesting, educational and really beautiful Indian detour, but at the last minute last Friday night, the Pitt officials changed their minds, and decided that the boys should be returned to their classes as soon as possible, hence, the Indian trip was sliced from the itinerary and the party cut short one full day.

Travel Talk

Dr. John Bain Sutherland, who was just about ready to come out of his shell of aloofness when Southern California struck his team New Year's, characterized Russ Saunders, Trojan quarterback, as the best football player he observed all season.

The doctor granted an interview in the seclusion of his stateroom yesterday. This was about the hottest bit of news of the day.

What trinkets the Carnegie Tech and West Point footballers did not purchase at the Grand Canyon, the Pitt athletes grabbed off Sunday. Most of the boys went for the high decorated canes, which are manufactured in Mexico or Zanesville, or Toledo or Elmira, I forget which.

During the stop at Albuquerque, Indian women with beads, beaded bags, bows and arrows and various other Indian trinkets, put in their appearances on the station platform, peddling their wares.

Markey Barnes and Leo Murphy grabbed armloads of the stuff and barked 'em in true county fair fashion, causing no little commotion in the ranks of the Indians.

The first ice seen since leaving California was observed along the track just before the train reached Albuquerque. It looked like money from home to the boys.

The party viewed with interest the snow-covered peak of Mount Taylor, where the T. A. T. plane crashed some months ago, killing all aboard.

If nothing else, Pitt's disastrous trip to the Rose Bowl has put forth the best argument in the world against the selecting of all-America football teams.

HYATT BRILLIANT AS PITT COPS, 38-37

CHARLEY HERO OF WIN OVER MONTANA

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Chipper Cholly Hyatt, playing the greatest game of his illustrious basketball career, outdid even the incomparable Joe Cook of vaudeville fame in staging a one-man exhibition in the Stadium pavilion last night, and as a result the Golden Panthers barely managed to squeeze out a 38-37 victory over Montana State University before a capacity crowd. The triumph was the Panthers' eighth successive win of the season and kept their record for the year unsullied.

The Panthers' marvel of the pine court scored a total of 27 points, representing 12 field goals and three successful tries from the foul line to climax what was termed the greatest basketball exhibition ever witnessed hereabouts in many years.

TRAIL THROUGHOUT

The Panthers, aside from a few moments early in the first half, when they held a temporary advantage of a single point on two occasions, trailed their opponents during the greater part of the contest and appeared to be a beaten team as the minutes wore on. It was only through the almost superhuman efforts of Hyatt that they remained in the running, to win the decision with a burst of speed in the last few minutes of the game.

The Westerners, heralded as one of the best basketball teams to come out of that section, lost little time in living up to their reputation and soon had the Panthers trailing at their heels. Composed of five crack shots in Thompson, Orland and Frank Ward, Max Worthington and Keith Ario, sharpshooters from all sections of the floor, Montana State piled up a 15-6 lead as the first half approached a close. Two field goals by Hyatt, another by Les Cohen and three fouls enabled the Panthers to tie the score at 15-all, but Thompson caught the entire Pitt team napping and bagged a field goal and a foul to give his mates an 18-15 advantage at the rest period.

MONTANA REGAINS LEAD

The Westerners again pulled away to a seven-point lead after the second half got under way, holding at one stage an advantage of 28 to 21. With 11 minutes to play, Hyatt added a field goal and two fouls, and Pitt was within three points of its opponents. The Westerners, however, again pulled away, but the ever-alert Hyatt scored a long basket to tie the score at 32 all. Worthington and Thompson added field goals, and Pitt was trailing by four points. Hyatt came through with another basket, and Kowallis succeeded in making good in two free throws to deadlock the score. Worthington made good on a foul attempt, to give Montana a one-point lead, but as the game drew to a close with only one minute and a half to play, Hyatt put the finishing touches to the contest with his twelfth basket, to place Pitt in front, never to be headed.

BRILLIANT BATTLE

It was by far one of the greatest collegiate battles ever witnessed here, and Montana, although defeated, did not leave without glory.

In the preliminary to the main game, the Pitt Freshmen ... their thirtieth successive victory, defeating Stowe ... 42-10. The Little Panthers won nine in a row to finish their 1927 season, won 17 straight in 1928, and four so far this year. The lineups:

DUKES TOP JACKETS

WAYNESBURG, Jan. 7.—Staging an uphill battle in the final part of a hard-fought fray here last night, Duquesne University triumphed over Waynesburg, 34-24. It was a rough contest, one to the liking of the visitors, for the Dukes never faltered even with the score standing against them and Waynesburg holding an advantage during the first half.

Jiggers White, Waynesburg captain, and Ufema, with some clever cage work, gave the Yellow Jackets a half-time 12-11 lead.

The Dukes showed an attack ... which the Jackets slowly ... in the final half after Stephens had located the range of the Jacket basket and kept popping in field goals. Assisted by Parry, Vernon and Abele and consistent tossing at the foul line gave Dukes a decided edge.

IOWA FULLBACK GOES OVER FOR SECOND TOUCHDOWN

With, Pitt, Carnegie Tech and Army all defeated in games on the Pacific Coast, it remained for the All-East eleven coached by Andy Kerr and Dick Hanley to turn in the only victory for this district in the big intersectional football battles in California. The East downed the All-West team, 19 to 7, at San Francisco, on New Year's Day. Willis Glassgow, Iowa fullback, was one of the stars for the East. Above he is seen going over for his team's second and the winning touchdown. Waldorf, of Nebraska, is missing the tackle.

Sport Thrills Provided for Local Fans

Three sensational sports events thrilled Pittsburgh fans last night.

The boxing show at Motor Square Garden was generally voted the best staged here in years.

Pitt won by a single point over Montana State College at the Stadium, 38 to 37, with Charley Hyatt playing in sensational form to score 12 field goals.

The Allentown team upset the dope by defeating the Fintex stars, 22 to 21, in a County League game on the Duquesne University floor, a field goal by Stanley Berkman in the last 10 seconds of play deciding the issue.

REV. DR. PETTY TOASTMASTER

Members of the Oakland Board of Trade, operating as teams, began a whirlwind campaign today to arouse interest in the welcome-home banquet to be given the Pitt grid team at the Hotel Schenley Monday evening. While the Oakland board launched the movement, it is intended the banquet shall be a city-wide affair.

While the team was speeding homeward, the Oakland board communicated with Coach Sutherland by telegram and received his response that the plans to welcome the team were appreciated by the players. In addition to the business and professional men comprising the board, there will be a large attendance of the alumni of Pitt and other universities, as well as a large contingent of the students.

The speakers' committee announced that the Rev. Dr. Wallace Petty has accepted the assignment as toastmaster. An interesting program is being prepared, but there will be no long addresses. The banquet will begin at 6:30 sharp, in the main banquet hall of the Schenley.

and Cincinnati or Chicago, involving both Grimes and Vance, is rumored as being in prospect.

Of course, it's only another off-season dream. President Barney Dreyfuss, of the Pirates, quickly spiked it when it was brought to his attention yesterday. "We have no deal on with any club for Grimes or any other player," he said, "and there is no deal even in prospect. We fully expect Grimes to pitch for the Pittsburgh club again this year, and there is no doubt in my mind that he will."

Dick Hanley

DICK HANLEY'S work as football coach at Northwestern University since he went there from Haskell after the 1926 season has been so satisfactory to the athletic powers of the university that they are going to keep him for seven years more, at least. A seven-year contract has been agreed upon verbally, and will be signed when Hanley returns from California early in February. It is understood that the Purple coach's salary has been boosted, and that it will be further increased by a graduated scale from year to year. The statement from the mid-West that this is the longest contract ever given to a football coach is erroneous, however. You don't have to go outside Pennsylvania's boundaries to find one to beat it, as Hugo Bezdek at Penn State is working under a 10-year agreement which has one season more to run.

IF it isn't one kind of publicity for Art Shires it's another. Whether the mention is favorable or otherwise, the White Sox first baseman continues to figure in the newspaper headlines more frequently than any other young ball player in history, not barring even Jimmy O'Connell. Now, on top of the charges that one of his ring affairs was "fixed" and that an attempt was made by some one to get another of his opponents to take a dive, White Sox officials announce that unless he clears himself of the accusations they will not offer him a contract for 1930.

This, if backed up by Commissioner Landis, will mean banishment from organized ball. The Sox officials themselves, like the boxing commissions of two states, are as greatly at fault for the whole thing as Shires, who should not have been allowed to drag baseball into the ring in the first place. It was clear from the start that the diamond sport could not profit by the mixture and that alley fighting would hurt the boxing game, too.

BUD JARVIS LOOKS GOOD

start of the present campaign, and although he looked good from the start, he did not go in for scoring in a big way in the early battles.

But Bud has required very little seasoning. He has scored five goals in the last two weeks, pacing all of the Pirates over this stretch, and his season total of seven leaves him second only to Hib Milks and Jerry Lowrey, established stars, in the matter of denting enemy mesh.

Bud will have an opportunity to tune up for a continuation of his scoring drive today and tomorrow when the Pirates work out in Boston in preparation for their game with the world champion Bruins at Boston Thursday night. On Saturday night the New York Americans will come here to renew their feud with the Bucs, and the rookie sensation probably will be very much in the picture at that time.

LOWREY LEADER

Indications are that Lowrey, Milks and Harold Darragh are the boys that Jarvis will have to beat out if he wants to cop the scoring gonfalon. Nine goals and six assists give Jerry the lead with a total of 15 points, and Darragh and Milks have 13 points each.

Jarvis is credited with four assists and his point total is 11. If he is able to maintain his present pace he will be out in front inside of another fortnight.

White, Briden and Manners have taken a brace. Paced by Jarvis, the spares have accounted for nine of the 13 goals scored by the Pirates in the last two weeks. The individual scoring records follow:

	Goals	Assists	Tl
Lowrey	9	6	15
Darragh	6	7	13
Milks	8	5	13
Jarvis	7	4	11
Frederickson	4	7	11
MacKinnon	6	2	8
White	7	0	7
Briden	1	3	4
Manners	1	1	2
Smith	0	1	1

(McCaffrey tallied three goals and four assists as Pirate before being traded to Les Canadiens for Fraser on December 26. Frederickson was leading league in scoring until injured in Boston on December 10.)

SCOTT LIKELY SHARKEY FOE

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(INS.)—Phil Scott, heavyweight champion of England, and the Madison Square Garden Corporation were on the verge of signing a contract whereby Scott will meet Jack Sharkey, American champion, at Miami, Fla., on February 27, Frank J. Bruen, the Garden's general manager, admitted today. He said negotiations were "almost completed," but that there were a few details yet to be cleared up before the signing could take place.

"Jimmy Johnston wants a guarantee for Scott," Breun declared. "He won't get it. He also demands a percentage as high as that we are paying Sharkey. He won't get that, either. However, we are close to an agreement and I expect we will reach one tonight, when another conference is scheduled."

MOOSE TEMPLE PRELIM CARD TO STAND

Promoter Francis Flynn, of the Moose Temple Boxing Club, announced today that the preliminary card arranged for his Tom Malco-Joe Colombo show scheduled last Friday night and called off at the eleventh hour because of the illness of Colombo, will be permitted to stand for next Friday night, when Harry Williams, of Rankin, and George Panka, of Homestead, heavyweight rivals, will meet in a return bout in the windup.

This means that Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, will box Mickey Doris, of Johnstown, in the semi-final; Frank Monroe, of Fair Haven, will engage Capo Coluba, of Cuba, in the second bout, and Bob Collura, of Beechview, will tangle with Frankie Portland, of the North Side, in the opener.

Between Rounds

Tommy Freeman bores Young Jack Thompson at Detroit Friday night. Tommy ought to win that one if Thompson isn't any better than he was against Billy White here recently.

Marty Simmons, of Detroit and Wilkinsburg, boxes Eddie Heinz at Saginaw, Mich., tonight. Other bouts listed tonight include: Eddie Shea vs. Fay Kosky, St. Louis; Marty Fields vs. Charley Lupica, San Francisco; Cecil Payne vs. Goldie Hess, Los Angeles; Young Firpo vs. Ray Pelky, Portland, Ore., and Harry Smith vs. Pal Silvers, Benny Tell vs. Lew Feldman and Leo Williams vs. Johnny Kreiger, New York. Art Shires boxes Tony Faeth at St. Paul.

Leo Genet, of Barberton, O., has been selected as Mickey Solmen's opponent in their eight-round main bout at the Eagles' hall, East Liverpool, Thursday night. Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, meets Johnny Dill, of East Liverpool, in the semi-final of six rounds, and, in two four-round preliminaries, Eddie Loos, of East Liverpool, boxes the Gypsey Kid, of Beaver Falls, and Nick Caruso, of Midland, opposes Jimmy Davis, of Youngstown.

TO SHOW VINCE DUNDEE

The Motor Square Club is working on a match involving Vince Dundee, of Baltimore, brother of Joe, the former welterweight champion, to be staged soon after the Garden reopens following its two weeks' shutdown for the automobile show which follows next week's mitt card. Vince has taken his brother's place as one of the best welters in the game.

Ross Fields, Weirton (W. Va.) bantamweight, wants to box any of the local 114-116-pounders. He has met Young Ketchel, Al Williams, Jimmy Thomas and Petey Roberts, he stopped Roberts in a semi-final at Wheeling last night.

Primo Carnera and Victorio Campolo, the two biggest men in the ring today, will be at the Pingside when Otto Von Porat and Paulino Uzcudun box the main bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night. Where, oh where, are those good American heavyweights!

Marty Gallagher and Johnny Grosso will box the semi-final to Paulino and Von Porat. In other bouts on the card, Fred Lenhart meets Phil Mercurio and Edgar Normans opposes Eddie Husel.

Bryan Downey, former claimant of the middleweight title, plans to revive interest in boxing in his home town, Columbus, O., through the medium of a series of amateur shows to be held beginning next month. The wrestlers have taken the play away from the boxers in the Ohio capital.

LUKE CARNEY REINSTATED

The State Athletic Commission has reinstated Luke Carney, manager of Jack Zivic, after a long suspension, and he will be able to negotiate for matches in this state beginning immediately. Luke helped to second Sergt. Sammy Baker at the Garden last night.

The Jolly Bowl in New Castle swings back into the running again next Monday night, when Tiger Joe West boxes Henry Firpo in the 10-round main bout. Georgie Perotta and Joe Midway are paired for the semi-final.

Chuck Burns and Arvin Spence will box the 10-round main bout at Erie Friday night. Benny Burns and Tony Tozzo are matched for the six-round semi-final.

The card has been completed for a show at the Auditorium in Johnstown, January 23, as follows: Mickey Solmen, New Castle, vs. Al Trainor, Philadelphia, 10 rounds, and Billy Palm, Johnstown, vs. Mike Hogan, North Side, Matty Diehl, Johnstown, vs. Jimmy Dontella, St. Michael, and Walter Livingston, Johnstown, vs. Johnny Barrett, Spangler, six rounds each.

BENNY SCHWARTZ HERE.

Benny Schwartz, of Baltimore, arrived in town this morning to go under the management of Jack Silverstein, local business man and longtime friend. He will go into training at Flynn's gym today for a bout with Tommy Paul at Buffalo Friday night and is ready to box Jackie Rodgers in a return bout any time.

Jack Dempsey will referee a bout between Farmer Joe Cooper and Ted Goorich at Atlanta, Ga., tonight.

Local Boxer

JOHN P. (JACK) BOWLER

JACK BOWLER ARMY BOXER

A local boxer is making good as a soldier and scrapper in Uncle Sam's army.

He is John P. (Jack) Bowler, of Lawrenceville, who formerly competed here as an amateur boxer and then boxed seven times as a pro before entering the service. He is now stationed at Fort Eustis, Va., and is boxing windups in adjacent towns. He has appeared at Norfolk, Richmond, Newport News, Charlestown and other centers and is boxing in the best form of his career.

A brother of Tom Bowler, coach at the Lawrenceville Triangle Club, and also manager of boxers. Jack was a howling success as an amateur, winning the National junior welterweight championship in 1922. He also won the Allegheny Mountain Association title and, as a welterweight, copped the Ohio State middleweight crown. After turning professional he boxed Ernie Graham, Young Penno, Hugh Haggerty and Johnny Windsor, among others.

Bowler, aged 27, is connected with the Fifty-second Heavy Field Artillery and in addition to boxing he goes in for football and running. Although he weighs only 160 pounds, he was a regular guard on the Fort Eustis eleven which played Clemson, William & Mary College and the Quantico Marines during the past season.

FIELDS, STRUB AND WILLIAMS COP FIGHTS

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Jackie Fields, world welterweight champion, scored an impressive victory over Alf Ros, French-Algerian, in a slashing 10-round bout featuring the card at the Arena here last night. The title was not at stake. Fields scaled 147¾ and Ros, 152¼.

Harry (Kid) Brown, Philadelphia veteran, gained a 10-round decision over Gaston Lecadre, of France, in the semi-windup. Brown weighed 137, Lecadre 138. Danny Kramer, Philadelphia, 128, knocked out Eddie O'Dowd, Columbus, 128, in the fourth round. O'Dowd substituted for Pete Zivic, of Pittsburgh.

MAXIE STRUB COPS

NEW BRIGHTON, Jan. 7.—Long-armed Maxie Strub jabbed and pounded his way to the decision over Ray Van Hook, of Pontiac, Mich., here last evening. The Erie scrapper started out sending hard lefts to Hook's head and piled up a lead that became more solid when he later worked to an advantage on the Michigan boy's body.

The semi-final of six rounds, featuring Johnny Haggerty, of Pittsburgh, and Young Nanci, of Swissvale, ended in a draw. The boys resumed their old feud, furiously uncorking everything, but neither had quite enough stuff to get an edge in the fight.

The other six-rounder brought defeat for the plucky Paul Balint, of Pittsburgh, when Rosey Greer, of Canton, won the decision. It was another good fight.

Al Ferrone, of McKees Rocks, lost the decision to Bus Hardy, of Beaver Falls, when the two filled in on the second four-round engagement. Willie Johnson, of Beaver Falls, was scheduled to meet Tiny O'Neil, of Steubenville, in the heavyweight class. Both weighed in at the Junction in the afternoon, but last night O'Neil was nowhere to be found. In the opener, Billy Holt, of Canton, won the decision from Mike Hogan, of Pittsburgh.

ROCKNE BACK AT WORK AGAIN AFTER ILLNESS

NOTRE DAME COACH AND SECRETARY CLEAN UP ACCUMULATED BUSINESS MATTERS

Knute Rockne, famous football coach of Notre Dame, is starting the new year by catching up on his delayed business affairs following his illness, which had him down during much of the football season, but didn't prevent him from directing his charges through the campaign undefeated and, in the light of Pitt's defeat by Southern California in the Tournament of Roses game, to the National title. Photo shows the great Knute in his office dictating to his secretary.

LAFAYETTES, ACKERMANS BATTLE

Eager to remain in the running for the Allegheny County League championship, the Homestead Ackermans will be out tonight to make it two straight over the Duquesne Lafayettes, whom they meet in the only league game on the schedule at Duquesne. The Ackermans still have a chance to overtake the Fintex aggregation and they are determined to remain in the running as long as there is a mathematical possibility of winning the first-half championship. The Ackermans may not win the title, but the Homesteaders have the satisfaction of knowing that they played a prominent part in eliminating some of the contenders. The Homesteaders are one of the three clubs to defeat Fintex, having turned the trick last week at Duquesne University.

Ed Minnick

Ed Minnick, veteran coach of the Lafayettes, has his champions in fine fettle for the Homestead quintet. The Lafayettes have been showing a steady improvement after getting off to a bad start and will prove a tough club to beat in the second half.

The Ray Schneiders play the Knickers tonight at Forresters Hall in the only West Penn League game on the program. The Schneiders must win this contest to retain their hold on first place.

KIECKHEFER SETS DOWN LAYTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—A surprising stand by Augie Kieckhefer, Chicago southpaw, has knocked one corner off the triangular race for the national three-cushion billiards championship, leaving it a duel between Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, and Allan Hall, of St. Louis.

After breaking even in his first two games, Kieckhefer last night defeated Johnny Layton, of St. Louis, the defending champion, 50 to 38, in 58 innings. It was Layton's first defeat in three years of tournament competition. Reiselt and Hall still are undefeated.

Yesterday Hall beat Harry Schuler, of New York, 50 to 18, in 43 innings, while Reiselt turned in a 49-inning victory over Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, 50 to 37.

Gus Copulos, of Detroit, beat Charles Jordan, of Los Angeles, 50 to 45, in 61 innings. Today's matches: Reiselt vs. Hall, Kieckhefer vs. Schuler, Denton vs. Jordan, Layton vs. Copulos.

The standing:

BAKER WINS OVER TRIPPE

sixth round, when, after Trippe started off by continuing his two-fisted assault, Baker applied such steam to his body attack that he weakened the New York Stater and then mixed his attack to the head and body, hurting Trippe. A left to the body sent Trippe to his knees for no count, and he was holding on at the bell. The crowd booed one of Baker's blows while Trippe had his head turned in a clinch, but it was a fair punch, and the demonstration was uncalled for.

With Baker seemingly finally on the road to victory, Trippe sent the crowd into an uproar by coming out for the seventh round and completely taking the play away from the veteran. With a blizzardy exhibition of two-fisted slugging, he punched Baker dizzy, but the Sergeant gamely rallied and was slugging it out with Joe at the bell.

That was Trippe's last stand. From far behind, Baker moved to his edge at the finish in the last three rounds. Trippe got off in the lead in the eighth round, but he couldn't hold it as Baker charged in and nailed him with two hard rights on the chin and another over the heart and was pressing the attack, winging for the chin as the round ended.

BAKER FINISHES STRONG

The ninth round saw Trippe, his punch gone, floundering and missing badly, while Baker was shooting his blows short and straight to the mark and scoring heavily to the head and body. He had Trippe holding again when the bell rang.

Both put a lot into the final round. They started off slugging, with Trippe the aggressor, and when they stood toe to toe in midring and traded punches the crowd was up in delirium. Sammy finally outlasted his younger foe, and when the round ended he was hammering him about, trying to land a knockout punch, with Trippe hanging on at every opportunity, obviously spent after his hard but losing fight.

So good was this battle that they can repeat it here any time to a packed house, or either one of them can come back with another good opponent and jam the Garden. The victory was the third in a row for Baker here. Last summer, he defeated Jack Zivic in 10 rounds at the Meyers Bowl in North Braddock and knocked out Cuddy De Marco in three rounds at the Bridgeville Speedway.

DUNN BEATS PACELLI

Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, 124 pounds, outclassed Romeo Pacelli, of New Castle, 127, knockerout of Joey Katkish and U. S. Carpentier and victor over Ken Hargraves, in the eight-round semi-final, a lively bout, handing Pacelli what is generally described as a boxing lesson. Pacelli won only one round, the sixth, and it was apparent then that Dunn was coasting.

Dominick Profio, of Cecil, and Joe Zink, of McKees Rocks, both 141½ pounds, slugged their way to a draw in the second bout. Zink really was the winner and received the vote of Judge Frank Brown, while the other judge and the referee agreed on a dead heat. Profio won the first two rounds easily, but then tired and took quite a shellacking from his rugged, swinging opponent.

BRETSCH SCORES KNOCKOUT

Georgie Bretsch, of the North Side, 149½ pounds, knocked out Howard Williams, Negro, of Swissvale, after 2 minutes, 36 seconds of fighting in the third round of the opening bout. Williams, who won the opening round, was floored for a count of six and got up groggy and then was battered into the ropes with his arms locked over the lower strand for the full count in such a position that he had to be extricated with [illegible] carried to his corner.

Ted Herron and Joe Keally alternated as referees and Frank Ferris worked with Brown as judge. Chappie Couch was timer and Joe Slumbo the announcer. It was announced that Tony Herrera and Tommy Crawley will box the main bout at the Garden next Monday night.

FINTEX BEATEN BY ALLENTOWN

Instead of the Fintex five sewing up the honors for the first half in the Allegheny County League last night, they played one of the poorest games of the season, to be nosed out by the Allentown quint, 22 to 21. Stan Berkman tossed the winning point when his field goal registered with less than 10 seconds remaining. Allentown moved out of the cellar as a result.

Three games were played in the West Penn League, Community House tripping the Schneiders, 32 to 28, Edgewood losing to the South Side Falcons, 54 to 17, and Y. M. H. A. toppling the Penn Five, 29 to 27.

Trinity Cathedral whipped the Forresters, 38 to 23, in the Central League, and the Mt. Washington Triangles nosed out the Penn Cadets, 31 to 29, in the Metropolitan circuit.

Duquesne Light won from Pittsburgh Railways, 35 to 22, and Sales and Service went into a deadlock for the league lead by upsetting Byllesby, 39 to 33, in the Philadelphia Company loop.

UPSETS MARK SOCCER FARE

By TOM BIRKS.

The two big upsets in soccer locally over the week-end have been furnishing food for thought among the followers of the kicking code, and once again, looking over the returns, fans are brought face to face with the fact, that the spirit of the now defunct Heidelberg team, last season's national amateur champions, played quite a part in the surprises. And they were upsets. The Chartiers Valley League is still classed in some quarters as a junior circuit, but after the spilling of the two outstanding members of the District League, the Pierpoint Motors and Clan Douglas, by Thoms Run and the Heidelberg Eagles, it would hardly be wise to call the members of the Chartiers Valley League juniors.

THOMS RUN GOOD

The Thoms Run lineup looked good, while it was not noticeable on paper, the minute the teams lineup up. That Green and Gold element was much in evidence. Thoms Run won its game because Billy Mitchell, one of the greatest halfbacks eveer developed around Millers Run, stopped McCosky. Mitchell is a former Morgan and Heidelberg star, and was the outstanding player of the day. He broke up Moremen and McCosky more times than days in the year. Knowing the style of McCosky, he never gave Moreman a chance.

Then Chappell, Barrafoldi and Howard Mangus, all reared in the Heidelberg style, never gave the Motors a chance to get started. In the other game, Andy Savage played center forward for the Eagles, and Andy played one of the greatest games of his long career. He fed the wings, touched the ball through the halves to the inside men, bustled the Douglas defense, in fact, did everything that no center forward this season has done. And fans, watching the speed boy in action, must have remembered when Andy was in his prime with Sturgeon and later with Heidelberg.

REAL CENTER FORWARD

Savage, with his brilliant showing last Saturday, brought home the fact that, aside from Adam Miller, there is no real center forward in the district who knows the business of playing the pivot part of the line. Savage was great and always played that way in former years, when he shot the works in all his games. Never giving the opposition a chance to settle down, his only counterpart since his day was Buff Donnelli.

Savage is in the veteran class right now. He was only played a few times during the past three years, but if he can duplicate the form of last Saturday he still is the best center forward in Western Pennsylvania.

American League Fives Open Here

A revision in the American Basketball League schedule causes two open periods in their schedule, the first next Monday and Tuesday and the second one on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, January 20, 21 and 22.

These dates are offered to teams in the Tri-State District if they will communicate at once with J. J. Freund, Jr., 225 Charles street, Pittsburgh, or phone Lafayette 4297.

Seven-Footer Out To Vie With Ring Giants

PEORIA, Ill., Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Primo Carnero and Vittorio Compolo, giants of the ring, take heed.

With moderation
THE GRIM SPECTRE of that future shadow may be avoided

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Fashion revels in the soft, enchanting curves of the modern figure. Don't sacrifice that graceful contour by permitting your eyes to be bigger than your stomach. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. When tempted to treat yourself too well, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, light a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the modern, alluringly-rounded figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Needless Pain!

They wait for their headaches to "wear off."

If suffering from neuralgia or from neuritis, they rely on feeling better in the morning.

Meantime, they suffer unnecessary pain. Unnecessary, because there is an antidote. Bayer Aspirin always offers immediate relief from various aches and pains we once had to endure. If pain persists, consult your doctor as to its cause.

Save yourself a lot of pain and discomfort through the many uses of Bayer Aspirin. Protect yourself by buying the genuine. Bayer is safe. Always the same. All drugstores.

BANK IN PHILA. CLOSED BY RUN

PHILADELI HIA, Jan. 7.—(AP.) — Police were called to the Susquehanna Title and Trust Company Bank late yesterday as scores of depositors gathered in front of the building prior to announcement that the bank had been taken over by the State Banking Department.

The trust company posted notices immediately after regularly closing revealing the property and business had been placed in charge of William H. Soule, special deputy of the Department of Banking.

The firm contemplated merging with another bank a month ago, but the plans fell through. At that time the stock was selling at $63, but has gone much lower.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Closing of the Susquehanna Title and Trust Company, of Philadelphia, was due, according to a statement of Peter G. Cameron, State Secretary of Banking, to a "quiet" run which has been going on for several days and which the institution was unable to meet because of "frozen assets."

"This institution, like the U. S. Bank and Trust Company, which was closed a few days ago," Secretary Cameron said, "has loaned extensively upon the securities of real estate, which, owing to the unsatisfactory real estate conditions in Philadelphia, renders many of the loans non-liquid and some of them lacking in security."

Baptist Minister Will Leave Pulpit

Ben Avon Names Same Secretary 38th Time

For the thirty-eighth consecutive year, Fred A. Schmucker was elected secretary of Ben Avon Council, at the reorganization meeting last night. He has served in that capacity ever since the organization of the borough in 1892.

Robert L. Forsythe was re-elected president of council and C. D. Dyer, treasurer. Fred C. Houston was re-elected solicitor and Blum, Weldin & Co., borough engineers.

CITY OPENS TAX COLLECTIONS

City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley today began collection of 1930 taxes, one day ahead of the previous schedule.

He explained the preparation of tax statements was delayed by the lateness of fixing the millage and that collections were not expected to begin until tomorrow.

Schooley said he would ask Council to extend the discount period until February 8 so as to give taxpayers a full month to save 2 per cent on their bills.

Taxes will be collected at face during the second and third months. On April 1, a 2 per cent penalty and ½ per cent interest will be added to the bills, with the interest increasing an additional ½ per cent for each subsequent month.

Plant Abandoned, Town Revenue Cut

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 7.—Abandonment of the Stewart Iron Works will cut the income of the city for 1930. Council will slash its budget to meet the decrease, rather than raise the millage.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS HERE BEST

Pittsburgh enjoys one of the most efficient and most flexible traffic signal systems in the country, according to a statement in the annual report of the Better Traffic Committee submitted yesterday to Mayor Charles H. Kline. The report was made by William H. Stevenson, acting chairman of the committee. A feature of the committee's activities was a comprehensive program for educating the people in the need of public co-operation in the handling of traffic.

Prior to the installation of the traffic signal system in the Golden Triangle, according to the report the committee made the most complete engineering analysis of traffic conditions with Burton W. Marsh, city traffic engineer, and the bureau of traffic planning. The physical layout of the city, with its unevenly lengthened blocks made the problem unusually difficult. There has been more than a 20 per cent increase in traffic since the system was recommended. The system is now handling that volume of traffic during peak hours with an average increase in speed of 22 per cent.

Approximately $350,000 worth of signal devises and standardized signs and markings have been installed under the direction of the Better Traffic Committee during this period. According to the report, Pittsburgh has become one of the leading cities in the country in the matter of this standardization of traffic signs, signals and markings of all kinds.

'HEX' BLAMED IN WOMAN'S DEATH

READING, Pa., Jan. 7.—(INS.)—State and Reading police today started a rigid investigation into the mysterious death of Mrs. Harry J. MacDonald, 32, while following the directions of a "hex doctor" at her home here late yesterday.

Mrs. MacDonald's body was found by her husband when he returned from work late yesterday, lying beside a coal stove, charred almost beyond recognition.

Neighbors charged the woman had been visiting a "hex" or "pow-wow doctor" here for some time, and claimed she became mentally deranged as a result of treatments.

Dr. Winfield H. Ammarell, Berks County coroner, declared the man suspected of treating the woman would be quizzed today.

Man Shoots Self To Get in Hospital

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 7.—(INS.)—A desire to get into a hospital for a time prompted Leonard Rich, 21, of this city to inflict a minor bullet wound on himself early today, causing his removal to the Jameson Memorial Hospital, according to police. Rich at first told police he was wounded by one of two bandits attempting to rob him while he was putting his car into the garage. Under questioning, however, Rich is said to have admitted that he wounded himself.

Income Tax Blanks In Mails Friday

Income tax return blanks will be placed in the mails, Friday, Internal Revenue Collector D. B. Heiner announced, today. A delay of 10 days was attributed to passage by Congress of an act reducing the tax, necessitating the printing of circular letters explaining the changes. These will be enclosed with the blanks. March 15 is the date for the filing of returns.

Widow, Children Left $60,000 Estate

The will of George Nickel, 4406 Calvin street, filed for probate today, leaves $60,000 mostly in Pittsburgh real estate to his widow, Philappina, his son, George, and his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Hager. The widow is named executor.

Two Women Fined In Dress Theft

Martha Brown, 27, of 237 Burton street, and Leola Jones, 31, of 3 Jones avenue, Negresses, were fined $25 each by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones today, in Morals Court. Detectives from the Frank & Seder department store testified they found two $10 dresses in the possession of the Brown woman.

Man Who Frightened Children Fined $25

Steve Malick, 47, of the Yoder Hotel, was fined $25 or 30 days in the workhouse by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today. Malick frightened two children on Gibbons street last night, it was alleged.

I. B. M. 1427 Sees Thurston and Says It's Real Spirits Infesting the Alvin Stage

By GEORGE SEIBEL

BEING myself No. 1427 in the I. B. M., or International Brotherhood of Magicians, a fraternal spirit drew me to the Alvin Theater last night to see whether Brother Howard Thurston had unearthed any new mysteries from the Pyramid of Cheops or the Abracadabra of the Alhambra. We have been accustomed to the production of bunnies from bottles, aeronautic expeditions of the Ace of Spades, metamorphosis of lovely maidens into empty atmosphere, floral avalanches from flimsy parasols, levitation and palingenesis and hermeneutics. We know that Thurston has acquired all the mysteries of the Deipnosophists and the Mahatmas. It is generally admitted that he can palm a live lion or play poker with His Satanic Majesty and win the pot.

George Seibel

These are all minor miracles which any disciple of Merlin can duplicate by practicing before a mirror 16 hours a day for 16 years.

But the question which agitated I. B. M. 1427 was whether Thurston had transgressed the statutes and by-laws which forbid the incantation of real spirits, the sort that loaf around cemeteries and manifest in haunted houses.

Unless he can clear himself of such suspicions, he may be haled before the next Assembly of Warlocks on the Brocken and deprived of his wand, while his cabinets will be padlocked as if his spirits were prevolstead.

Charges Are Preferred

Well, charges are hereby preferred against Howard Thurston for the infraction of the aforesaid statutes and by-laws. There was a smell of sulphur and a clatter of cloven hoofs about last night's saturnalia.

Impressario Reynolds has sent for several high-priests of Hexerei and Voodoo to remove the cabalistic spells, fearing the shekels in the box-office might turn tin.

It is all on account of the "Iasia" illusion—the new one that Thurston has brought along this time. He causes a young lady to vanish right in midair above the heads of the audience, who know she was there a second before. If this is not Black Art of the blackest and most artistic sort, the "Malleus Maleficorum," from which Thurston and other enchanters get their spells, was written by Louisa Alcott.

Only one way out is left for Cagliostro Thurston. The charges will be quashed if he agrees to apply his method of the Vanishing Whippet trick to solve our traffic problem.

Jane Tries Witchcraft

Very soon he will be able to devote himself to such tasks, for Jane is becoming so proficient in witchcraft that she will soon be able to perform most of his illusions with true infernal technique. This clever girl can dance and sing even better than Howard Thurston himself, though he practiced before a mirror 16 hours a day for 16 years.

But it is doubtful if any one else can get the confidence of the little folks in the audience as completely as Thurston can. They have sublime faith in his incorruptible honesty, though so many of them have learned the elusiveness of his bunnies. They are loyal in their trust even though they see him sawing a lovely lady in two in a most heartless fashion.

As affable and suave as ever, revealing mysteries at which he himself stands aghast, defying all the laws of gravitation and rules of mathematics, proving the learned Erasmus of Rotterdam a liar when he affirmed that a material object could be in only one place at one time, and otherwise demonstrating the fallibility of all our senses, Thurston will have a hard time defending himself against the accusation of having a confederate with a pitchfork.

If there is no Satanic collaboration, then he must have a barrel of ectoplasm and a few sacks of mandragora seed to work some of these marvels. I. B. M. No. 1427 refuses to believe in any natural explanation, and hereby denounces Thurston to the Inquisition as a practitioner of forbidden arts.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Announcement of grants by the Carnegie Corporation of New York to several library schools was made by Sarah C. N. Royle, secretary of the Board of Education for Librarianship of the American Library Association.

The grants included: Carnegie Library School, Pittsburgh, $3,950 for summer session.

Westinghouse Man Will Give Address

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 7.—Stephen Q. Hayes, of the engineering department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, East Pittsburgh, will give the address at the January meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers to be held Thursday. He will talk on "Columbia, Panama and Ecuador."

Lehar to Compose Music for Movie

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Franz Lehar, celebrated Viennese composer, who wrote the immortal "Merry Widow," has gone into the movies. It was learned here that he had signed a contract with the American Company "United Artists" to write the score of "Queen Kelly," a Hollywood film that will feature Gloria Swanson.

Free State County Rejects Offer Of Library

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Believeing it would be better to devote the money to relieving poverty in the county, the council on Leitrim County declined to accept a grant of $4,750 from the Carnegie Foundation to establish a library. The vote was 12 to 9.

Acceptance of the grant would have necessitated a tax of two cents on $5 and appointment of a librarian, making an impost of about 12 cents on each farmer.

Homestead Council Installs Officials

J. M. House was sworn in as president of council at their annual organization meeting of the Homestead Borough Council last night. Harry Markley is the new clerk, M. J. Maroney chief of police, and Herman Samuels, fire chief.

The new solicitor will be P. H. McGuire, while Christ McGary is the new street commissioner, John Herrock is the new ordinance officer, and H. M. Andrews the borough treasurer.

Anders President Of Etna Council

Alex Anders was chosen president of the Etna Borough council at its reorganization meeting last night. J. C. Armstrong is the new borough secretary, and William Stilz, the borough treasurer.

Lee A. Donaldson, the new burgess, was also sworn in. The new council includes R. S. Martin, former burgess; Martin Metzgar, G. H. Edgar, J. J. Arenth, Herman Labowitz, O. J. Foden, Mark Vinski and Samuel Patterson.

Actor Hurt Seriously When Hit By Auto

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—William Elsingford, 68, English character actor, was struck by an automobile and injured seriously here.

He suffered a fracture of the right leg and a possible fracture of the skull. Miss Grace F. Foley, social worker, driver of the car which struck Elsingford, was not held.

GORGEOUS STAGE BILL IN PENN FRAMES SHEARER FILM

Taking this week's program as a sample, the "new policy" in the Penn Theater seems to be merely a matter of superlatives. The dancing chorus is bigger and more gorgeously costumed—from the opening fan number to the final prism of colors, it is like a vision of fairyland. The features also are richer in quality and speedier in style. For instance, there is Emile Boreo, who originated the popular "Wooden Soldier" parade—he is a musical clown who has probably no superior in Parisian patter, and his imitation of Sarah Bernhardt is a revelation of vocal mimicry.

Sunshine Sammy, with his two Gold Dust Twins, is another sample of singing, dancing and clowning as good as ever came from Africa via the old plantation.

Some Real Africa

Incidentally one is inclined to give the honorable adjectives this week to the side-show of the screen—a series of African travel pictures, with a capture of a hyena and an aard-vaark that Hollywood can't match for interest.

Norma Shearer and Robert Montgomery try to do it with a wild canoe ride on a stormy lake in the talking picture, "Their Own Desire." The picture proves that Norma Shearer is a good actress, with a vein of humor and great emotional intelligence, but it also proves that you can't get convincing drama by hooking the Lord's Prayer on to a necking party. "Their Own Desire" is made up of polo suits, pajamas, diving trunks and gush. It is well acted, well staged, but a chicle plot.

Some Real Music

Both Dick Leibert and Elias Breeskin rose into the realms of real music this week. Leibert goes classical, with selections from Grieg, Liszt and Verdi that show the marvelous resources of his organ very effectively. Breeskin's overture is "Memories of Caruso," with a vocal interpolation of "Celeste Aida" and other Caruso numbers.

So the music in the Penn this week is superfine, and the stage show is pluperfect, while "Their Own Desire" shows our screen idols like Norma Shearer and Lewis Stone with feet of Bertha M. Clay.

Pennsylvania Bakers Meet in Harrisburg

HARRISBURG, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—The mid-winter convention of the Pennsylvania Bakers' Association opened here with 200 registered. A banquet was held last night with William Smedley, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Charles H. Cordiner, of this city, as the principal speakers.

Reports of officers and standing committees were made at the morning and afternoon sessions. Speakers included C. E. McGregor, Scranton; Robert E. Sullivan, Chicago, and Ray W. Britton, Erie.

Four Generations At Golden Wedding

SAXTON, Pa., Jan. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. James S. Crum celebrated the golden anniversary of their marriage with four generations present. Crum, a former merchant, is now justice of the peace here.

Their four children, John R. Huntingdon, W. L. and Mrs. Ella Donelson, Duquesne, and Mabel Rinard, were present together with 21 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The wedding cake was 18x30 inches in size.

Square

Norman Shearer runs into a square instead of a triangle in "Their Own Desire," photoplay feature of the program in the Penn.

Squirrel Hill Board Installs Officers

Newly elected officers were installed by the Squirrel Hill Board of Trade in the Morrowfield Hotel last night. They are: President, George M. Dowler, Sr.; vice presidents, Thomas O. Hasley, George E. McKee, D. A. West and A. M. Guy; secretary, W. T. Dabney; treasurer, Gus Mutchler; solicitor, Jacob Schulgold; directors, L. Z. Birmingham, Jr., F. A. Brinkman, A. T. Clarke, R. C. Dever, F. L. Duggan, Margaret Frew, F. D. Friederhouser, Sol S. Goldstein, Alice Henry, E. W. Hepner, Philip J. Kumpf, A. C. Leslie, George W. Lupton, James M. Magee, David G. Morgan, James J. Owens, Leo Rothenberg, Mrs. Otilla M. Sheppard and James C. Sims.

Men Must Wear Loud Colors For Spring

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—George E. Seran, of the style committee of the International Association of Clothing Designers, which opened a four-day convention here, sees a colorful spring for men's clothing.

"The American male is becoming color conscious," Serak said.

"And a list of colors denoting the shades the well-dressed man will wear includes magenta, cobalt, ochre, burnt umber, vermillion, forest green and lemon yellow."

Incidentally Serak pushed over the peg top trousers to make room for trick vests and pleated effects in the list of clothing don'ts.

"Paid in Full," Tense Drama in Pitt, Gives Players Chance to Act

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"PAID IN FULL," tense drama of the day when our stage just began to get "modern," was presented by the George Sharp Players in the Pitt last night. It is of the type that marks the transition between sentimentality and realism—between the old five-act melodramas and the three-act play of the present day, compromising with four. Eugene Walters wrote it and it was rare dramatic fare in its day. But it is not yet out-dated and its story of the contrast between human weakness and strength still has power.

Forbes Prominent

It was given commendable presentation by the resident company of the Pitt and gave Gus Forbes further opportunity to demonstrate his skill in a character role. His part of a former sea captain risen to wealth and the position of a captain of industry, in command of many ships instead of one, was portrayed in a manner that carried with it the ruggedness of a man who had learned sternness before the mast. Naturally a fighter, his mettle is tested when one of his employes steals to give his wife luxuries his salary does not afford, and later sends his wife to the boss to get him out of his difficulty.

Sustained Picture

Edith King played the wife. Her emotional forte was exemplified in a finely sustained picture of defiant and outraged virtuous womanhood in a scene with the former sea captain when it came out that both knew that developments were not expected by the weak husband to be of an entirely innocent nature. Both Mr. Forbes and Miss King scored in this scene, the high spot of the drama.

Robert Fiske, as ustial, had the unsympathetic part, that of the husband, and made a good job of his portrayal. Harland Tucker was pleasing in a genial friend of the young couple, fellow employe of the husband and losing rival for the hand of the girl. Alice Ann Baker and Mabel Kroman, as mother and sister of the wife, and Hugh Banks, as Japanese servant of the captain, were inconspicuous.

Fibber

Howard Thurston, who deceives you while he says he wouldn't, began his display of wizardy in the Alvin last night.

MT. OLIVER HARRIS HAS CIVIC NIGHTS

A week of civic festivities, in connection with the celebration of January in a special way by the Harris chain of theaters, opened in the Mt. Oliver-Harris last night, with Mrs. F. J. Huber, president of the Mt. Oliver Women's Civic Club, as the speaker. There will be special nights throughout the week, tonight to be devoted to Boy Scouts.

ROLAND HAYES, NEGRO TENOR, SINGS TONIGHT

Roland Hayes, Negro tenor, now on his sixth American tour, will give a concert in Carnegie Music Hall tonight, under the management of May Beegle. Hayes will give songs by well known classic composers, as well as a group of Negro Spirituals, including "Done Made My Vow," "Lord, I Wish I Had-a Come," "Keep Me from Sinking Down," and "Good News."

Nation Cries, 'Come and Get Our Business'

—By B. C. FORBES—

THE untraveled New Yorker is the most provincial type in America, smug, self-satisfied, patronizing, lacking in perspective, ignorant concerning the actualities of the nation's economic life. In his eyes non-New Yorkers are hayseeds, greenhorns, rustic bucolics. Anyone who doesn't know Broadway from Fifth avenue is to be pitied terribly, the poor boob. New York is the United States; everything else is "country," pronounced with a superior sneer.

New York's provincialism has been revealed anew by the Wall street crash and its aftermath. New York concluded that every newspaper throughout the country must inevitably be devoting as much front page space to the stock panic as were the New York papers, New York imagined—took it for granted—that stock tickers are as commonplace in Hohukus as they are in Manhattan below Malden Lane.

Hence New York's conclusion that the whole land must be prostrated with nervousness following the bursting of the overblown stock boom. A communication from a Texan (Hubert C. May) should help to correct the perspective stay-at-home Manhattanites.

After remarking that "the effect of the late lamented crash has been as remote to most of us as a carbuncle on the neck of our wife's second cousin," and that "patients" who "remained out too late the night before" may need the constant application of soothing syrup in the form of optimistic reassurances and prophecies, this Texan observes:

COME AND GET IT.

A FEW individuals missed contact with reality. It was Elysian while it lasted: But morning comes, and actuality. Thought of going back to work is cheerless and uninspiring. They roll over, and again attempt to visit the land of Morpheus. But now, the dream will not return.

Throughout this broad, rich land a hundred twenty million humans have had no dreams of easy wealth.

We are working our eight to ten hours every day.

Eating regularly our three squares.

We are still wearing clothes and our wives are demanding more silk things and beginning to wear the long tkirts.

We bought our share of new automobiles and we are going to have new models this year, as well as tires and gasoline and good roads, and everything else needed to enjoy the comforts of traveling hither and yon.

We are going to have new radio; we are ready for television in our homes.

There are a million other once-considered luxuries which we all of us demand as everyday necessities.

We've begun rolling, and we're going to continue.

A little thing like another man's crash doesn't bother us. Clear the roadway!

We slowed up building a little bit because of the traffic jam on the corner of Money and Speculation streets.

You would pay more for money than we would. So we loaned our money—at a pretty high income— for a while.

We waited.

We still have our money—and some of yours.

And we are earning more.

Our wants have not stopped.

Move on—or get out of the way!

There's a long stream of traffic held in leash, trying to go somewhere.

Give us room! Let us get moving.

Cut out the discussion—why, who, what caused it.

Get down to work again with your mind on your business.

One hundred twenty million of us are waiting—with money in our pockets.

COME AND GET IT."

THERE'S a lot of horsesense in that, isn't there?

STEEL PLANTS TAPER OFF

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 6.—Recovery in iron and steel trade which promises to become progressive this month, is likely to be slow, in the opinion of leaders. Meantime, schedules this week are the best in the last three months. A merchant iron interest is booked ahead through the quarter and has only 5,000 tons of iron piled on its own account. This producer is finding an outlet for much of its iron with one firm in the valley.

Fabricators are feeling effects of the letdown and Youngstown Pressed Steel Company, at Warren, for example, started some departments this week on a seven and one-half hour per day basis, a reduction from 10 hours per day.

In the primary industry some companies have inaugurated reductions in tonnage rates for certain classes of workers. Cuts as high as 20 per cent have been made.

General price structure is trending toward lower levels in finished steel trade, though no drastic cuts are likely. Pig iron number two foundry pig irons are holding at $18.50, despite reductions in semi-finished steel and in rolled steels.

Building Contracts Declined for Year

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Construction contracts let in 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains throughout 1929 reached a total of $5,754,290,500, the F. W. Dodge Corporation reports. This figure was 13 per cent under the record year of 1928, but was only 7 per cent less than the 1927 total. During the last week of December awarded contracts amounted to $78,450,700, an increase of $16,217,500 over the preceding week, and compares with $95,396,300 for the corresponding week in 1928.

Operating Income Of Rails Higher

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Class 1 railroads of the country in the first 11 months of 1929 had an aggregate net operating income of $1,201,172,558, which was at the annual rate of return of 5.04 per cent on their property investment, according to reports filed by the carriers with the bureau of railway economics of the American Railway Association. In the first 11 months of 1928 their net operating income amounted to $1,098,823,573, or 4.68 per cent on their property investment.

TOB. PRODUCTS DIVIDEND

The dividend of 76⅞ cents declared yesterday on Tobacco Products Corporation certificates series A, represents dividends received by the Guaranty Trust Company on United Cigar Stores Company, of Ama Common stock deposited with it when Tobacco Products Company, in 1928, declared on its stock three dividends of one-tenth of a share of United Cigar Stores common stock on its common stock.

Instead of actually issuing the United Cigar Stores common stock this was deposited with the Guaranty Trust Company until January 1931. The Guaranty Trust then issued Tobacco Products Company dividend certificates for these dividends of United Cigar Stores Company common stock, exchangeable for the latter stock in 1931.

In 1929 dividends of 75 cents a share were paid on this United Cigar Stores common stock held in deposit by the Guaranty Trust Company, which in turn is passing it on to holders of the dividend certificates representing the deposited United Cigar Stores stock.

Your Financial Secretary

When you open a Custodian Account with The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh this Company will among other things:

1. Keep your securities segregated in its vaults,
2. Collect all income when due,
3. Promptly present maturing obligations for payment,
4. Buy, sell and deliver securities upon your instructions,
5. Keep a record for income tax purposes,
6. Exchange temporary certificates for permanent securities,
7. Notify you of calls, maturities and rights,
8. Furnish you with complete accounts periodically.

No. 1—Keep Your Securities Segregated In Its Vaults

THIS eliminates the necessity of personally going to a Safe Deposit Box every time you want to deposit securities or remove them for any purpose whatsoever, thereby saving you time and inconvenience.

Inability to make delivery frequently prevents security owners from taking advantage of favorable markets, or of mergers, or of cash bids which may be made for the purpose of buying control, or for a sinking fund.

If your securities are held segregated in our vaults, they are at your disposal at all times. Sickness and vacations should not interfere with the proper care of your securities.

A moderate fee is charged for our services as Custodian.

Stocks Fluctuate — Rustless Iron Slips

STOCKS BOB UP, DOWN IN DULL SESSION

Trading Falls Off to Smallest Volume for Year as Shares Drift

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—Stock prices bobbed up and down within narrow trading limits today, without showing any indication of a definite trend. Trading fell off to the smallest volume of any full session for a year or more, the ticker frequently pausing for seconds at a time because of the absence of business. Commission houses presented a somewhat deserted appearance, floor traders apparently accounting for much of the day's business.

Call money renewed at 4½ per cent, but the demand was so light that the rate was dropped to 4 before mid-day. This was the lowest rate since February 9, 1928. The time money market was dull, with rates unchanged, but short-term bankers' acceptances were advanced ⅛ of 1 per cent.

NEWS COLORLESS

The day's business news was rather colorless. Private estimates indicated another increase in the daily average of crude oil production last week, but this was attributed, in part, to the opening up of new Oklahoma wells for testing purposes in connection with a pro-ration scheme. Directors of the Franklin Manufacturing Company passed the 50-cent quarterly dividend, due at this time, and Nash Motors reported annual earnings for the year ended November 30 of only slightly more than the $6 annual dividend requirements on the common stock. With the exception of Woolworth, Kresge and National Bellas-Hess, most of the leading chain store systems reported increases in December sales above those of the same month a year ago.

Heavy buying of Radio-Keith-Orpheum, one block of 20,500 shares changing hands at 23⅝, was one of the few features of today's market session. Pennsylvania Railroad stock declined to 72⅜, or slightly below the price established in the November break, with selling presumably inspired by the recommendation of the House Interstate Commerce Committee for a legislative inquiry into railroad holding companies.

Union Tank Car broke 10 points, Western Union 7¾, General Electric 7 and Auburn Auto, Air Reduction, Johns Manville, R. H. Macy, American Water Works, Electric Auto Lite, Otis Elevator, Nash Motors, Burroughs Adding Machine, Standard Gas and Electric, A. M. Byers and U. S. Industrial Alcohol all sold down 3 to 5½ points.

RAILS ADVANCE

Wabash common stocks rallied more than 5 points in response to a court decision in their favor, but the Class A stock fell 4⅜ points. "Big Four" jumped 15 points on one sale of 10 shares. American Woolen preferred rallied nearly 5 points on buying influenced by merger rumors and reports of an upward revision in the wool tariff.

U. S. Steel common advanced to 169⅞, dropped to 167 and then rebounded to around 168. Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery-Ward rallied moderately in response to short covering.

Daily Average Oil Production Kites

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 7.—The daily average production of crude oil in the United States for the week ended January 4 totaled 2,641,621 barrels, an increase of 46,301 barrels over the preceding week, according to the Oil and Gas Journal. Light oil production during the week increased 43,738 barrels.

The gain was due mainly to temporary opening of wells in the Oklahoma City pool for testing purposes.

Steel Operations Gain at Chicago

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Following the usual year-end shut-down for inventory taking and repair work, Chicago steel mills have sharply increased their operations. Steel rail production and ingot output have been materially increased, rail mills operating at about 80 per cent of capacity and ingot makers at around 60 per cent. The latter figure compares with operations at from 40 to 50 per cent of capacity in the preceding week.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 4 to 7 points today and by the end of the first half hour was selling 8 to 11 points net higher, with March showing an advance to 17.12c and May to 17.36c on covering and trade buying. There also seemed to be a slight broadening of commission house demand, which was attributed to a bullish view of the Federal Farm Board announcement warning cotton growers against an increase in acreage.

Relatively steady Liverpool cables were another factor on the advance, and while there was some hedge selling as well as realizing, the early offerings were readily absorbed. Liverpool cables said that trade rallies and covering had absorbed continental liquidation in that market had reported rather more inquiry for cotton cloth from India, although they said many offers were unmarketable.

The demand created by the early news appeared to be supplied on the advance to 17.12c for March contracts and the market later became less active, with prices sagging off under realizing or some reselling by early buyers.

The failure of demand to broaden more importantly on the advance was evidently a disappointment to holders of contracts, while there was some liquidation of January contracts which sent the price off to 16.82c, or 4 points net lower. Later months lost the greater part of the early advance, ruling about 1 to 4 points net higher at midday.

PUBLIC TASTES ALTERED BY EDUCATION

Consumer More Conscious Of Art in Merchandise, Edgar J. Kaufmann Says

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The widespread American experiment in education, including the stampede to the college, has altered the taste of the public in merchandise, according to Edgar J. Kaufmann, leading Pittsburgh merchant.

"We find ourselves facing a consuming public more conscious of the principles of nature and who have a kindly feeling toward the rules of harmony in the objects which surround their daily life," he pointed out. "A people, who because of the lack of tradition, were able to, in a short space of time, arouse a demand in the public making them conscious of the acceptance and the appreciation of principles of art; because to say a thing is beautiful compares it with that which is not beautiful and it is by contrast that one learns to appreciate these principles.

"We have found within our own establishment that the beautiful and the simple forms are the ones that are considered in good taste, and that the American public through its growing appreciation and learning to discriminate between the beautiful and that which is not beautiful, is demanding the commodities that are in good taste—in short it is demanding the simple application of the principles of art in industry."

REAL TEST OF MANAGERS

A real test of managerial efficiency comes at a time of relative slack like the present after a period of record breaking activity. The unimaginative will ruthlessly seek to cut costs without considering the consequences. The most expert, on the other hand, will keep his organization ready for the trade revival which lies ahead. David Morrison, observer of the profession of management, has warned against the high cost of false economy. "To efficiency," he shrewdly points out, "the often used and sometimes much abused watchword of American business, may be attributed the advanced position of our industry beyond all European competition.

"Efficiency is necessary for the best conduct of any business, but efficiency does not necessarily mean economy. The cheaper method is not always the best method; the cheaper man is not always the cheapest man. Reduction of overhead is a very laudable ambition. But cutting down overhead to the detriment of quality of production is poor economy. Efficiency means skill, the best method of accomplishing any objective. Before making a change toward an economy move management should make certain that such a change will not show up in the profit and loss column of the firm's books."

Bank stocks, which at a price are almost ideal investments, behaved badly in the recent Wall street crash, because they were excessively priced. The valuation of bank stocks during the bull period drifted from the realm of scientific analysis to pure metaphysics. Seeking to get back to a scientific basis Edwin Tanenbaum, of Spencer B. Koch & Co., in collaboration with the Standard Statistics Company, has worked out the subjoined merger valuation formula:

"Banks and trust companies should be capable of showing a net yearly earning equivalent of 1½ to 2¼ per cent on their deposits. Thus, if the yardstick of 20 be applied, banks and trust companies may be appraised at 30 to 45 per cent of their deposits (depending upon the earning ability of the management) plus the resultant application of this yardstick to the earnings on fiduciary services. In addition, capital, surplus and undivided profits and hidden assets, such as unrevealed equities in real estate and associated security companies, must be considered."

Mr. Tanenbaum figures that good will of a bank is worth 8 per cent of deposits.

FRENCH GOLD HOLDINGS

The credit policy of France is the big question mark in world trade. France, which has become a conspicuous gold hoarder, has increased its reserves 43 per cent since stabilization. The gold holdings of the Bank of France are double those of the Bank of England. If the French possessed the banking skill and traditions of the English, Paris would soon begin to overshadow London as European financial center.

As a matter of fact, at the Bank of France the hope is nourished to make Paris an outstanding financial center. The conservatism of the French bankers has delayed the process, so far as short-term foreign credit advances are concerned. Obsolete tax laws framed during the inflation period, which were designed to check the flight from the franc, still obstruct the export of capital in the form of long-term foreign loans. French bankers are desirous of repealing these laws, and outside credit conditions will hinge to a significant extent on the decision of the French Parliament.

Insull Investment To Increase Stock

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A special stockholders meeting of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., will be held January 15 to vote on increasing the authorized stock by 3,000,000 additional shares of common.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP.)—The curb market drifted irregularly lower today as trading slackened to around the minimum levels of last year. Bullish demonstrations were restricted to isolated shares while the general list was permitted to sag.

The market was indifferent to news. Such favorable developments as 4 per cent call money and announcement of a cash dividend basis for Commonwealth and Southern aroused no enthusiasm, and omission of the Franklin common dividend appeared to have been previously discounted.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK Jan 7 AP— Railroad and utility loans made a little progress in a more active bond market today, but the failure of time money to show further easiness kept the movement of prices within narrow bounds. Call funds renewed at 4 per cent and fell to 4 soon after noon.

NEW YORK Jan 7 AP— tions in the most active bonds New York Stock Exchange were as follows, odd fractions of sales (United States bonds quoted in and thirty seconds of dollars.

Weirton Steel Plans To Expand

BY GEORGE H. SNYDER.

WITH the completion of the $32,000,000 expansion program of the new National Steel Corporation announced yesterday by Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the board, that organization will have some of the most strategically located plants in two districts.

The National Steel Corporation came into existence on December 1 through the consolidation of the Weirton Steel Corporation, the Great Lakes Steel Corporation and several subsidiaries of the M. A. Hanna Company. It plans to spend $25,000,000 for the new plant of the Great Lakes Steel Corporation at Detroit and $7,000,000 for additions to the Weirton operations. All of the work will be completed by the end of 1930.

The new organization will have the advantage of being able to ship steel sheets to automobile makers in the Detroit district by truck at a substantial saving under the transportation costs of other steel mills. Six open hearth furnaces and ample facilities for the rolling of full finished automobile sheets are being installed at Detroit. It has been rumored that other steel sheet makers may also build Detroit plants to offset the tremendous advantage to be enjoyed by National Steel in that district.

Weirton Improvements

UPON completion of the Detroit plant a large tonnage of production will be diverted from the Weirton operations on the Ohio River. To offset this the additions to the Weirton mills will permit the production of heavier steel products which will insure a wide enough diversification of output to keep the steelmaking capacity at that point working at a satisfactory rate.

The new plants will make it possible for the old Weirton organization to roll rails, structural material and other heavy lines not made in the past. A blast furnace will be remodeled to make it the largest producer of pig iron in the world. By-product coking capacity will be increased by 50 per cent.

River Shipments

THE Weirton plants, in common with a few other producers, have the advantage of low cost river transportation for both materials and finished products. This saving is a substantial item in reaching points in the South and Southwest.

With the enormous ore reserves and extensive transportation facilities secured from the Hanna interests the new company will be in a position to compete on exceptionally favorable terms with any other organization in the steel industry. . . . . .

The improvements will increase productive capacity about 50 per cent and will also increase the capital account by an equal amount. A consolidated balance sheet drawn up when the merger was made showed that physical properties were carried at $64,867,639.

Completion of Merger

IN SPEAKING of the expansion plans Mr. Weir said:

"Consummation of the merger of our subsidiary companies has put National Steel Corporation in a position to go forward with its development program as a completely integrated steel producing unit. Our producing capacity for the current year will be 3,350,000 tons of iron ore, 1,750,000 tons of pig iron and 2,000,000 tons of steel ingots, with a great diversity of finishing capacity.

"The position of the company in raw materials, plants and financial structure is unusually sound. Ore properties are owned on all the Lake Superior ranges, both in Minnesota and Michigan, and include both operating and large reserve properties, which will insure an adequate low-cost supply for many years to come. The company ranks second only to the United States Steel Corporation in its ownership of lake ore tonnage as compared with its annual requirements, and the location of its plants on the Ohio River and on the lakes at Detroit and Buffalo is most favorable for obtaining low production costs and effective distribution to principal consuming territories.

"Our Weirton plant is one of the most modern and efficient in the country, and the Great Lakes plant in Detroit, now under construction, will have the benefit of the latest developments in the industry."

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

DRY TOAST

Since Mrs. Doran has gone to all the trouble of inventing cocktails which are kickless, sickless, trickless, and also useless, it is only right that convivial gatherings where such are consumed should have a theme song or something of the sort—

Hoist high and drink this mixture mild,
Which will not make us gay nor wild,
Nor will it undermine by stealth
Either discretion, poise or health;
In fact, my hearties, sixteen more
Will leave us as we were before,
Which, one and all, you must agree
Is quite a perfect way to be.

Mr. Frisby's Letter

Editor,
Dear Sir or Madame—

I wish to call your attention to the series of letters I am writing to various newspapers, particularly the tabloids, concerning this, that and the other thing. The letters are signed "Vox Populi," "Old Subscriber," "Voice of the People," or sometimes I use a name or initials—whatever comes into my mind. Some of the letters are very good, and on reading them I find I have stated my mind exactly. In some others I am just kidding. Please print this, so my friends and admirers, wherever they may be, will be able to keep track of their humble servant.

Yours for free service,

Mayor, in Inaugural, Outlines Worthy Aims

Mayor Kline, in his inaugural address, itemized a number of worthy aims.

He would make use of the authorized $6,000,000 by constructing a downtown street car subway.

That will be all right providing an equitable agreement for the use of it be made.

He urges widening of streets and construction of new arteries.

That, of course, will be essential.

He would expand the program of free motion pictures in the parks.

We can say that is directly in line with another of his aims—that to attract new residents and hold present ones by making the parks more charming. Also in the same category is developing and expanding playgrounds.

A major purpose, one not lying wholly within city activity, is developing river facilities by flood prevention plans, transforming wharf space into usable real estate and completing improvements that would encourage river transportation.

That has very much to do with Pittsburgh's future and it is a course that should be systematically and diligently pursued.

His declared intention of fostering our basic industry working for the adoption of the metropolitan plan and encouraging the broadcasting of the city's virtues, classifies him as Pittsburgh's chief booster, as he should be.

He would give financial aid to a commission urging a housing plan designed to rid the city of tenements and would appoint a commission to study taxation with a view of relieving real estate.

As a whole, the Mayor appears to have adopted, as his objective, plans the accomplishment of which will reflect credit upon his administration.

Tax Raise in County Will Not Be Welcome

It is expected the Board of County Commissioners soon—perhaps today—will take up the work of scanning estimates of county requirements for 1930 as a preliminary to fixing the budget upon which will depend the rate of taxation. Should the members do as Council did scant time will be given to the preliminary work. The rate of millage will be arbitrarily set, the revenue computed on the rate and the whole allocated to various works of the county.

That is what Council did. The Commissioners will display some knowledge of their duty to taxpayers if they act differently. It was stated that an increase in city millage would be necessary. Despite protests of taxpayers Council boosted property and water rates. Now citizens are preparing to appeal to the Commissioners not to impose further hardship upon them through a higher taxation reported to be looming in the county.

The Commissioners will earn the gratitude of the public if they insist that there be an absolute necessity for every dollar they are asked to appropriate, that county business be conducted as efficiently as private business and that they will guard public funds as though they were their own. The people are in no humor for further tax increase and they feel that, with economy and prudence, it will not be necessary.

Quite a Dinner

Law, Crime and Drama.

New York's latest interesting crime-wave story deals with the "hold-up" at a dinner given in honor of a New York City judge.

Everybody at the dinner was robbed except a few gunmen present.

Out of professional COURTESY they were not molested. So goes the police story.

Now New York's Police Commissioner says the real purpose of the banquet raid was NOT robbery.

One guest had in his pocket a signed agreement under which he was to be paid $20,000 for "knocking off" two objectionable individuals.

The two were killed in accordance with the contract and instead of $20,000 only $5,000 was paid.

The object of the raid was to get back that incriminating murder contract, which was done.

That, if it really happened, was dramatic, even for these prohibition, crime-wave days.

It seems a little improbable, however, that even the most hardened "knocker-off" would actually sign his name to a murder contract, putting himself within such easy reach of the electric chair.

Royalty Visits the Pope

Pius XI Relinquishes No Part of His Prerogative.

The King and Queen of Italy recently called in State upon the Pope in the Vatican and had a private conference with him in the Vatican throne room.

This, the first visit of Italian royalty to the Pope since united Italy came into existence, follows upon the re-establishment of the Pope's temporal power within his own dominion.

In calling on the Pope, the King and Queen recognized his spiritual as well as his temporal sovereignty.

At peace with the Italian royal family, the Pope is discontented with the Mussolini government.

Addressing a large gathering of priests recently, he complained of the freedom of the Fascist newspapers criticizing the Pope's attitude in regard to the right of the Church to control education and other matters.

The Church claims a right to control education. And the Pope, although for the moment physically in the power of Mussolini's dictatorship, has not yielded any part of his prerogatives of spiritual authority over the people.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

HAVING found a suitable victim, it settles down somewhere on his body, loses its structural specialization to become a mere mass of hungry cells, and burrows through his armour into his blood-stream. By the host's blood the parasite is nourished, and it rolls hither and thither for a time, moved by the currents of blood in the body-cavity.

Finally it settles down in the back part of the cephalothorax, just under the abdomen, and becomes a mass of parasitic tissue; it sends greedy roots into every corner of the crab's body (excepting only his heart and his nervous system, for no provident parasite kills its host) and sucks nourishment from his tissues as a plant sucks moisture from the soil.

H. G. Wells.

Thus, all its chemical needs are satisfied, and the only care left is reproduction; it becomes a mere mass of ova and spermatozoa, for it is hermaphrodite with a halo of absorbing roots, and ends its career by fertilizing its own eggs.

Sacculina is by no means the only parasite among the crustacea. Altogether some 700 parasitic species are known—and these are only a small proportion of an enormous and varied class.

Section 3b. SPIDERS, MITES, and SCORPIONS.

The second class of arthropods, the Arachnida, includes a great number of land-living animals. The better known kinds—such as the spiders and ticks—may be distinguished from other land-living arthropods by their possession of four pairs of walking legs.

Many of the land arachnids possess a curious method of breathing, found only in this class, in the insects and the centipedes, and in that curious little animal Peripatus.

The body is permeated by a branching network of air-tubes or tracheae, stiffened by rings and spirals of chitin and opening to the exterior at a number of places on the body-wall.

Air is pumped in and out of the tracheae by means of rhythmical movements of the body—movements that can be seen very clearly in the abdomen of a wasp—and it is carried by the fine end-branches of the tubes directly to the tissues themselves.

There is no need with a system of this kind for the blood to transport oxygen or carbon dioxide; the tracheae are a device for putting all the tissues of the body in immediate contact with fresh air. But some arachnids have, instead of tracheae, a lung-like structure in which the blood is oxygenated, and a few have both mechanisms together.

The carnivorous spiders are the best-known members of the class. They include, besides the cruel, skilful architects with whose snares we are familiar, a number of prowling and hunting forms which capture their prey by stalking or chasing it, and which have no need of webs.

The phalangids or harvestmen, little round bodies moving on eight long, stilt-like legs, are put in a separate order from the spiders because their body is not divided in two by a waist, like that of a spider.

To the arachnids belong also the scorpions and one or two small and comparatively unimportant orders.

But the order which is most important to man is the great army of mites and ticks, some biting us, sucking our blood, burrowing into our flesh and infecting us with various diseases, some attacking our cattle, some producing galls in our crops and forests, some living innocently as far as we are concerned in ponds and ditches and blasted trees and cheese and all sorts of other places.

The class also includes that curious marine creature, the king-crab, covered by an enormous circular carapace, and suggestive of a small boy crawling about under a tin bath with a broom-stick trailing behind.

And there is an extinct group of gigantic marine arachnids, the sea-scorpions, some of which were as much as eight feet long.

In the remote geological past, before even the appearance of the earliest vertebrate, the sea-scorpions were bullies of their world, the strongest and most impressive living things.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Statistics vs. Figures

THE Census Bureau shows a population of 122,000,000 strutting inhabitants in these lacerated states. Statistics subject to abbreviation by internal revenue sharpshooters.

"Bugs" Baer

There will be no appropriation for clay pigeons for the Coast Guards this year. The boys celebrated the holidays by knocking three citizens off a sea-sled with some very well directed assassination. The Senate gave three cheers.

A population of 122,000,000 indicates that race suicide, divorce, crime and Sunday driving are labels on the wrong bottles.

We don't see how we could do any better by joining the League of Nations.

We are bigger than any nation except Russia and China. And China can't afford to pick a fight with a country with all that laundry.

Our population is about 70 per cent Republican and 30 per cent chiropractic.

College professors diagnose the density at about one brain to a million.

It is a tremendous mob to police properly and it would be top heavy if a thoughtful nature hadn't distributed the saxophone players evenly over a wide area.

We can do everything with the franchised people except park 'em over 15 minutes in the business districts.

Although we do not believe in imperialism or colonial aggrandizement we do need about 16 more stars in our flag for parking space.

We will either have to go back to bicycles or declare war on some more flat surface that ain't too close to fire plugs.

Around 1960 there will be 200,000,000 people in America in spite of the revenue agents.

Each one of them will own a moto car. And if you laid all these cars end to end there would be a lot of bent axles.

The efficiency engineers should invent a telescopic limousine that could fold its fenders at twilight. The fate of America depends on the supremacy of the happy, American garage.

We are increasing by leaps and bounds and skip-stops. In 30 more years things will be so congested that our Army will have to drill on the plateaus around gasoline pumps.

The telephone books are getting thicker and the numbers more evasive. One mail order catalogue will be bigger than a public library and the college football stadiums will seat 750,000 spectators at a clip.

And all these amazing statistics are due to the fortunate details that Washington didn't rock the boat; Paul Revere didn't fall off his hoss and Columbus wasn't overhauled by a revenue cutter.

ROUNDING THE CURVE

By Herbert Kaufman

THE Christmas joy-ride now being over, business reduces speed to swing the long January-February curve.

Sales statements, as usual, will exhibit declines, production drop from the higher peaks, and retailing reflect the lessened consumption NORMAL for this particular period of the year.

Inclemency will retard building operations, suspend road work, reduce car-loadings, restrict trucking activities, and hamper most forms of outdoor labor.

Public service corporations will postpone all but PRESSINGLY required repairs and installations.

Roofers, painters, masons and excavators are now due for their REGULAR hibernation. The industries that supply their trades will correspondingly cut output.

Automobile traffic will thin to a comparative dribble; filling station receipts will hardly meet overhead; and much less gasoline will be refined, shipped and distributed.

FARM work has practically suspended. Real estate and tourist travel will enter the doldrums—department stores minimize their commitments, and general employment figures touch the twelve-month bottom.

Millions of craftmen, unskilled workers and bell-ringers will temporarily shift from the earning to the idle classes and draw living expenses from RAINY DAY FUNDS instead of WAGE ENVELOPES.

Mail order concerns, tire dealers, awning makers, seedmen, agricultural implement agents, sporting goods shops, brickyards and cement mills will retire to the side-lines until Spring restimulates demand for their services and merchandise.

And all these factors MUST in turn influence the temper of investment and speculation, protracting the sluggish movement of securities, which detects slight encouragement for any considerable upward trend, in immediate prospects.

THE collapse of the recent bull market has NOTHING to do with the matter. The situation is SEASONAL, and no experienced balance sheet expects to wear its best bib and tucker between December and March—or June and September.

Prosperity, however fundamentally buttressed, can't escape certain DORMANT stretches.

The projects and expansions responding to the President's call for a practical declaration of national confidence, must first pass from budget to blueprint—from specification to contract. The very IMMENSITY of such programs warns commonsense that they cannot be executed overnight.

Enterprises involving the expenditure of billions, however efficiently conducted, can't proceed faster than sound financing, economical administration and public support permit.

ALL the King's horses and men can't advance the calendar or wheedle the weather to abate, ahead of schedule, simply because farmers would like to start plowing earlier. Or because building is impatient to resume. Or because steel and automobile plants are anxious to maintain maximum records. Or because carpenters, tinsmiths and freight cars momentarily need jobs.

Neither Mr. Hoover nor his co-operating geniuses are miracle-mongers.

The vast engagements to which they are devoted remain subject to natural laws and deliberate processes.

Every portent signifies that 1930 will find the creative forces of the continent abetting stability and encouraging optimism.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

DIVORCE? Should we have it?

You might as well ask if we should have thunderstorms, high tides and earthquakes. These things are natural phenomena, beyond the control of man . . . and so's divorce. It isn't a question of whether or not we should have divorce . . . the simple fact is we've GOT it . . . AND WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

Divorce doesn't happen in courts. It happens in the invisible and mysterious communion between two souls. If, in that communion, those two spirits fuse, then that is marriage. And if they do not, cannot fuse . . . then that is DIVORCE. And neither vows before altars nor decrees from the bench can change this essential fact. Unless that miracle happens, no possible ritual can make those two one, or change two strangers into man and wife.

So the question is not . . . "Should Courts Grant Divorce?" . . . but rather "SHOULD COURTS HAVE THE RIGHT TO FORCE TWO STRANGERS TO ABIDE WITH EACH OTHER?"

Should a woman be able to hold a man to an unwilling alliance? Should a man be able to hold a woman?

Under our present conditions this can be done, with full backing of the court and community. And unless a man buys his way out with a substantial settlement or heavy alimony, he may be shackled for life to a vindictive partner. This condition exists because we believe that divorce concerns society more than it does the individual.

But do such enforced unions really benefit society? Do they make for the happiness of children and the sanctity of homes? And what is the actual result of our smug and sanctimonious legislation on this subject? The result is a lot of dishonest shinnanigans that have made our marital arrangements a world joke. If "love will find a way" so will hate, and there never yet was a law that could keep two people together if they wanted to get apart. Who wouldn't rather tell one lie to the judge than live a lifetime of them?

What's the intelligent and civilized way of handling divorce? Russia thinks she has found it. Russia RECORDS divorce on application of either one or both parties. There is no haggling between lawyers, no bargaining for terms, no enforced waiting, no faked residence, no pleading with the judge. The Russian court believes that if two people can't get along together, they ARE ALREADY DIVORCED. It concerns itself only with the protection of mothers and children . . . and it makes far better provision for these than we do in America.

That is at least a definite and honest handling of the problem.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The dog is having his advertised "day" in New York. Fifteen years ago the most highly pedigreed pooch was banned in aristocratic hotels and apartment houses. Today the more exclusive the place, the easier it is for the dog owner.

The dog, if not too large, is welcomed in many smart cafes and permitted to lie under the tables. If over-sized, a special checking room is provided. A half dozen night clubs have also rescinded the order barring them. Yet why a dog should be taken to a night club is a little puzzling.

This sort of freedom for dogs is largely continental. Over there the dog is as welcome everywhere as his master, and European travelers bringing pets to America began to avoid hotels that refused admittance. This patronage, including many notables, was too valuable to be ignored.

In the beginning, canines were "bootlegged" into hotels, kept out of sight and forced to use service elevators. Today they trot through lobbies and ride in passenger elevators. Some hotels make a modest per diem charge, but that is all.

Several hotels have white-tiled and sanitized roof kennels for dogs too large to be kept in rooms or suites. Here they are not only in charge of expert dog men but a staff veterinarian is retained to see that proper medical attention is provided. Dog owners are showing their appreciation of such privileges.

The management of three hotels, where the rule against dogs was lifted, in response to telephone inquiry said they had not received a single complaint from patrons. "More damage," said one, "is done by a single cocktail party in one day than by all the dogs in our house in a year."

The de luxe steamships now permit small, well behaved dogs, in cabins, although they are not permitted on the promenade deck or in the assembly rooms, save the bar. Big department stores have attendants to care for dogs while owners are shopping.

For market loss whiners: A one-legged push cart vendor of oranges and bananas along Sixth avenue is the owner of a valuable three-storied apartment house in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn. He is 52, stone deaf, a bachelor and his biggest income for one week was $24.

For many years I have been a casual patron of Lindy's, the little Broadway cafe whence Arnold Rothstein was called to his death. It is interesting not only because of its food but because of its clientele—song writers, booking agents, race track tipsters, writers, professional loafers, and theatrical folk. One over-hears much frivolous gossip of the town there and sees many figures of the sporting world. The only place like it was the old Considine bar, southward. Lindy himself is an interesting character. Beginning as a waiter, he has amassed a fortune. While he regrets the nation-wide publicity that resulted because Rothstein happened to be dining there on the fatal night, he admits it brought curiosity seekers from all over the world.

Among addresses on envelopes of mail delivered today were: "Day-by-Day Writer," "One of the columnists," "A fellow who thinks he's smart," "Somewhere in the Big City," and "The Spatician." It is all right with me, of course, but I should think it would make postal searchers pretty mad.

It seems to me there is nothing more pathetic than those ladies, so long known as "the life of the party," who begin to realize they have become bores.

And my idea of the super-optimist is the fellow who has just telegraphed he expects to receive my check for $500 by return mail for a tenth interest in his new play.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

GADDING wives, women who not only use many of their afternoons at social affairs, but insist upon their husband's attending evening events with them, quite frequently may expect upheavals at home.

In these strenuous times, when men of affairs must work at high speed, their greatest desire is to get home where they may rest.

If not home to rest, they want to use their leisure in a way that suits their mood.

They may like to work about the premises, or engage in some line of sport or amusement or study or read in peace and quiet.

There is not much incentive to go home when it is realized that a program will be presented not in keeping with the wishes of the man who has had a hard day's work.

If homes are not neglected and women want to spend their afternoons out, husbands should not object—certainly.

But husbands have a right to decide how they will spend their evenings.

Of course, not in a way to show no consideration for a woman's choice.

But wives should not insist on dragging their husbands out to social events which are not enjoyed by them.

They want some time in which to do as they please.
